Rice Terraces Are World's Masterpieces

This is a photograph of the Ifugao (gorrot) rice terraces, which are among the most remarkable of their kind in the world. They are one of the many marvelous sights for the tourist to see in the Philippine Islands and are to be found in the Ifugao district of the Mountain province, Northern Luzon.

The height of these terraces, which are held up by stone walls, is from 4 to 18 feet, averaging 8 feet high. It is estimated there are 12,121 miles of eight-foot stone walls in the Ifugao terraces, which is approximately half the distance around the world.

These terraces are skillfully irrigated by water brought in troughs along the precipitous mountain sides over long distances.

How Would You Like to Harvest Two Crops of Corn a Year as They Do in the Philippines?

No, reader, this corn was not grown by one of our local farmers! It wasn't grown in the United States, even. It was grown in the far-off Philippine Islands by Filipino schoolboys. Two fine crops of corn a year are produced in the islands.

The Philippines are doing some wonderful things in the agricultural line. The Philippine government has fine agricultural schools throughout the islands, and the Philippine legislature, composed entirely of Filipinos, is each year making larger and larger appropriations for this important work.

The staple food of the islands is rice, but corn is coming right along in popular favor. Its use was given great impetus in the last year because of a rice shortage. Other important Philippine crops are hemp, sugar cane, coconuts, coffee, tapioca and pineapples. Lumber is also an important industry.

There are hundreds of thousands of acres of land lying idle in the Philippines, which have a greater area of fertile land than Japan—this in spite of the fact that the population of the Philippines is 11,000,000 while that of Japan is around 55,000,000. There is every reason to believe that some day the Philippines will have a population as large as that of Japan today. The Filipinos are the only Christian people in the orient, and their young men are working night and day to prepare themselves for the responsibility of citizenship in the Philippine Republic, which they believe to be near at hand.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Ideals for Christian living.

He that abideth in him ought also to walk even as he walked. 1 John 2: 6.

This lesson gives characteristic passages from an epistle of Peter. These passages are a valuable revelation of the Christian character of their author. This epistle was written but a short time before the author suffered as a martyr for his faith.

"Cultivate forbearance till your heart yields a fine crop of it."—Spurgeon.

We wonder how many of our people have been studying their Sunday school lessons and reading their Bibles at home?

We are glad to see many of our young people who have been confined to their homes with sickness, able to be out again. Others are convalescing and we trust all will be out soon.

These fine warm sunshiny days bring us cheerful thoughts and are harbingers of the spring time which will soon be here.

A Private Wireless Station in Halsey.

During their enforced vacation occasioned by the epidemic of influenza here, John Standish and Ercell Sneed, students at the High School have practically completed the erection of a wireless station, with which they expect to communicate between their homes quite a distance apart.

Practically all of the apparatus is home made. They have constructed their key, sounder, spark gap, detector, anchor gap, condenser, helix and potentiometer. The balance of their equipment they expect to purchase.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.
