The Store of Fair Play.

Mr. Leighton E. Blain, our President, conceived an idea several years ago which has in the last few years become quite popular among the big men of our country.

This was the idea of selling stock to the employees. That everyone who so wished might become a stockholder, he made arrangements to turn over stock to the employees allowing the earnings to pay on the principal.

No fairer method could be conceived, and the fact that this is appreciated is shown by the number of years that his men have remained in his employ.
If you have wondered why you have received such courteous treatment in our store, possibly the above explains it; no matter who waits on you, the store business is their business and you will find them willing and ready to please you.

This week is our birthday and Saturday, March 19th, we are going to cut a big birthday cake and we invite you to our store.

Blain Clothing Co Celebrates

We are in receipt of a souvenir booklet from the Blain Clothing Co. It is neatly gotten up and a thing of beauty.

In this book is a condensed history of the Company from its first inception with pictures of those who are connected with the store.

The Company was established in 1865 with L E Blain, S E Young, and John Barrows in the firm. Mr Barrows was only connected with the company one year when the other two bought him out.

For ten years Mr Blain and Mr Young ran the business and then Mr Blain took the clothing department and ran it alone.

From that day to this it has steadily increased, until now it ranks with the best clothing companies of the state.

On Jan 22, 1892, the L E Blain Clothing Company was organized with Messrs Blain, Hammer, and Elkins stockholders. Since that time they have allowed their employees to take stock in the company, until now the company is composed of L E Blain, pres; A W Hammer, vice pres and manager since 1911; L M Palmer, J Deo McClain, sec-treas, and he has charge of the boys' department; Roy Nutting, who has charge of the shoes and part of the men's furnishings; C H Jessee, who has charge of the hat department; A W Metzgar, the advertising manager, and head of the underwear department; and Miss Edith Vanace, the stenographer and assistant book keeper.

At this store you always get courteous treatment and you are made to feel that you are at home.

They have in their show window this week a mammoth cake with 56 candles on top of it, representing the 56 years they have been in business. On Saturday this cake is to be cut and distributed among the patrons of the store as far as it will go.

Methodist Church Notes

SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Cross and its meaning today.

God commendeth his love to us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Romans 5: 8.

Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree; that we being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness.
1 Peter 2: 24.

The revival is on, God help us to read his word, and to pray, not only when the 10 o'clock bell rings but every hour of our wakeful moments that our dear Savior may open our eyes to the wonderful truths of his blessed gospel—that he will lead us by faith and the witness of the Holy Spirit.

To those who have not heard Evangelist Bennard, we firmly believe you are missing a treat.
Not only that he is an orator and singer of exceptional ability, but he has a message for you, which if carried out, will fill your soul with a song of love, joy, and peace forevermore. This meeting is not for the praise or exaltation of any man or set of men, but for the glory of God, and salvation through Christ.

WAS ABLE TO DIGEST STONES

French Historian Has Left Description of Man With a Stomach That Was Remarkable.

Theophile Benoit, a French writer and historian, gives the following description of a true lithophagus or stone-eater, whom he encountered in the northern part of France. "This man," states Benoit, "who answered to the name of Brunda, not only swallowed flints an inch and a half long, a full inch broad and half an inch thick, but any stones like marble which he could reduce to powder. I examined this man with all the attention I possibly could, finding his gullet very large, his teeth exceedingly strong, his saliva very corrosive and his stomach lower than usual—a fact which I imputed to the vast number of flints which he had swallowed."

"Upon interrogating one of the stone-eater's friends I was told that Brunda had been found three years before in a northern uninhabited island, by the crew of a Dutch ship. 'I can make him eat raw flesh with the stones,' said the man who was acting as his keeper, 'but I could never induce him to swallow bread. He will drink water, wine and brandy, and appears to be very fond of the latter.
He sleeps 12 hours a day, but always in a seated posture, with his chin resting on his knees. He smokes almost all the time that he is not asleep or eating.'"

RUGS USED IN ALL AGES

Ancient Chroniclers Have Left Accounts of Various Remarkable Products of the Loom.

In all ages rugs have been used for religious purposes. Up to the present time each member of the Persian and Mohammedan family carries a small rug for prayer. The Mohammedan, by means of a small compass, places the rug where the niche points toward Mecca, where the body of Mohammed lies. He then strips himself of all his jewels, combs his beard carefully, and then, with hands outstretched on either side, he prostrates himself and with head on the earth, performs his devotions.

In Egypt Cleopatra had looms set up in her palaces for the weaving of beautifully designed tapestries. When Cleopatra wished audience with Caesar, she had a bale of rugs shipped via Mediterranean. When this was opened before the Roman emperor, a most superb rug was unrolled, and to the astonishment of the court, the renowned Egyptian queen rolled out with it.

Virgil makes mention of wonderful rugs woven by women, rugs to be spread under the thrones of kings and under the knees of courtiers, and laid upon the backs of horses and in the chariots of conquerors and generals.

The Roman Sestertius.

Sestertius is the Latin name for a Roman coin meaning half of the third, that is, two and half, from "semi" meaning half and "tertius" meaning third.

When silver coinage was introduced in Rome in 268 B. C., with the copper as a unit, the silver sestertius was valued at 2 1/2 asses. The standard retained only one-fourth of its original weight. The sestertius was equivalent to the original libral as; and, as accounts had formerly been made in terms of the libral as, they were now made in terms of the sestertius. After the first Punic war, which ended 241 B. C., the sestertius ceased to be coined. The weight of the as was many times reduced. In 217 B. C. the denarius was made equal to 16 asses and the sestertius to 4 asses. With the reorganization of the coinage system under Augustus (63 B. C. to 14 A. D.) a copper sestertius of 4 asses was coined under the control of the senate. This was about 4 cents in United States money.
