Above Ground Turnip
Kohlrabi is a curious vegetable. It is an above-the-ground turnip with leaves that sprout out like the scales of a fish. Cooking experts suggest preparing it exactly like a turnip—trim the leaves, pare and slice lengthwise. Cook in lightly-salted water for 20 minutes, drain and serve with melted butter or cream.

Minerals of Pakistan
Although Pakistan has some oil and considerable coal, the major share by far of these industrial raw materials is found on the Hindu side of India. There are extensive supplies of coal, iron and manganese, essential to heavy industry, in the Jamshepur region, as well as scattered about in central and other areas of the far-flung Hindu territory. India's famous sheet mica, vital in radio and aircraft engines, comes largely from the Hindu sections of Bihar and Madras. During the war strategic minerals were discovered in the north-central states of the new Dominion of India.

Soles to Support Muscles
The leather soles on shoes provide firm support for the 18 separate muscles found in the sole of the foot alone, grouped in four distinct muscle layers.

Railway Express Range

About 80,000 persons are employed in the performance of its far-flung transportation service.

Deer and Their Antlers
Most female deer have no real antlers. Reindeer and caribou are the only members of the deer family in which female have antlers.

Garlic for Health
Aurelius Cornelius Celsus more than a century before the birth of Christ, prescribed onions as the best remedy for "the fever." Mohammed claimed that garlic took the place of a common poison antidote for the stings or bites of venomous animals. In modern times, the inhabitants of French Guiana use the herb for the same purpose.

King's Touch to Cure
Certain forms of tuberculosis once were called the "king's evil," because it was believed that the king's touch could effect a cure.

Forests in Arizona
There are eight national forests in Arizona, covering a total of 11,400,859 acres.

Streamline Wiring
Form two to five miles of electrical wiring are concealed in the walls and ceilings of a modern streamline Pullman passenger car.

Light from Match
A burning paper match provides one candlepower of light.

Appeasing a King
In 1677 authorities of Massachusetts tried to appease the wrath of Charles II by sending him a present of three choice products of the colony, 10 barrels of cranberries, two hoghead of coarse hominy and 1,000 codfish.

Long Ways From Home
Homing pigeons have been known to carry messages over 800 miles.

Sweet Potato Candy
Candies having high quality, taste appeal and varied food values have been made from sweet potatoes at Alabama agricultural experiment station. A limited sales test has been conducted with satisfactory results.

Tickets to Heaven
Some of the Chinese temples still sell tickets to Heaven.
