

PERSONAL AND LOCAL

Miss Genevieve McCracken left Tuesday morning for Los Angeles to spend the winter.

Bert Anderson, of the engineering department of the new railroad, has returned from a week's visit with friends at Medford.

Phil Metschan, Jr., is in the city from Portland looking after local interests and enjoying a vacation in the delightful Rogue climate.

C. J. Conover, who has been with the local forestry office as forestry assistant for some weeks past, has been transferred to the Sluslaw reserve, and left Monday to assume his new duties.

Sliverside fishing is now good, and many of the big salmon are being caught. Claude Barden caught 15 of the fish Monday forenoon on the river below town.

A train load of new cars for the P., E. & E. electric line passed through this city Tuesday en route to Eugene from the Baldwin locomotive works.

A. P. Stover, U. S. irrigation engineer, who made a survey of the Leonard Orchard Company holdings a year ago for the establishment of the irrigation system there, is again at the ranch directing further work.

Clyde Niles, former superintendent of Roguelands at Medford, now the new manager of the Leonard Orchard Company, has just removed his family to the farm from the Jackson county metropolis.

Joe Wharton returned Monday from a week's vacation spent at Riddle, where he participated in the big barbecue and target shoot, after which he went to Roseburg to visit friends.

Hon. and Mrs. E. E. Blanchard were guests at the P. T. Birchard home Sunday evening to visit with Mrs. Margaret Clark, an old-time Iowa friend, she having resided at Waverly, Iowa, at the time Mr. Blanchard was superintendent of the Waverly city schools.

Mrs. Margaret Clark, who has been visiting at the Birchard home in this city, left Monday for her home in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

M. L. Opydcke has returned from a trip to the Cow Creek country, where he had a weather eye out for offenders against the game and fish laws of the state.

J. T. Logan, the Waldo miner, was a Monday visitor in the city. He says that the Waldo people are all busy and that they are making their efforts pay in the yellow dust which they add to the wealth of the nation.

Miss Elva Wimberly, who has been spending her vacation visiting with Roseburg friends and relatives, returned to her home in this city Monday.

ROUND-UP AT HOLLAND WAS GREAT EVENT

Holland was put on the map in great big letters Saturday when the village entertained 500 visitors at the first big Wild West show held in southern Oregon.

Twenty-five automobile loads of people went out from Grants Pass to accept the entertainment offered by their neighbors, and all returned filled with enthusiasm.

In the morning there was the stock parade, followed at noon by the feast at which the barbecued steer was the piece de resistance, the steer being done to a turn, and with the trimmings of beans, cake, salads, coffee, etc., made a sumptuous banquet supplied to all comers free of charge.

The afternoon program included all the Wild West events on the calendar, Allie Lewis winning in the bucking mule contest, as he did also in the riding of the outlaw horses, thus establishing his title as champion of the round-up.

Bert McKinnon won the steer bull-dogging contest, and Gus Clemens, a 12-year-old boy, gave an exhibition ride on a bucking steer.

There were also racing and roping contests, till Holland looked like the real three-ring circus.

One of the features of the day was the gathering together of the old-time prospectors from the Rogue hills and Charles Bow, the venerable old Chinaman who has followed the lure of the gold in the mountains west of Holland since 1859, added to the picturesqueness of the occasion.

The Holland Round-up has come to stay. They'll all be there next year.

Wm. E. Greene, a traveling representative of the Blake, McFall Co. of Portland, who mysteriously dropped from sight following a runaway of a team which he was driving near Brownsville last Wednesday, was found in this city Friday evening by K. F. W. Koch, a traveling man from Chicago, who was acquainted with Greene.

Greene was in a dazed condition from the jar he received when he was thrown from the buggy by the runaway team, and had a very hazy recollection of the events since the accident, though his mind was fast clearing when he left here for his Portland home on train No. 14 Saturday morning.

Mr. Greene drove out from Brownsville with a livery team, and at the crossing on the Calapooia river one of the wheels of the buggy broke down, and later the lines breaking control was lost of the team.

