P.-T. A. MEETS

Deer Creek P.-T. A. met last Thursday at the school house. The meeting was opened by Mrs. V. Radcliff and Mrs. E. Barnes was elected chairman for the meeting. Fritz Krauss presented the piano contract for the members to read and approve. It was voted that a program be given February 11th.

After the business meeting a program was presented under the direction of Miss Cleo Haberman. A skit on, "Hobbies and Lack of Hobbies," with Mrs. E. Barnes as father, Miss Cleo Haberman as mother and Peggy Habberman and Phyllis Barnes, as daughters.

On display was wool embroidery by Mrs. H. Krauss, chinelle embroidery by Mrs. Haberman, pine needle baskets by Mrs. Courier. Odd bottles from Miss Phyllis Barnes' bottle collection, woven rugs by Mrs. Barbara Tucker, wood etching made by pipe cleaners and buttons, crocheting and stocking rugs, quilt tops from the collection of Mrs. Barnes. Embroidery work by Miss C. Haberman. A short piece was read by Miss Higgenbothen on a novel hobby of a Los Angeles girl who makes extra money out of gourds by painting and carving them into odd shapes of animals.

Miss Phyllis Barnes will be hostess at the W. W. G. meeting next Saturday night.

Miss Ruby and Ila Higgenbothen, Miss Lois Speaker and Miss Phyllis Barnes made a trip into the mountains last Saturday for cedar trees to plant on the school house grounds.

Forest Service Packer Surprises Prospector

Not so long ago a story was related about a Forest Service packer who started to come home from the mountains just after the first heavy rains started. He had occasion to cross the Rough and Ready creek several times to get home. He had two pack animals and his own horse who had to ford the creek.

An old prospector, whose name we did not learn, saw the pack train take the creek and wondered how in the world he would make it. To his surprise the animals got across there, but just below him was the worst ford of all. Many large rocks are in the stream and when it rains this creek is a running rampage nad treacherous. The prospector started to the packers aid, believing he would need it at the next ford, as the horses had some difficulty in making the last ford.

In the packer went with his train and sure enough trouble started. One of the horses became fouled and with shoulders and head underneath the water, the prospector thought the horse was gone, but the faithful animal fought his way along with a heavy pack on his back and after floundering along, finally emerged on the other side of the bank with the rest.

The prospector said, after witnessing this scene, that he had more respect for the Forest Service packers than he ever had before. He said he had been prospecting all over Oregon and Washington and had crossed many streams in all conditions, and when he saw this packer cross the stream he was loud in his praise for their work.

This reporter was interested in knowing who the packer was and after a little inquiry found it was Murphy Hicks and when he made his appearance at the Redwood Forest Service station, Ranger Nelson said he did not expect to see him, knowing the condition of the creek. Mr. Nelson, also spoke enthusiastically for the courageous work of the packer.

Rainbow Mine Dumps Leased To G. M. Carroll

G. M. Carroll has leased the ore dumps of the Rainbow mine from the owner, H. W. Finch and is now planning in putting in new machinery that will operate the ore on rather a small scale. Mr. Carroll believes that with a small crew the dumps can be worked financially successful.

Many assays have been taken and they are consistent with a $10 average throughout the three dumps, making the property very desirable and a long working season is in prospect for Mr. Carroll.

Look out for pedestrians.

OFF IN THE CORNER WITH PHIL SNORT

Dear Ed:

This letter is being written at the request of members of the Kerby Rod & Gun club, of which I am informed that I am a member. In the composition of this letter I am not trying to please any single person, be he or she a member of that organization or not; but rather I am going to try and convey the truth about the wild life of our locality, its scarcity, the cause of its destruction and its rehabilitation, if any, or if possible, and let the seed fall where it may. In writing this it is not my desire to infer that I know it all, but being almost constantly in this field for 35 years, it is most obvious that I know a great deal about the passing of wild life and the cause.

I started a series of wild life letters—Wild life embraces both animate and inanimate life, without one there cannot be the other—and in those letters I tried to show that it was hate, greed and ignorance that was the cause of all wild life destruction and waste; I tried to show that it was he who killed for sport and not he who killed to eat was the greater menace to game life. These series were started in the Grants Pass Courier over a year, or so, ago, and were discontinued because they were not acceptable to the sporting element. If we are to stop waste of game, we must face the truth and act accordingly.

If we are to restock our woods and waters we must get away from the "science" of man and get back to God and nature. The trouble with us is we try to improve nature instead of aiding it. Propagation by man has been wonderful in domesticated animals and fowl, essentials of the farm home, but when he starts in on the wilds he destroys more than he propagates. When I came to Josephine county, in January, 1904, it seemed that there was no end to fish and game, and old timers told me stories of earlier times that were almost unbelievable, especially to a tenderfoot. I have already told much of this in the columns of the Courier, but in the series for the Illinois Valley News, it may be necessary for me to reiterate some of my former statements as to the condition of wild life, in my earlier days here.

I fully realize that the Illinois Valley News has not the room for long articles, but if these letters are needed by the Kerby club, and give satisfaction to that honorable body, I will proceed to give a short letter for each week until I am choked off and no more desired.

In writing these letters there may be those who do not agree with me and wish to take issue, I would gladly thrash the matter out with them, using the News as a medium for argument. Those who agree with me might also make it known through the News. Come, let us reason together.

Now for the letters:

ACCIDENT NOT SERIOUS

Bill Robinson of Holland, had an accident this week which could have been a serious one. He was standing on the edge of a 12 foot bank working a derrick. The bank gave way, plunging him down to the bottom of the hill.

He was knocked unconscious. When regaining consciousness, he found his head was on a rock pile with his feet extending up into the air. There was no one there to help, but he managed to pull himself together. Bill said it could have been worse.

opening of the Golden Gate International Exposition and a general indication that the public will travel more extensively during 1939 than they have for several years.

While the California World's fair will be the major attraction, many eastern, southern, and northern visitors will be attracted to various Redwood Empire fairs and special events, many of which have become widely recognized as outstanding shows of the west.

February Is Deadline Seal Sales, $23 Needed

The tuberculosis seal fund has reached the "must have" stage, Mrs. Margaret Stanton, chairman, announced last Friday. February 1 is the absolute dead line.

A sum of $23 is still needed to reach a quota of 65 per cent. Four hundred and fifty letters are still out that have failed to be returned with either stamps or money, states the Grants Pass Courier.

DOGS TREE ANIMAL

Guy Stewart and Roy Heyer of Holland returned this week from the mountains, where with the aid of their hounds, they have been hunting bob cats. The dogs treed an animal of some kind a distance away, and the men could not locate them. They returned home, but the dogs had not returned. The boys hope the dogs give up the chase and come home before long.

J. L. Davis of O'Brien went to Medford last Monday on business.

YEAR IN AND YEAR OUT Electricity IS YOUR BIGGEST BARGAIN

Take a penny from your handbag or pocket and hold it in your hand. That small copper is the foundation of the monetary system of our country and consequently the most important coin in the world. Alone it is not of much value. In multiples it will buy all a man needs or wants. And yet a single penny is a poor thing, a small thing, a weak thing. But there is an exception to this statement for a penny invested in electric service does more work, buys more service than any other penny you can spend. Electricity is not only the most perfect service but it is also the least expensive to buy. A penny becomes important money when invested in electricity.
