(By Mrs. Fritz Krauss)

A group of Valley residents met at the Selma cafe, Wednesday afternoon to honor the leaders of the Sewing Classes which were held recently. Readings, songs, and music followed by refreshments, was enjoyed during the afternoon, after which the ladies wearing their project dresses had their pictures taken.

Taking part, besides the leaders, Lucille Steinke, Vi Hanson, Thelma Blue and Sidney McKinstry, were, Lorene Weiss, Francis Burr, Edna King, Thelma Harrington, Ruth Seifert, Stella Stengel, Amy Conger, Mary Buckles, Ruth Whitesell, Nancy Karlson, Vera and Margaret Amer, Vivian Smith, Ruby McFarland, Flora Sandell, Dorothy Kuda, Gertrude Parrish, Emma Stire, Marge Simington, Roberta and Susan Krauss.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Mandic of Stockton announce the birth of their son, James Robert, April 16. He weighed 8 pounds 1 1/2 ounces. Mrs. Mandic will be remembered.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shaughnessey from Washington, were here last week visiting their sister-in-law, Mrs. Selma Shaughnessey.

Arline Buckles has returned from Portland, where she was in the hospital for an operation on her arm. She fell and injured her arm when she was a little girl, which caused her to have several operations on it.

A CHALLENGE FOR YOUNG MEN

Following are quotes from the address of Benson Ford, before the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce. We reprint especially for our Jaycees:

"We all talk so much about the material benefits which we have achieved in this country that I think we may sometimes forget that our accomplishments stand on a religious foundation. Any future accomplishments must stand on the same ground. We can't hope to do anything significantly new unless we work toward high purposes—unless we keep a sound balance between the material and the moral.

"At a time when the whole idea of a free society is being attacked by selfish interests in many parts of the world, it is especially important that we are ourselves clearly so that we can pass judgement on the plans of those amateur mechanics who want to take our social and economic machine apart—and who might leave us by the side of the road with some important gears missing.

"Our responsibilities as citizens do not end when we have gone to the polls and voted. The rights which we have to day as American citizens are a trust we must guard and pass along to our successors—enriched, if possible.

"If I had to select the one characteristic which distinguishes a free country, I think I would say that it is a faith in the individual and a conviction that each of us has not only rights, but responsibilities."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How Would You Say It?

Curley Lawson's cousin from back East and a few of us got talking when he was here visiting, and I couldn't help noticing how different he said things.

For instance, he said, "Lifting that 200-pound bag of cement almost killed me." "You mean sack of cement?" asks Curley. (That's the way we'd say it.) "No," interrupts young Elliott who'd spent a lot of time down South, "He means a 'poke of see-ment.'"

It was good for a chuckle, anyway. Bag, sack or poke—we knew what he was trying to say. It just depends on where you are in the U. S., which way sounds right.

From where I sit, whenever we criticize someone for sounding funny to us, we ought to think how we sound to them. It's the same as choosing your liquid refreshment. I'm accustomed to a moderate glass of beer—you may like ginger ale—but who's to say the other's wrong? I'd say we're both right!
