About The Singing School

For some time the editor has been trying for a singing class. He offers a specially good proposition. $2.50 for the term and each pupil furnish his own book which will cost 80c.

Besides this he expects to give two concerts during the winter, the net proceeds to go to the church or churches where the class is held.

The time will be on Friday nights, alternating between the two churches, provided the Methodist church is willing, otherwise it will be held in the Christian church.

There will be as many lessons as there are pupils up to forty. At present there are about twenty-two who have promised to take the lessons. That will mean twenty-two lessons. If there are more pupils there will be more lessons.

We would like for those who are intending to take the lessons to drop into the office and order their book as we want to send for them next Wednesday. The class will begin the next Friday after the books arrive.

Attend this singing school and learn to read music at sight, and incidentally have a jolly good time. Increase the class to forty pupils if possible.

Mrs Neal and Melba were Albany visitors Monday.

The Gormley prune dryer commenced operations this week and is in full blast drying prunes.

School opened Monday with a good attendance. We hope to have School notes next week.

Mrs E C Miller went to Tangent to accompany Mrs Opai Higbee to Salem on business.

Mr and Mrs Joe Drinkard of Portland visited last week with their son, Jas Drinkard and wife.

Mr and Mrs T F Bennett and son Frank of Eugene were Halsey visitors last week going on thru to Tangent.

Mrs Elarence Stewart moved her household goods to Portland this week. The boys expect to have work there.

Mrs Bass is getting along nicely and the doctor has said that she could be moved into her new home at any time.

The Bass family moved into the house which Mrs Bass bought of Mrs E A Putman some time during the summer.

W H Kirk shipped two car loads of oats this week which he purchased from Mike Banich for Allen T Clark of Albany Oregon.

Andrew Brown and wife have taken rooms at Mrs Kump's for the time being. Mrs Brown (nee Agnes Arnold) is one of the teachers in the Halsey school.

Frank Kirk and J F Salash left here Tuesday for Pendleton to attend the yearly roundup. E B Pentland accompanied them as far as Wasco.

The printing office will be closed Monday and probably until Tuesday noon on account of the editor and his wife going to Eugene.

Jay Moore moved Saturday from his ranch into Halsey into the Walton house lately occupied by the G Mitzner family. Mr W R McAllister will occupy the place Mr Moore has just vacated.

The windstorm Friday evening blew over the silo belonging to Frank and Sydney Leeper, and the flag pole at the Lake Creek school house. The flag pole fell across the car belonging to M E Gardner who was working on the school house at the time, but fortunately the car was not damaged.

Christian Church Notes

Do not forget the change of time next Lord's day. The evening services will commence 30 minutes earlier.

The very splendid attendance of last Sunday was most inspiring to all and leads us to hope for an even larger audience next Sunday evening. Brother Phillips' sermon on Fatal Foolishness was a strong appeal for preparedness on the part of all in view of the certain return of Christ when least expected.

Tell your friends, or better still, bring them to the services. All may be assured of a helpful and enjoyable time.

With the first Sunday in October there begins in the Bible school a six months' series of lessons from the ministry of Jesus. If you wish to improve your knowledge of the greatest of lives you should not miss one Sunday session. Everyone needs to know "More about Jesus" and this course will afford an easy opportunity.

The Christian Endeavor topic will be "Inspiring stories from foreign mission fields." Ps 84: 1-12. Leader, Genevieve Wells. Church Reporter

Methodist Church Notes

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Review. Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart. 1 Samuel 16: 17.

Sunday we finish the six months' study of the lives of the early leaders and kings of Israel, namely; Deborah and Barak, Gideon, Ruth, Samuel, Saul, Jonathan, David and Solomon.

Israel had developed from a poverty stricken, scattered twelve clans, into a far-reaching, victorious kingdom. When Israel obeyed Jehovah, there was prosperity. When Israel disobeyed Jehovah there was adversity. There have been thirteen Sundays in this quarter. It would be good for us to think back and count the days we have been at Sunday school and church.

The difference between work and play lies chiefly in the point of view. Some people enjoy as a recreation what to others is a daily task, to be avoided if possible. In the religious world this holds equally true. If the routine of church and Sunday school work is accepted as an opportunity for the development of the spiritual side of our nature we thus acquire an elevating vocation, something for which many men search vainly for through life. Let's form the habit.

We were very much pleased to greet a number of new faces in our school last Sunday morning. This reminds us that our day school has again opened and our young people are coming into town and things will be doing.

Brother and Sister Frank Hadley left last Saturday for Coldwater, Kansas, where they will visit his mother and relatives. This will give them a well earned vacation after a hard summer's work. We are glad for them.

The League held their business meeting at the church on Tuesday evening. We are informed that after the meeting there was a surprise for one of our faithful members.

The adjourned session of the quarterly conference was held on Monday evening. The year's finances are rounding up in good shape.
