

Pastures Require Good Legume Stand

Lime and Fertilizer Essential to Success

Legumes are a "must" in any permanent pasture building program if good yields of high quality forage are to be obtained, according to Dr. R. Dodd of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station.

"The legumes not only provide the nitrogen for additional grass growth and greatly increase the yield, but they also increase the lime and protein content of pasture herbage," he pointed out.

Legume seedlings, however, must first be limed and fertilized if permanent pasture growth is to be assured.

Describing tests made by the Ohio station, Professor Dodd said that in these trials legume seedlings had failed regardless of the seeding method unless the soil first was limed and fertilized. In only about one trial in ten did satisfactory stands result from seedlings of Ladino and Louisiana white clover and lespedeza on disked pasture land in the absence of lime and fertilizer.

but with a top dressing of lime and 500 pounds of O-14-7 fertilizer," he declared, "the greatest degree of success was obtained when seedlings were made early in the spring and where the grass had been weakened by very close grazing the preceding fall or winter. The percentage of successes was more than double those obtained following seed-bed preparation but without treatment.

"Where treatment and diskings were combined, the percentage of successes was again doubled. It is therefore recommended that the land be first limed as needed, then disked, fertilized and seeded."

DDT Use for Hairy Vetch Recommended

Recent experiments at Oregon, Maryland and Wisconsin experiment stations would indicate that the use of DDT, while causing some injury to honeybees, may offer advantages that will overcome these losses and even prove a blessing to the beekeeping industry.

When hairy vetch was dusted for the hairy vetch weevil, at the rate of 3 per cent DDT dust, 25 pounds per acre, effective control was secured. Bees were in most cases absent from the dusted fields for several days following the dusting. As hairy vetch is of considerable importance to the beekeepers in many regions, and as the weevil would soon kill out the crop, the importance of these tests is of considerable interest and value.

Raising of Buckwheat For Rutin Extraction

Buckwheat has been discovered to be a much more economical source than tobacco as a source of rutin, a drug used in the prevention of many causes of blindness and heart diseases.

The buckwheat is harvested while still in its green stage. As the plant will not sprout again, it is necessary to reseed if more than one crop is to be secured. It is possible to secure two or three crops.

Americans Will Greet Easter With Open-Air Sunrise Worship

(By WNU Feature Service)

Hours before the dawn on Easter, thousands of American families will be stirring about, getting ready to attend sunrise services, thus dramatically and reverently affirming their belief in the Resurrection. The Easter sunrise service has become an institution that has spread all over the United States in the past 25 years, and this year it will be greater than ever.

Again nature's cathedrals of the great outdoors in national parks will provide backgrounds and settings for Easter worship from New Jersey to California. Open-air services will be held at the rim of the Grand Canyon, at the base of towering Half Dome in Yosemite, by the Easter Bowl near Stovepipe Wells in Death Valley, among the fantastically carved and vividly colored sand stone cliffs of Zion in Utah, and around a rustic cross in the pines on the summit of Hot Springs mountain.

Mammoth Hot Springs terrace will be the church of the open air in Yellowstone, and special Easter services will be held on Bromide Hill in Pratt National park, Oklahoma. Scene of historic ceremonials more than 800 years ago, the Great Kiva in Aztec Ruins National park, New Mexico, will again be used for sunrise services. Deep within Carlsbad Caverns, 750 feet below the surface, hundreds of visitors will gather for Easter worship.

In the cities, too, sunrise services will be held from coast to coast. From Rodney Square in Wilmington, Del., to Soldier Field, Chicago, and the Rose Bowl at Los Angeles, more thousands will gather to sing and worship as the sun rises on Easter morn. The traditional service at the Garden of the Gods, Colorado Springs, will be broadcast over a nation wide radio network.

Miami Beach, Atlantic City, Seattle, and dozens of other cities have instituted sunrise services. In Washington, everyone from the President and cabinet members to the lowliest citizen will attend the impressive Easter service at Arlington National cemetery. At San Francisco, thousands will rally at Mt. Davidson for Easter worship.

Hundreds of small communities in Texas, Kansas, Vermont, Oregon, and all the other states, will hold their own sunrise services, many of them in parks and public squares, others among the great natural settings so abundant in America.

YOSEMITE . . . Mirror Lake at the base of Half Dome is the scene of Easter sunrise services each year. Thousands of California people as well as many from other states attend the annual event.
