Oregon Gets Share Of Forest Money

"Forest Service receipts in Oregon came to about $660,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940, and the state treasurer will receive a federal warrant for $165,164.48 in due course," reports Lyle F. Watts, regional forester, Portland. "That represents the 25 per cent which is distributed to the county road and school funds in lieu of taxes. An additional 10 per cent is allotted to build and maintain roads and trails in the national forests in this state.

"Oregon's national forest income is second only to that of Washington," Watts said. "Washington's 25 per cent amounts to $208,142 and California gets $151,842. Receipts are up. Last year Oregon's one-fourth was a little more than $153,000. As private timber holdings are depleted and forest service sales increase, contributions in lieu of taxes may be expected to make up a substantial part of county revenue.

"Oregon's national forests can supply about one and three-fourths billion feet annually for the next 100 years," Watts said. "That is half as much as the current cut in the whole state. At present only one forest, the Malheur, is being cut to its sustained yield capacity.

"The forest service spent $5,935,873.57 in Oregon during the forest highways appropriation, past fiscal year. This includes the expenditures for forest protection, grazing, timber, watershed, recreation, wildlife, improvements and other land management activities, and direction of the national forest CCC camps."

DOUBLE FEATURE WED. AND THURS.

To those who have enjoyed the previous Weaver Brothers-and-Elviry pictures and radio programs nothing can be said regarding the current production "In Old Missouri" which is the companion feature on Wednesday and Thursday's program. To the few who are yet unacquainted with this family of lovably hill folk, let us say that there is a real treat in store. There is music of the hill-billy variety, and a farcial story effectively put over, romance, girls, and good production.

The Weavers carry the thread of the story as share-cropper farmers who visit their landlord in an attempt to learn why they are always in desperate straits at the end of each year. He is worse off than they are, what with a screwy family and conniving business partners. They change places, and from that point on the action is a raucous merry-go-round of knockabout comedy which eventually solves the problem brought up in the beginning.

"The Gay Caballero" with Cesar Romero portraying the "Cisco Kid."

Few Characters of the screen have so quickly won and maintained so constantly the popularity enjoyed by O. Henry's famous "Cisco Kid". From the day "Cisco" first appeared on the screen he has been a favorite of millions of movie fans and today his very name is synonymous with the color, adventure and excitement of the Old Southwest.

"The Gay Caballero" is another of the noted "Cisco" films and it is crammed with new and thrilling exploits.

BILL DRAWN ASKS NEW BANG'S LAW

Proposals which embody the old test-and-slaughter method and the new calfhood vaccination for control of Bang's disease are included in a bill which goes before the current session of the legislature. The bill as drawn up carries three different plans for the Bang's eradication, and each dairyman may use the plan which best fits his herd's case.

The three plans:
1. Test-and-slaughter.
2. Test-and-slaughter and vaccination of calves if the herd has not more than 10 per cent reactors.
3. Vaccination of calves and branding of reactors if the herd
