NO PARALLEL

After reading of strikes in various lines of industry over the most trivial causes, while millions of our boys who depend upon production at home are battling for their lives, one lacks words to express condemnation of such practices. And then when one hears the leaders of men who strike, describe them as "soldiers in the army of production," one becomes almost nauseated. With all due respect to the workers on the home front, there is not the slightest basis for comparing them with the soldiers.

To begin with, the worker on the home front enjoys short hours, high pay and is his own boss. If he works a minute overtime, he gets time and a half or double pay. If he wants to quit and go fishing, he stays away from work. If any little thing bothers him, he quits. If one of his labor bosses can't get what he wants soon enough from duly constituted authorities for settling grievances, a hundred or a thousand workers, ten thousand workers or fifty thousand workers walk off the job, regardless of the needs of the armed forces. During all this time, the worker lives at home with his family.

Compare this to the life of a soldier. His base pay is $50 a month, his hours are anything that occasion demands. His work week is as many days as it takes to do the job. He doesn't lay off to go fishing. He doesn't quit his company if his officers happen to ruffle him. He doesn't strike. He doesn't live at home with his family. But month after month, and year after year, he lives in surroundings which no home front worker would voluntarily accept for a moment. On top of this, his life is constantly at stake.

If a soldier disobeys orders, he is subject to court martial, with imprisonment or execution—the verdict depending upon the offense. The home front worker, when he disobeys orders, suffers no penalty, and when he strikes, is in most cases actually rewarded by higher wages or some other device to induce him to return to work.

The least one can say is that the term "soldiers in the army of production" is a misnomer that any honest workman should shy away from, because his activity bears not the slightest resemblance to the activity of a soldier.

IT TAKES MORE THAN MONEY

About the time public opinion in this country reached its peak in deciding that we would have nothing further to do with the troubles of the rest of the world, a handful of pioneers in the aviation industry started development of the first long range bombers. That was in 1934.

In the ensuing few years those pioneers mortgaged themselves to the eyes to carry forward their work of building the world's mightiest planes. They spent millions of dollars on experiments, sometimes only to see them crash into oblivion. Little public encouragement was forthcoming because preparation for war was not politically popular in the peaceful thirties. In addition to developing flying fortresses and superfortresses, air transport pioneers spun airlines across the continent and across the seas. Over these airways American men, in the bitter school of experience, became matchless pilots, familiar with the elements. Then came Pearl Harbor!

The nation turned to those pioneers, to those pilots and their machines. Suddenly it wanted to spend billions when before it refused to spend millions, to make the United States into a great air power. The billions would have been utterly useless but for the ground work that had been going on for ten years in backyard shops all over the country; but for the nucleus of trained men from the airlines.

As our super bombers now roar to the far corners of the earth, we should pause long enough to realize that money alone could not have produced those planes. The pioneers of American aviation had them on drawing boards and in actual service long before the first billion for defense was voted by Congress.

Season for Trout Opens April 14

The Oregon State Game Commission, at a hearing held Saturday, January 13 in Portland, gave tentative consideration to the 1945 angling regulations. The final order of adoption will be made when the hearing is reconvened on January 27.

The major change considered is in the opening date of the general season for trout over six inches. For the counties west of the summit of the Cascade range the season is set for April 14 to October 31. Special seasons, however, are provided for numerous lakes and streams and are listed in the regulations for each county. The exceptions include a season of April 28 to October 31 for that part of the Deschutes River below the diversion dam at Bend and an opening date of May 5 for the Rogue River.

The bag limit for trout over six inches in length is the same as last year: 15 fish but not more than 15 pounds and 1 fish in any one day, or 30 fish but not more than 30 pounds and 2 fish in possession or in any seven consecutive days.

The general regulations for salmon and steelhead remain the same. Winter fishing for cutthroat trout over ten inches in length will be allowed in coastal waters west of Highway 99, with certain exceptions. Bag limit is the same as before, 3 a day or 6 in 7 consecutive days or in possession.

Specific regulations listed by county follow.

Rogue River and Tributaries
TROUT, including Steelhead regardless of size:

May 5 to October 31, open season for trout over six inches. Bag limit, 15 fish but not more than 15 pounds and 1 fish in any one day, or 30 fish but not more than 30 pounds and 2 fish in any 7 consecutive days or in possession.

November 1 to December 31, open season for trout not less than 15 inches in the Rogue River and its tributaries, except that in tributaries above Gold Hill and the Illinois river and its tributaries above Illinois Falls, the season closes November 30. Bag limit, 10 fish but not more than 15 pounds and 1 fish in any one day, or 20 fish but not more than 30 pounds and 2 fish in possession or in any 7 days.

Steelhead are classified as trout and the foregoing regulations apply to steelhead as well as all other trout.

SALMON over 20 inches (not including steelhead):

Open season entire year for salmon over 20 inches in length except that the season is closed for chinook salmon from August 15 to December 1 in that part of the river above tidewater. Bag limit, 3 salmon over 20 inches in length in any one day but not more than 9 in 7 consecutive days or in possession.

JACK SALMON: Open season the year around for jack salmon under 20 inches. No bag limit.

Young Matrons Enjoy Evening

A group of young matrons of the valley held a social for the younger set in the Kumfy Kamp dining hall last Wednesday evening and a very enjoyable time was spent by those who attended.

Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Wendell Lee were in charge of the affair and ping-pong and other games were played. During the evening light refreshments of hot dogs, toasted to one's own desire before the big fireplace, and homemade pies and coffee were served. More evenings like this should be given, that the youngsters may have a good time and be under the supervision of proper chaperons. Come again, ladies. We hope next time the dining room will be packed to capacity.

Mrs. Walter Farmer and family moved to Kerby last week. They lived in the Ben Scone home which was recently sold to Mr. and Mrs. C. Cramer.

Humphrey Boyd left this week for his home in Forest Grove after spending the holiday season with his uncle, Earl Boyd, on the west side road.
