Special Consideration To Discharged Vets

Special consideration in granting priorities assistance, allocations, appeals and applications for special authorizations will be given to discharged war veterans desiring to establish or reestablish small businesses, Kenneth B. Colman, regional director for the War Production Board advised today.

Instructions have been sent to all WPB industry divisions and field offices indicating that such special consideration should be given to applications of veterans honorably discharged from the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard, since December 31, 1940, Colman said.

This does not mean however that veterans' requests for WPB assistance must always be granted, WPF officials said. For example, if a veteran can achieve his purpose without the assistance requested, his application will not be granted, it was explained. Neither will it be granted if it would interfere with war or essential civilian production, it was pointed out.

However, if no such objection to granting a veteran's request exists favorable action on his applications will be taken, even though the same request would not be granted to other persons under otherwise similar conditions, Colman said.

WPB calls special attention to the fact that the new policy applies to applications of veterans for permission to produce civilian goods under the "spot" authorization procedure contained in Priorities Regulation No. 25.

The WPB policy relates to the establishment or re-establishment of businesses in which not more than eight persons are actively employed. It applies regardless whether the business is individually owned, a partnership or corporation.
