CAVE CITY
THEATER

Mrs. Jessie Leonard arrived in the valley Tuesday evening and although her plans are indefinite she will visit with her son Gordon Leonard, at Bridgeview, for the summer. L. E. Athey who was in Los Angeles for the past week, returned with her.

J. D. Hogue of Kerby is gradually improving from his injury sustained last week when his team ran away with the mowing machine, pulling the mower over his body and breaking ribs and bruising both legs badly.

Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Durham, recently from Minneapolis, have started construction of a residence on their ranch they acquired about two years ago near the Clem Sauer place. Mr. and Mrs. Durham are going to make this their future home.

Mrs. Pearl Kennedy was a visitor in Kerby last week end. Mrs. Kennedy taught two years ago in the Kerby high school and at present is children's librarian in Hood River where she has been for the past year. She was accompanied by Mrs. James Archibald of Grants Pass.

Mrs. Agnes Smith arrived at her home on Caves highway and was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith of Corvallis who visited in the valley for several days. Mrs. Smith has spent most of the winter in Ashland and is glad to be home again with relatives and friends.

GUARD MEMBERS TAKE NOTICE

Captain A. N. Collman wishes to announce that there will be no State Guard drill this coming Friday, June 29th, and no parade will be held on July 4th.

HEALTH CLINIC

At the clinic 13 pre-school examinations were given, nine small-pox vaccinations; six diphtheria immunizations; one whooping cough immunization; three Schick tests, and two medical patients examined.

Those not receiving pre-school examinations can do so at the next clinic meeting which will be July 11th.

Oregon Leader Praised For 4-H Club Material

The organization and materials used in Oregon's new 4-H home-making club project have been highly praised by national 4-H club leaders and are being sent to new state club leaders and specialists throughout the country as a model the state 4-H club office at Oregon State College has been informed.

Material for the homemaking project was prepared by Miss Helen Cowgill, assistant state club leader. Miss Gertrude L. Warren of Washington, D. C., who heads up organizational work for the national 4-H club program, recently commented that the Oregon home-making program is built in every case on real rural life situations and the interests of young people.

"This material is so fine that I hope no major changes will ever be made without considerable deliberation", she said. "It is material to which I am continually pointing with much pride. Yours is a wonderful contribution to the 4-H homemaking club program."

LIME USE GROWS AS AAA HELPS MEET COST

representatives of the people.

The legislation recommended by the President will very likely be enacted. There is of course, small likelihood that anything will happen to President Trfuman, but it is always good business to be prepared.

SAM RAYBURN, Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, known to nearly all of the Members as "Sam", is a short, stocky man, nearly bald, and with a ruddy complexion. In physical build, and in his characteristic forthrightness he resembles Winston Churchill. He is a stern man in the chair but is kindly and fair, and has a delightful sense of humor which he reveals many times during every day of the session. Sam looks, talks and acts like a real statesman. He is quite obviously of Presidential stature.

Mrs. J. H. Dow made a trip to Grants Pass on Tuesday and was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mills of Kerby. Mrs. Dow and Mr. Mills went in for medical treatment.
