City Council Passes Three Ordinances

At the meeting of the Cave Junction city council Monday night, April 10, three ordinances were passed:

The first provides, in effect, that no minors will be allowed in taverns located in the city. Accompanying parents does not allow an exception; minors are not allowed in taverns under any circumstances whatever.

Another provides that children shall not be locked in cars and left unattended.

The third specifies that there shall be no bulk gasoline plants located in the city, and limits gasoline storage tanks to 3,000 gallons.

The council also designated the period April 15 to 29 as "clean-up" time, and directs that all residents clear their premises of accumulated rubbish and debris before April 30. If this is not done, the city will hire the work done, and the bill will be submitted to the property owner.

Cemetery Association Plans Grounds Survey

Laurel Cemetery association held a meeting Monday evening, April 10, at the Villair residence on Redwood highway. Harold Bowerman, president of the association, introduced Ernest Britt, mortician and funeral director, who has recently located in Cave Junction.

General discussion took place on the many phases of development work urgently needed at the cemetery and Mr. Britt was most helpful with progressive ideas and offers of his personal assistance.

It was decided to go ahead with a survey of cleared and seeded ground in order to open up new areas for lot sales. All of the directors and anyone else interested are invited to meet at the cemetery at three o'clock on Sunday, April 16, to assist in working out final plans for the survey that is to be made.

Plans were completed for having a metal sign made to hang over the main entrance to the cemetery.

With all of the plans discussed for development of the cemetery grounds there is a great need for more money in the treasury and tentative plans were outlined to hold a mid-year dance, as well as the annual Thanksgiving Eve dance, to bring in additional funds for permanent improvements.

A general clean-up day will be announced later through these columns and it is hoped there will be a good turnout of workers.

While bending over his .22 calibre pistol fell out of its shoulder holster, struck the rock, discharged, the bullet hitting his left side. Foster, who was alone at the time, walked back a half-mile to his jeep and was able to drive to the cabin of Jim Ketchum. Dr. A. N. Capital Parade

By MURRAY WADE

WHAT TIME IS IT?

Migraine headaches are too prevalent as it is without starting more by having to bang around trying to find out whether or not a neighboring town has early time and what time it will be when we get there.

Everyone says there "ottobe a law" making this daylight time everywhere or nowhere. Since these is no such law we have suggested to Governor McKay that he have his office act as a clearing house and assemble a list of the towns that have early clocks, keep the list sharp and send it to the newspapers throughout the state. Not too big, the list would be at home alongside the weather report in a box headed "Tangled Time Timetable."

THE BUDGET BEAUTIFUL

The 1951-1953 biennial budget of the state of Oregon will be something special.

There will be some changes made.

To the 200 pages of figures on estimates and requests submitted to the budget director by department heads there will be added a blank column on the right-hand of each page in the first printing of the "budget book." This is for legislators to note changes made by the joint ways and means committee or by legislative decision.

When the estimates as correlated by the budget director have been worked over for many weary days and nights by the J. W. & M. committee, passed by both houses of the legislature and signed by the governor, the result when printed after the legislature sine dies, becomes the budget in the full and accurate sense of the word.

The new plan of the new budget is expected to save the state $35,000 in printing bills alone.

State Budget Director Harry S. Dorman has been assembling data for the tentative budget since the first of this year. It will be printed late this year to present to the 1951 legislature.

CONCILIATION BOARD REPLACEMENT

Guy Haynes, Carlton, was appointed a member of the state board of conciliation by Governor Douglas McKay Monday morning. Haynes, who is an executive of the L. H. L. Lumber Company, was appointed for a term of 4 years to represent employers. He succeeds Stewart Weiss, Sweet Home, who resigned recently.

The board was created to investigate and attempt to negotiate an agreement by arbitration when a dispute arises between employer and employee in interstate commerce.

BUDWORM PROGRAM VITAL

"We have a wildcat by the tail," John B. Woods, Jr., assistant state forester told one hundred and thirty-five field and office personnel of the state forestry department at a three-day conference this week at the capitol.

Woods was discussing Oregon's huge spruce budworm program to control the pest that is threatening the greatest stand of timber in the United States, which is located in this state.

Seven years ago only a few budworms were known to exist in Oregon and no infestation existed. Now we have over two and a quarter million acres threatened by what is by all odds the most destructive forest insect in North America. We do not know where it will all end."

OREGON MOTHER SELECTED

Presentation of a certificate designating Mrs. Henry Roe Cloud, West Linn, as Oregon Mother for 1950 will be made by Governor Douglas McKay at the golden anniversary banquet of the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs in Portland on April 20.

The governor's Oregon Mother committee, meeting in Portland, named Mrs. Cloud for the contribution that she has made to the welfare of Indian women in the northwest, as well as to community programs in behalf of all citizens.
