Miss Nettie Spencer, a teacher in the High School in Yoncalla, came on Christmas day to spend the holidays with her sister, Mrs Quick. She tells us that the word Yoncalla is an Indian name and means eagles' nest and that it takes its name from a peak near the place where at one time there was an eagle's nest with about a score of eagles in it.

Last Sunday night while Jess Cross was cranking a car, his hand slipped off the crank, causing him to partially lose his balance and his head struck on the crank and cut a gash about an inch long just over the right eye and crushed into the bone. Luckily the eye doesn't seem to be injured. He is getting along fairly well, altho it is still a dangerous injury. He was going out to Tulsa station to meet Eldon and his wife and was using Mr White's machine.
