TIMES ARE TOUGH

How many times have you heard some one say that conditions are not good and they don't see what is going to make them any better—that in the big cities all merchants are complaining about business and all of them are complaining.

We have heard these remarks times without number in the last few weeks, and it has been hard, sometimes, to keep our own thought straight on this subject. When a negative thought is poured into you day after day and the thought is conveyed that times are hard and are going to get harder and what are we coming to? It keeps one jumping to stay on the right side and deny all these allegations.

We make our own conditions. If we want them bad we get it. If we want them good and constantly hold the thought that they are good—They just as surely will be good.

In the Illinois Valley we have nothing to fear at all, even if times were going to be bad. This valley could put a fence around it and take life easy and not fear for anything else to happen. But that is not the healthy idea. We want to be a part of the nation and state, and we have resources that the nation and state need, so we are doubly sure that this valley is not going to want for anything. We can take care of our people and live and be happy, even if the rest of the nation does have a hard time. We will never feel it here as badly as they will in the big centers.

So what's the use of crying hard times and that they are not so good. Really, we have found them quite good and getting better. Our faith in the ultimate development in a big way for this great valley made us build our new building which we hope to move into soon. If we did not believe in the future, we would not have had the nerve to contract a huge debt that will last for the next five years in constructing a new building.

Let's change our thought. Let's say, "Conditions are getting better every day and we are doing better, too." Give this thought wide range and see what a wonderful effect it will have on everybody. Talk success—Believe success—Make success. IT CAN BE DONE.

Thought is an electric wave—it travels everywhere. If you send out good thoughts—success thoughts, they multiply and eventually these same kind of thoughts come back to you and you benefit.

Every resident of the Illinois Valley need not fear for the future. We have enough to eat and a place to sleep regardless of what happens, so why worry. Let the world do the worrying, we are sitting on top of it and we know it.

"Change your thought my little man; and then I'll help you all I can," was a maximum my mother taught me when I was a little boy crying for a toy or something that I wanted real bad. This has never left my mind since and when I think of the past, I can see that what has happened has always been the best thing that could occur. Don't cry for something that you can't have. Maybe it is meant that you should not have it. It might spoil your whole nature if you became rich, a hero or a princess all of a sudden. Take what comes with good grace and be happy that you have what you have. Happiness brings more.

Think good times for all—believe good times for all. Our thought is as good as anyone's, and it has the same effect. Think right. It pays huge benefits.

Charles A. Reynolds

Charles A. Reynolds was born in Klamath county, September 18, 1883, and passed away in Grants Pass last Saturday, June 18.

On February 9, 1911, he married Nina Lee Wilson and to this union was born all of whom survive him. They are as follows his widow, Nina Lee Reynolds of O'Brien; Mrs. Iva Torgimson of Murphy; Irven Lillian and Vera Reynolds of O'Brien. He is survived by two brothers, Ernest and Valis Reynolds of Kerby; and two sisters, Mrs. J. G. Houck of Weiser, Ida., and Mrs. Cora Leake of Centralia, Wash.

Mr. Reynolds moved to Waldo as a small boy with his parents and lived in the same neighborhood the rest of his life.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, and interment was in I. O. O. F. cemetery.

THE LIFE FOR YOU TOO!

By William H. Brown

I met him again in Grants Pass last Tuesday—the man who always broadens my intellectual horizon, enlarges my zealous enthusiasms, and quickens my faith in "the best that is yet to be."

An Illinoisian by birth and an Oregonian by adoption he is therefore a great believer.

He believes tremendously in the future development of Illinois Valley.

I do too.

There he and I meet on common ground.

I had heard it said that placer mining had played out.

That set him going at top speed.

"What!" he exclaimed. "Placer mining played out in Illinois Valley?"

And beginning with the discovery of gold at Sailors' Diggings 87 years ago, he marshalled such commanding facts and figures as to set all the martial airs playing at once in my soul.

Later I came singing away from Grants Pass—took Hayes hill on high—breathed deeply of the salubrious air at the summit—followed the fragrant Redwood Highway scented by the flower bordered woodland—saw snowy peaks of the Siskiyou—and came rested to "La Casa Willadora"—the forever heart home center of Illinois Valley for me!

Life always begins anew—when you spend time with the believers.

E. O. Kent of Oakland, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Armstrong of Holland.

Carl Hausle was seriously injured last week near Lakeview, Oregon where he was working in a logging camp, for the A. Anderson sawmill. One report said the doctors had taken off most of the leg, so far the report has not been confirmed.

Paul W. Sauve, of the Standard Oil company, manager at Grants Pass, was in the valley Wednesday looking over the company's property and getting acquainted with many patrons. Howard Bearss, local manager was with Mr. Sauve and introduced him to many new friends.

A. J. Drews and Elwood Hussey were in Portland the first of the week on a business trip in connection with the proposed new water project for Cave Junction. Mr. Drews reported that the trip was a successful one and an enjoyable one. They were accompanied by E. H. Kesinger and Elwood Hussey Jr.

Ferd W. Jones, high school principal, returned Monday from a trip which included a stop at Eugene, and Salem, on school business, a visit at Philomath, where he spent some time with his mother and a sister. On his return he went over the North Santiam highway and stopped at Gates, on business and visited friends. This part of the state was having much needed rain. He found the vicinity of Detroit the busiest place on the trip as logging operations were in full swing and everyone seemed to be working. Continuing the journey over the scenic North Santiam highway he passed through Sisters, Bend, Lapine and south to Klamath Falls and home through Ashland, finding the southern part of the state the driest looking, but the people here well tanned from the abundant sunshine while those north were more pale looking.
