Methuselah's Life Had Longest Span

Methuselah, the Hebrew patriarch who lived 969 years, has become synonymous with Father Time because he lived longer than any other man in recorded history.

Notwithstanding Methuselah's direct descent from Seth—the third son of Adam and Eve, born after Cain had slain Abel—and the fact that he was the grandfather of Noah, it has been said longevity is Methuselah's only claim to history's commemoration; and even this claim seems to hang by a slender thread, considering that longevity was the rule rather than the exception among the patriarchs.

The fifth chapter of Genesis records that Adam lived a total of 930 years; Seth reached the age of 912, and Enos—the son of Seth—died at 905. Cainen lived 910 years, Mahaleel attained the age of 895, and Jared—grandfather of Methuselah—lived 962 years, only seven years less than his grandson's record. Enoch, Methuselah's father, seems to have been the exception to the rule—since he died at the age of 365.

Mikesell, her Attorneys, whose address is the United States National Bank Building, Grants Pass, Oregon, on or before six months from the date hereof.

Dated on this, the 2nd day of December, A. D., 1948.

DOLLIE V. DUNCAN, Administratrix of the Estate of Elizabeth L. Hodgdon, Deceased. 32-4tc

'Open House' Once Marked Holiday

Senior members of the family lament the passing of the 'good old day' when New Year's calls were very stylish in America.

'Open House' on New Year's Day was introduced into this country by the Dutch who settled in New Amsterdam and were accustomed to receive their friends who dropped in to offer the compliments of the day. Such calls were very informal, made and received in the spirit of friendship and sociability; refreshments appropriately consisted of homemade snacks and centered around a large bowl of punch, made according to the host's favorite recipe.

The custom grew with the country and, eventually, the nation—or the increasingly populous communities thereof—outgrew the custom. During the latter part of the nineteenth century, it was customary for those who intended to receive their friends and acquaintances to send 'at home' notices to the newspapers so that would-be callers might plan accordingly.

The majority of such calls were made in the spirit of friendship and sociability which had given impetus to the custom in the first place. However, human nature being what it is, receptions were often 'crashed' by strangers attracted by the prospect of free punch; likewise, hosts and hostesses were frequently embarrassed by guests who, making their seventh or eighth call, arrived in excessively boisterous or mellow moods.

These abuses contributed to the abandonment of the publically announced 'open house' and revival of the very informal New Year's call—exchanged only among intimates toasting the New Year around a very private bowl of punch.

"I am done with the years that were, I am quits, I am done with the dead and the old, They are mines worked out, I delved in their pits, I have saved their grains of gold—Now I turn to the future for wine and bread— I have bidden the past adieu—I laugh, and lift hands to the year ahead, Come on! I am ready for you!" —Edwin Markham

Mexicans Bury The Old Clock

To observe the death of the old year, many Mexican families observe the "old clock" on New Year's Eve by placing a black box surrounded by lighted candles on the living room table. A small clock is placed on top of this casket. The clock lays in state until midnight, then it is stopped, placed in the casket and buried in the garden.
