Another Episode of "Dr. Kildare" Coming

"Dr. Kildare Goes Home" moves the scientific thrill and fun-makers of the Dr. Kildare series from the big city hospital to a country town, in the latest of the Max Brand medical mystery pictures, now showing at the Cave City theater.

A small town "goes broke." Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore start a clinic, with the aid of John Shelton and others. The natives object to health measures that would close swimming holes and old wells. There are battles and wrangles, amid which Ayres and Lorraine Day plan to elope. Then Citizen Number One is infected by the swimming hole, the young doctors, after a desperate struggle, save his life, and the clinic rides to triumph. Treatment of a strange ailment, an emergency operation on an ironing board, hilarious comedy moments between Barrymore, nurses, internes and Alma Kruger, chief nurse, interlard the thrills and romance.

Ayres plays Dr. Kildare more seriously than in former stories, as situations call for this. Barrymore barks orders and draws laughs, and Shelton, a new discovery who "arrived" with Lana Turner in "We Who Are Young" is forceful and handles his character skillfully. Gene Lockhart plays a neat character role as the bluff "mystery patient."

WATER PLENTIFUL FOR COMING SEASON

Chances for irrigation water in the Illinois Valley are much better than they were last year because of increased rains and heavier snowfall.

The rainfall for the first 12 days of this month amounted to 4.81 inches. The heaviest rains occurred when 1.89 inches fell on the 10th and 1.13 inches drizzled down on the 11th or 3.02 inches in 48 hours.

Figures for the January 31st reading of the Althouse snow-course show 6.4 inches of water in the snow as compared with 0.0 inches at the same time in 1940. 3.3 inches in 1939, and only a trace in 1938.

Illegal To Cut Tails Of Cows

Is it legal to cut off a cow's tail? And how about plucking live geese?

These two humane-angle queries were directed to Dr. W. H.

Lytle of the animal division of the state department of agriculture, whose answer in each instance was "no".

A farmer in one section of the state reported to be docking the tails of his cows, leaving them about a foot long. Presumably the tails were a nuisance at milking time.

Dr. Lytle pointed out that there is a law which makes it illegal to mutilate animals. A jail sentence and/or fine up to $100 is the legal penalty. This same law exempts, however, the deborning of cattle or the docking of horses or sheep as practiced by stockmen.
