best example is that relating to the cost of butter. OPA kept down the price of butter to all of us by paying 15c out of the public treasury for every pound that was produced. Now we are called upon to pay that 15c. And so it is with most food items. In the case of meat, OPA allowed the meat packers and producers $30 for every 1,000 pound steer that was killed. Annual cost for this subsidy was 750 million dollars. With no subsidy payments, we will have to make up that sum if we want meat. This subsidy business has lulled the public into a false concept of the price of food. OPA has not held these prices down. It only made up the difference out of the U.S. Treasury. We cannot expect to get something for nothing.

We must bear in mind also that OPA in recent months has granted more than 500 price increases. As one commentator said, "It was not preventing price increases, it was decreasing them." OPA was getting itself in an untenable position.