Mr. Greene was thrown out on his head and shoulders and has only a vague recollection of happenings since. He picked up two valises and an overcoat that were thrown out of the buggy and came to Grants Pass.

Arriving here he went to the first rooming house he could find, where he slept for several hours, and later appearing on the street was recognized by Mr. Koch. Greene failed to recognize his friend at first.

An effort was made to have Justice of the Peace Holman issue a warrant for the unfortunate man and have him cared for by the authorities, but the judge thought that the care of friends was all that was needed, and he was taken to a hotel, where he remained till Saturday morning, when he left for Portland, friends having come down to escort him home.

The disappearance of Greene created a sensation in Portland and throughout the territory where he was known, and the Calapooia river was dragged Thursday and Friday, as it was thought that he had been drowned when the team ran away.

Greene was one of the most trusted and capable of his firm's employes, and it is expected that a few days of rest will enable him to again return to his duties.

Opera House Manager Hanley feels practically certain of the success of his efforts to secure for Grants Pass on November 5 the big Whitney Opera Company production of "The Chocolate Soldier," with a company of 60 and special orchestra of 12 under the direction of Signor Carlos Plevino.

Over the proposition that since the days of Gilbert and Sullivan "The Chocolate Soldier" is the best musical comedy ever staged there is an entire concord of opinion among music lovers and theater goers. The company this year in many respects is said to be better than ever, including Antoinette Kopetsky as "Nadina," who lifted that role to grand opera dignity on the comedy's initial tour of the Pacific coast two years ago.

Denver, Oct. 21.—Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver today declined an offer from Oliver Morosco, a Los Angeles theatrical magnate, to take the leading role in Elmer Harris' new play, "The Little Offender."

GRANTS PASS CANNED APPLES IN DEMAND

The Josephine Growers' Association has received an order for 2000 cases or more of canned apples, and it is expected that the cannery will be started up to make a run on apples and to fill the order.

These 2000 cases will make five full carloads, and the price offered is such that the growers will be able to net a good figure for apples that would otherwise prove of little value.

For canners the fruit need not necessarily be of good packing quality, and in fact none of the best quality is canned. Heretofore there has been no market locally for the culls, so that this order will open the way to an added profit to the orchardist.

The management of the cannery says that the price offered for the canned fruit will permit a return to the grower of $10 per ton, and that if there is assurance that the apples will be forthcoming for canning that the cannery will be started up at once.

OREGONIAN WRITER SEES VALLEY OF ROGUE

Addison Bennett, the special writer for the Portland Oregonian, who has been doing most effective work for the northwest in the articles which he has written for his paper, was a Saturday visitor in the city, and was the guest of honor at a noon-time luncheon at the Oxford Hotel attended by 25 of the business men of the city.

President Kroh of the Commercial club presided at the luncheon, and short addresses were made by various business men and by the guest, Mr. Bennett. During the day the visitor was taken around the country adjacent to the city as thoroughly as the time would permit and in a later edition of the Oregonian his impressions of the Rogue valley will be given in an article which he will prepare.

MORE DAIRY CATTLE FOR LEONARD COMPANY

While drilling a well on the Riverbanks ranch, formerly the Penn-Oregon, the Leonard Orchards Company struck a strata of sand that panned out considerable gold.

The sand was at a depth of about fifty feet, but the gold was not in quantity to create a stampede. The well is now down 110 feet, and will be continued in the hope of getting artesian water, or at least a well of sufficient capacity to supply the ranch with all the water it needs for household purposes.

Four new bungalows are to be constructed at once on the ranch, these to be grouped on the knoll where the old buildings are at present located. The bungalows are for the accommodations of employes with families, married men to be given the preference upon the farm.

Another building to be erected will house the farm implements below, while the second story will be the "Y. M. C. A. headquarters," a dormitory with reading room and office being included in its plan. The two silos recently built have been filled, and the cattle barn will soon be constructed.

