STATE HIGHWAY IMPROVES SIGNS ON CAVES CORNER

The state highway department had a force of men this week repairing and changing the signs that direct traffic on the corner of the Caves highway.

The former signs were higher than the average, and were hit several times by autos making the turn. The signs now conform to the standard height of all such signs and are attractively lighted with fluorescent lights and are quite lower than they were before. It is a decided improvement to the signs on the corner.
