Australian Ghost Town Hotel Moved 157 Miles

SYDNEY.—All that was left of a Western Australian ghost town has been moved, to reappear in new form 157 miles away. This consisted of a deserted hotel which stood alone in the derelict mining township at Mount Palmer.

John Asbury, of a chain store organization, obtained permission from the Western Australian Housing authority to have the hotel demolished and the materials taken to Kalgoorlie, to build a store and five new houses. The hotel was built years ago when a gold find promised to bring boom to Mount Palmer.

Oregon's Pension Plan Perils State's Finances

SALEM, ORE.—Red-faced Oregonians who found out—too late—they had voted themselves into a financial dungeon, looked to the courts and the State legislature to bail them out.

The Oregonians gave thumping approval at the polls to a $50 monthly old-age pension plan—to be paid to men over 65 and women over 60 regardless of the recipient's need.

At once bond companies withdrew bids on two million dollars in State bonds.

"The State is a poor risk. It's darned near insolvent," one investment expert explained.

Startled Oregonians then learned their pension plan might cost as much as nine million dollars monthly—three times what the State spends now on all its activities. Furthermore, no provision had been made to finance the pensions.

The State Public Welfare commission announced it will send out no further old-age assistance checks until the new law is clarified.

Ship's Crew Saves Lost Rooster From Stew Pot

MONTREAL, CANADA.—This is one ship's mascot that has something to crow about.

When Chips, a rooster, went aboard the British freighter Daghestan in Calcutta he was immediately earmarked for the stewing pot. That was more than six years ago and Chips still has the run of the ship and the ports at which she touches.

Although Chips boarded the Daghestan by mistake and learned his error only when he was far out at sea, his curiosity has not been curbed. His enthusiasm to see the port of Montreal when the ship docked here almost cost him his life. He got too near the ship's side and fell into the harbor. It took the crew three hours to fish him out. Now he leaves the vessel via gang-plank and struts on the dock.