Another carload of dairy cows will be started from the east next Monday, this shipment to consist in the main of grade Guernseys with a few head each of registered Guernseys and Holsteins.

SEVEN STORIES OF TRIP TO MARBLE CAVES

Seven stories of the trip of the Mazamas to the Marble caves of Josephine county last spring have been received by the commercial club from the committee of judges, the stories having been written and entered in the competition for the cash prizes offered by the club. The committee had already passed judgment upon the stories, and sends them to the club for consideration and for ratification of the judgment of the committee.

The committee had selected the story written by a young lady who did not accompany the Mazamas on the trip as the best of the lot, but as a condition of the contest was that the writer be one of the party, this will probably be eliminated. In case this writer is not considered, the committee asks that first prize money be given to Miss Mary Henthorne of Portland, and second to a writer using the nom de plume "The Laggard." After the matter of awards has been settled, the stories are to be published.

SNOW STORM IN OLD KENTUCKY

Louisville, Oct. 20.—A general snow storm prevailed today throughout Kentucky. This was the earliest snowfall recorded in years.

BAPTIST CONVENTION IN GRANT PASS NEXT YEAR

Lebanon, Ore., Oct. 17.—The Oregon Baptist convention, in session here today, has chosen Grants Pass as its meeting place for next year.

The selection of Grants Pass as the seat of the Baptist conference came after an ably conducted campaign on the part of Rev. Douglas, pastor of the local church. Three other cities, Portland, Pendleton and Medford, were lively contenders for the honor, and Rev. Douglas is commended for the excellence of his work that landed the big annual feature of the Baptists for this city.

The convention will be held next October and will bring at least 250 people to the city for the week.

CHRONIC DYSPEPSIA

REMINGTON UMC AUTOLOADING SHOTGUNS. ANY way you look at it, the Autoloader is the highest development in modern shotgun design. It puts five loads at your disposal by merely pressing the trigger. It puts the recoil to useful work—to eject the empty and slip in the fresh shell. It saves the gunner's shoulder—rids his sport of annoyances—increases his shooting average. Your danger is that in your enthusiasm over the autoloading principle, you may forget to insist on getting the finest embodiment of that principle—the Remington Autoloading Shotgun. The peculiar advantages of the Remington are too many to detail here. What you want to do is to get one of the Remington dealers in this section to demonstrate them to you on the gun itself. DECISION REGARDING HANDLING OF INSANE

Tacoma, Oct. 21.—One of the most sweeping court decisions affecting the handling of insane patients in state institutions was rendered by Superior Judge Chapman here today when he ruled in the case of H. P. Emery, stage manager of a Portland theater, against Andrew Littlejohn and wife and Dr. A. P. Calhoun, superintendent of the hospital for the insane at Stellacoom. The court held in ruling on a pertinent point in the case that superintendents or others in charge of state asylums had no legal right to parole patients without first obtaining a court order. Dr. Calhoun had been made party to the suit for $13,000 damages claimed by Emery as a result of having been shot and wounded by O. W. Peace, insane son of Mrs. Littlejohn. He alleged that Peace had been released from the asylum while he was a dangerous person to be at large and Dr. Calhoun was made equally responsible with the parents.

The ruling, if sustained by the supreme court of the state, will mean that an average of one patient a day must be taken into court to be adjudged as to fitness for parole, and that the state will have to expend about $30,000 a year for the purpose.

If Dr. Calhoun were to interpret the order of the court strictly, he said, he would not be able to allow several hundred patients liberty of the grounds, and would even have to secure a court order to have a patient milk a cow.

Among those who testified at the trial today were Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner, superintendent of the Oregon Insane asylum at Salem, and Dr. Charles E. Doherty, superintendent of the asylum at New Westminster, B. C. They testified that Peace was safe to be at large when released from the asylum.

Avoid Sedative Cough Medicines. If you want to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia use cough medicines that contain codeine, morphine, heroin and other sedatives when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. That cleans out the culture beds or breeding places for the germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world-wide reputation for its cures. It contains no morphine or other sedative.
