What might have been a serious accident happened to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Shaw Sunday morning. They were on their way to visit friends in the country, when their horse became frightened at a passing auto and ran away, tipping the buggy over and mixing things up generally. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw were shaken up and bruised, but neither was badly hurt.

The courts put one over on Cupid last week, says the Albany Democrat, when just as Ellen Stockdell, aged 83, and Harvey Harris, in the neighborhood of 65, were about to obtain a marriage license relatives of the would-be bride interfered with a petition asking that a guardian be appointed for her on the ground that she is incompetent. The matter will be threshed out August 6 before Judge McKnight and in the meantime the nuptials wait.

Save wheat, sugar, meats and fats. It may mean a return ticket for the boys in France.

When you receive a sample copy of the Enterprise please take it as an invitation to subscribe.

It is stated by the Harrisburg Bulletin that Thos. W. Sommerville's oat crop threshed out about 500 sacks, averaging three bushels to the sack or 1500 bushels.

Dr. R. L. Edwards, enroute by auto to his home at North Bend after a visit with his mother in Portland, stopped at Halsey Monday for a visit in the home of his brother John. When he continued his journey that afternoon he was accompanied as far as Eugene by Mr. and Mrs. Edwards and daughter.

A wild rumor that a report had gone "over the wire" that the German crown prince had surrendered was current all through this section Friday afternoon. Like most rumors of this sort, there was no truth in it. It is practically impossible for any news to get out before one of the reputable press associations sends it, and therefore the "over the wire" news (no special wire being designated) may safely be considered false in every instance. Nevertheless we shall probably continue to pay heed to wild rumors. There is always one chance in a thousand that they have a foundation in fact.

Ask Anyone Who Has Used It. There are families who always aim to keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house for use in case it is needed, and find that it is not only a good investment but saves them no end of suffering. As to its reliability, ask anyone who has used it.

Some Sidelights on Halsey Markets

Three concerns are now in rivalry for the cream produced in the Halsey district. Recognizing the town as the center of one of the best produce districts in the state, the Mutual Creamery company of Portland established a station here more than a year ago. The Union Meat company of Portland followed last spring by putting in a station. And this week the Independence Creamery company has put a truck on a Halsey route in charge of a Halsey resident. Two of these companies also buy eggs, and one of them poultry and veal.

There is more hay in the Frum warehouse than was the case at this time last year. Between 900 and 1000 tons are now in storage and more is coming in constantly. Mr. Frum bought last week 694 tons, aggregating in the neighborhood of $17,000. The hay crop is said by men who have been up and down the state to be better than most sections, both in quality and quantity.

Three carloads of cattle went out from this point Sunday.

Some chittam bark is being bought and shipped from here. The prevailing quotation is 10¢ cents.

New spuds are being marketed at 4 cents the pound.

FARM MACHINERY GREAT AID

How One Farmer by Fully Utilizing His Implements Did the Work of Two Men.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Farm machinery makes it possible in some places and at some times for one man to do the work that two did before.

"On a recent trip through the corn belt states I saw on one farm two big strong men, each with a team of horses and a single mold-board plow, following each other around the field," said G. I. Christie, assistant to the secretary of agriculture, who is supervising the department's farm labor activities under the direction of Assistant Secretary Ousley. "On an adjoining farm a boy not more than seventeen years old was driving four big horses hitched to a two-furrow plow and doing a work equal to if not greater than that accomplished by the two men."

"On another farm there were two men on one wagon spreading manure with forks, while close by another farmer with three horses and a manure spreader was accomplishing a larger amount of work in a more efficient way."

"In a similar way the double cut-away harrow, the wide cutter bar of the mower and the binder, the sheaf carrier on the grain harvester, the milking machine, the farm tractor, haying tools, and other machinery are making it possible for farmers to handle their work with a materially reduced number of men."

CITIES MUST HELP

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) In any American city it may come to pass that men who know how to chop wood or pick cotton or harvest wheat will have to close their offices and stores during the periods of seasonal strain and come out and help the farmers. All the other countries at war have done that and we must do it if the need appears.—Clarence Ousley, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Anyone having any of the following articles that they could do without and would be willing to donate to the Red Cross Store of Halsey please leave at the Red Cross workroom: Furniture, clothing, books, dishes, plants, lamps, vases, shoes, buggies, old carpets, tools, cooking utensils, etc., etc., etc.

MRS. M. A. GREENHALGH DIES SUDDENLY SUNDAY

Had Not Complained of Illness—Was Preparing for Church when End Came.

News of the almost instantaneous death of Mrs. M. A. Greenhalgh shocked and grieved this community shortly after 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

Mrs. Greenhalgh had shown no indications of illness on Sunday, although she has been for some time a sufferer from what was considered a mild form of stomach trouble. Miss Ackley, who lived with Mrs. Greenhalgh, left her preparing for church when she went to a neighbor's for the milk at about half past seven. She returned about five minutes later to find her dead upon the floor. Dr. Starr of Brownsville, who was immediately summoned, stated that the death was due to heart failure, induced by an accumulation of gas in the stomach.

Mary Ann Andrews was born at Stamford, Lincolnshire, England, in 1850, and came with parents to America, locating in Illinois, in 1855. She was married to James Greenhalgh Dec. 12, 1867, and they came to Oregon in 1882, living on a farm in Polk county for a year before coming to the farm near Halsey. After the death of her husband several years ago Mrs. Greenhalgh moved into Halsey. She was the mother of three children, Mrs. Elizabeth Waggener and Mrs. Jessie L. Templeton, both of Halsey, and a son, James, deceased. She leaves four grandchildren, Arthur, Charlie E., Clarence A. and James B. Waggener, and three great grandchildren, Lawrence A., Floyd E. and Francis A. Waggener. Six brothers and sisters still reside in Illinois, James, George, Henry and Everette Andrews, Mrs. Rebecca Wilcox and Mrs. Betsey Murray. A brother, Robert Andrews, resides in Portland.

Funeral services, at which Rev. Cain officiated, were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the M. E. church. Interment at Diamond Point cemetery.

Mrs. Greenhalgh was a woman who did her full duty as a wife, a mother, a friend and neighbor.

A Bit of History

It is reported that the Crawfordville flouring mill is to be moved to Lebanon. This mill, the first in Oregon south of Oregon City, was built in 1848 by R. C. Finley, father of Mrs. W. J. Ribelin of this city, who crossed the plains from Missouri with his family in 1847. Mrs. Ribelin recalls the circumstances connected with the building of the mill, which in that day was an undertaking of considerable magnitude. The timbers and lumber were all sawed out by hand and the stone from which the burrs were fashioned was quarried at Oregon City and transported to Crawfordville by oxen. The venture was a profitable one however, the demand for grinding being so great that it was not unusual for people to come with their grain and wait a week or more before their wants could be given attention. The present mill stands on the original foundation. The stones obtained at such cost of time and labor by Mr. Finley are still in use at Brownsville.
