CONFECTIONERY FOR THE AFFECTION-ARY

If the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, as the old saying goes, then surely the right road to a woman's good graces is through a box of chocolates and bon-bons. Of course only the daintiest morsels will accomplish that end—and "best" means Clark's. Send a box today to your bestest.

TREASURES OF BUDDHIST ART

Marvelous Collection Secured for Centuries in the Temple of Daigoji in Japan.

Daigoji, the head temple of the Or-school of the Shingon sect of Buddhism in Japan, situated not far from Kyoto, in the Uji district, suggests by its name its relation to Empress Daigo, who reigned from 898 to 930.
Its name originated from the fact that its founder, Abbot Shoho, came to this village and exclaimed after he drank from an old farmer's spring: "The water was as good as daigo!" It is a Buddhist word meaning an unctuous rich liquor. The posthumous title of the emperor must have originated from his devotion to the temple and its founder, as well as from his burial in the temple grounds.

Rare specimens of Buddhist art and literature, carefully preserved as the temple treasures of Daigoji, and exhibited recently at Tokio, through the efforts of Dr. Katsumi Korota of the editorial staff of historiographical materials in Tokio Imperial university, bring the story of the temple down to 300 years ago. Among the peculiar paintings in the temple are the "flower viewing screens," pictures of horse training and a collection of fan paintings said to be rare treasures.

In the literary collection there is an illustrated copy of the third volume of "Scripture of Cause and Effect of the Past and the Present." It was made nearly 1,200 years ago, but the colors in the picture are as fresh as the present day pigments. This scroll is considered the oldest thing extant in Japan of colored art on paper.

TREES GIVE MILKLIKE JUICE

Tropics Provide Pretty Fair Substitute for the Animal Product in Use in Northern Climes.

In British Guiana and the West Indies, particularly on the banks of the River Demerara, there grows a tree known to the natives as the hya-hya, which yields from its bark and pith a juice slightly richer and thicker than cow's milk. The tree is about forty feet high and eighteen inches in circumference when full grown, and the natives use its juice as we use milk, it being perfectly harmless and mixing well with water.

The Cingalese have a tree—they call it kirianghuma—which yields a fluid in all respects like milk; while in the forests of Para grows a tree called the massonodendron, which gives a milklike juice. It can be kept for an indefinite time and shows no tendency to become sour.

On the other hand, certain trees in the valleys of Aragua and in Cauagua yield a similar fluid, which, when exposed to the air, begins to form into a kind of cheese, which very soon becomes sour.

In the Canary Islands there is a tree called tabaya dolce, of which the milk, thickened into a jelly, is considered a delicacy.

Unpleasant Dreams.

A London chemist, dreaming that he had swallowed poison by mistake, rose from the chair in which he had fallen asleep and, so vivid had the dream been, he went to the shop and took an antidote. But this, in the absence of real poison, began to poison him, and before he realized the mistake the error was beyond repair.

In another case a man, after a heated argument with a visiting friend, dreamed that his guest was in his room molesting him. He actually "felt" rough hands on his body, jumped out of bed, and ran to his friend's room. There he attacked his innocent "assailant" so violently that the latter was confined to bed for several weeks.

Jest of a Jehu.

A London bus driver had cut it ahead of a cabman rather awkwardly brulging upon himself a tirade of abuse liberally sprinkled with profanity. The bus driver listened to it all with a good-natured smile, and then as he clicked up his horses he remarked: "That's wot I calls 'avin' a hornamental address presented to you."—Boston Transcript.

Easily Held Up.

Residents of Salem used to tell gleefully about one of their fellow citizens who was returning late one night in a snowstorm along the old Salem turnpike when he was suddenly confronted by a burly figure that appeared to extend one arm vigorously as if to demand, "Your money or your life!" Mindful of the proverb concerning the better part of valor, continuing Mr. Frederic J. Wood, who tells the incident in "The Turnpikes of New-England," the traveler hastily tossed his watch and purse to the dimly seen figure and retreated. The next morning, with reinforcements, he returned to the scene of his discomfiture, only to experience bitter mortification when his valuable property was found in the horse trough at the foot of the old-fashioned pump, which still held its ground with handle horizontal.
