Linn County Has Farm Bureau Meeting.

At a special call of County Agent Smith, committee members of the Linn County Farm Bureau, C R Evans representing Lake Creek, met Saturday, Nov

27, in the Community House in Albany to discuss plans for organizing Linn county farmers into the American Farm Bureau Federation. Paul V Maris, Director of O A C Extension Service, led the discussion, followed by State Organizer Mansfield. Thirty-five states are now organized in the American Farm Bureau Federation with a total membership of one and a half millions. The meeting voted unanimous to place Linn county with the organized unit and so intense was the interest that an organizing fund of $1500 was underwritten in about 15 minutes. A special provision of the federation is that 20 per cent of its membership may be composed of business men.

A statewide publicity campaign is to be instigated shortly whereby meetings are to be held in every district and community. These meetings are solely for the purpose of acquainting the populace with the importance of the federation. No members will be
