Why don't you wear glasses?
Yes, I, too, wore those old-fashioned bifocals with their disfiguring seam or hump. They wear the mark of advancing years.
Ask your optometrist or optician about KRYPTOK GLASSES, the invisible bifocals.

A Steam Engine Blows Up Nearly Killing The Engineer.

Last Friday evening about 5:15 on the Bessie and Lela Bond farm, the Lloyd Hillary hay baler was baling from a large stack near the barn, when, without the least warning, the steam engine blew up, leaving it a complete wreck.

The boiler seemed to come apart about the middle, the rear end of it falling back leaving the flues standing uncovered in the air. The front trucks were lifted to the front about ten steps and a large piece broken out of one of the front wheels and the cylinder and steam chest were carried forward and were found near the front truck.

The sheet iron boiler cover was scattered promiscuously about, the large fly wheel was carried fifty yards to the rear, while a piece of the smoke stack landed on the hay stack, narrowly missing the man running the large fork.

The engineer, Henry C. Wickham, was caught between the rear carriage on the engine and the wood tender, pinning him to the ground, and in which he received a severe blow on the left side of the chest, breaking several ribs; he also received a deep cut over the left eye which penetrated to the skull. He was immediately removed to the Gourley home, Dr. Marks was called and every possible attention was given him. Late that evening he was removed to his home in Brownsville in the E. B. Penland car, and the latest reports are that he stands a good chance for recovery.

It was a lucky escape for Mr. Hillary and crew, as no one else was hurt.

Mr. Hillary has secured the Smith and Hillman engine and resumed his baling, commencing again Monday morning. He has a large amount of hay to bale in this community yet.

He seemed to think that Halsey was too small a place for a Lyceum course to be a success.

At the close of the meeting a delightful lunch was served adding to the pleasure of the day.

A TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU.
NOTHING that we could say would so thoroughly convince you of the value of Chamberlain's Tablets as a personal trial. We can tell you of thousands who have been permanently cured of chronic constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver, but this will have little weight with you as compared to a personal trial. That always convinces.

"Here's a Friendly Tip" says the Good Judge

Men who know tobacco, chew the best without its costing them any more. They take a little chew and it's amazing how the good taste stays in a rich, high grade chewing tobacco. For lasting tobacco satisfaction, there's nothing like a small chew of that rich-tasting tobacco.
