Infantile Paralysis Is Decreasing In the State

Oregon's polio incidence, although up for the past five months and three weeks of 1949, has been showing a decline during the past five weeks, and the state's hardest hit county in 1948 has been entirely free of new cases this year.

The facts were made known today in reports from the state board of health and state headquarters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Polk county, with 29 cases and the state's highest incidence last year, has been free of polio so far this year. Felix Montes, the Foundation's Oregon representative, pointed out that the Polk chapter has spent more money on its 29 patients than it has raised in 10 years of March of Dimes campaigns. Additional assistance has been forwarded by the National Foundation. Four Polk county patients are still hospitalized.

Benton, Yamhill and Jackson county, heavily troubled with polio both this year and last, have seen their rates shrink sharply in recent weeks. Montes conjectured that the early-year outbursts in 1949 might have been the tail-end of their 1948 epidemics.

The latest count showed the total number of cases for 1949 in Oregon standing at 35, as compared with 22 at the same time last year.

The March of Dimes official noted that a few weeks ago the 1949 rate was 100 per cent above that of 1948.

The newest case on the list was reported by Multnomah county, giving the county a total of nine for the year. This is the greatest number counted in any Oregon county in 1949, although several other counties are experiencing heavier polio when numbers are figured on a per capita basis, according to Montes.

Washington Letter

It is probable this will be the last year in which the assessment work requirement will be suspended. The Administration and Congress seem generally agreed that claims should no longer be held by persons unwilling either to perform development work or qualify for a patent.

The Bureau of Land Management, which administers such claims, is being urged to suggest legislation bringing the laws regarding mining claims up to date. There are many claims in the West on mineral deposits for which commercial demands are so small as to make assessment work an unsound investment. Others are readily available whenever a market for the ore develops, so that development work is not needed to meet the provisions of the law.

Also of interest to holders of mining claims and prospectors is P. L. 115 signed some days following P. L. 107. This Act provides for deferment of assessment work where the claim or claims are surrounded by lands over which right-of-way is denied or where other legal impediments exist. Petition with satisfactory supporting evidence must be filed to secure deferment for a period of one year subject to renewal on application if justifiable conditions exist.

Baking Utensils

In selecting roasting and baking utensils, look for materials sturdy enough not to warp when exposed to high oven temperature. Few seams, smooth edges, and rounded corners all make cleaning easier. Whenever possible, select utensils which can be used for both range top and oven cookery.

OKLAHOMIANS TO PICNIC

The annual Oklahoma picnic will be held at McKee bridge, next Sunday, July 10, at Upper Applegate store, and those who are musically inclined are requested to bring their instruments, and a well filled basket of eats. Coffee and lemonade will be furnished. This is your day to enjoy swimming and visiting. Rachel Gish of Central Point, is secretary.

Shortest Presidential Term

William Henry Harrison was the first President to die in office. According to the World Book encyclopedia, he was also the first member of the Whig party to be elected. Harrison's term was the shortest in American history—only thirty days.

Appreciation

We want our customers, and the people of the Valley, to know how much we appreciate their confidence, and their patronage. We believed in Cave Junction and the future of the Illinois Valley and established our branch, and we have not been disappointed.

We know our Cave Junction store has its limitations, and our store space is not adequate to display a large stock of merchandise, and for this reason, if you do not find what you want in our Cave Junction branch store, talk with our manager, Mr. Hal Moore, Jr., and he will give you a card of introduction to our Grants Pass store. Bring it to us and shop around until you find what you want. Be assured your purchases will be credited to your own local Cave Junction store. Your purchases will be delivered to your home in the Valley with no delivery charge.

Mr. Moore will be delighted to assist you in any way he can, and if you wish, you may purchase your furniture on our liberal payment plan. We will be happy to oblige you in any way we can.
