MEETING "PROSPERITY"

Here is another article on the same theme we have been writing about. We never run out of suggestions on this theory, but we do love to hear it from someone else in another way. The following article is from the Government Employees Benefit association and the author is given as Paul Speicher, entitled "CHALLENGE":

Let us be challenged by the heights to which men like ourselves can rise. Let us be proud of the fact that we are human beings and, because we are human beings, we contain within ourselves resources of strength and power great enough to enable us to climb far and high. I know that there is much disillusionment, much discouragement, much temptation to take the easy way, the short cut, to do the expedient rather than the right. But we are men—and because we are men we can rise above the dull level of yielding. It is not what destiny does with us, but what we do with destiny that determines what we shall become. When a man is determined, what can stop him?

Cripple him and you have a Sir Walter Scott.

Put him in a prison cell and you have a John Bunyan.

Bury him in the snows of Valley Forge and you have a George Washington.

Load him with bitter racial prejudice and you have a Disraeli.

Afflict him with asthma until as a boy he lies choking in his father's arms and you have a Theodore Roosevelt.

Stab him with rheumatic pains until for years he cannot sleep without an opiate and you have a Steinmetz.

Put him in the grease pit of a locomotive roundhouse and you have a Walter P. Chrysler.

Make him second fiddle in an obscure South American orchestra and you have a Toscanini.

Let life challenge you and be confident in your reply, for you are a man and the hardships of life are sent you, not by an unkind destiny to crush you, but to challenge you. Our "humanity" is not our weakness, but our strength. Despite much of the artificiality of life around us, the two greatest words in the English language still are "I can!"

DO IT WELL

We have said several times that no matter what kind of work you are doing, do it the best you know how, and someone will notice your efforts and pick you up and give you a better job. Read the following verse, author unknown, but he said something:

YOUR JOB

Wherever you're working—in office or shop,
And however far you may be from the top—
And tho you may think you're just treading the mill,

Along the Concrete

Don't ever belittle the job that you fill;
For, however little your job may appear,
You're just as important as some little gear
That meshes with others in some big machine,
That helps keep it going—tho never is seen.
They could do without you—we'll have to admit—
But business keeps on, when the big fellows quit!
And always remember, my lad, if you can,
The job's more important, (oh yes), than the man!
So if it's your hope to stay off the shelf,
Think more of your job than you do of yourself.
Your job is important—don't think it is not—
So try hard to give it the best that you've got!
And don't think ever you're of little account—
Remember, you're part of the total amount.
If they didn't need you, you wouldn't be there—
So, always, my lad, keep your chin in the air.
A digger of ditches, mechanic, or clerk—
THINK WELL OF YOUR COMPANY,
YOURSELF, AND YOUR WORK!

OFF IN A CORNER WITH PHIL SNORT

Dear Ed:
Yesterday, Monday, there was a car drove into my yard, carrying a young man and his wife, the man used to play, as a boy, in and around the house in which I now live, and in which his grandfather and grandmother once lived. I had forgotten this boy whom I had seen with his father, Frank Schroeder (the last name is spelled and pronounced differently. I don't recall how Frank spelled his more than thirty years ago, but I had not forgotten his father whom I had last seen in 1912. The place where I live is owned by Fred Ahlberg, but will always be known as the Bonebrake Place. James Bonebrake and his foster son, Frank Stiwalt, homesteaded the land and built this house something like 50 years ago. James Bonebrake was grandfather to Lynn Schroeder who was here yesterday. Lynn came to visit the place of his boyhood days and take pictures. Things had changed much in the lapse of time, yet there was much he remembered: the old house, the well — who can forget the well who ever drank from it — and the mountain peaks to the south-east and the foot-hills surrounding the old home. Lynn and his wife were here about an hour and they were about as happy a couple as one could wish to meet, he happy to review, she happy to view the spot where the dearest people on earth lived — grandfather and grandmother. They were so happy that it warmed up our old hearts to have them here, even tho their time was limited. Yes, it seemed like some of our own, of long ago, had dropped in to see us.

Lynn left here for his uncle Frank Stiwalt's home, on Lucinger creek, where he will visit; also, he will visit his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett, on the Caves highway.

A Tribute

The following poem was written for the late Albert T. Crosby, and sent to the News for publication. The author signs as a friend:

A dear old friend
From here has gone
His labor is over
His rest is won.

Little old man
With head bowed low
Weighted by cares
We did not know.

God, in his mercy,
Deeming it best
Has called you gently
To eternal rest.

We should rejoice
That you have gone
To heaven's bright home
Where love lives on.
—A Friend.
