Mobs Shouting for Clothes.

Mrs. Kate Clough Rambo, of Baker, Oregon, returned Near East Relief worker, tells a graphic story of the distribution of a shipment of old clothes received at Batoum in Transcaucasia. She says:

"I did up bundles of clothing, each containing a dress, a skirt, a jacket or coat, intending them for distribution among the women. I took Kappidies (a native assistant) and went in the Ford truck with great bags of these bundles. We drove into the yard at Petsova Barracks. We took out several bags and went upstairs. Kappidies stood by the gate while I carried the bundles to corners where I saw they were practically without clothing. The first thing I knew, a woman snatched a bundle out of my hand; then came another and another. I called Kappidies to come away, as they were turning into a mob. He and another assistant grabbed the bags and we went down another stairs, the mob following. We jumped into the car and had to hold back the mob with sticks. Where the sticks came from I never can tell.

"The crowd grabbed, they screamed, they fought.

"They would have pulled me out of the car, but the chauffeur backed into the street and we tore away. Afterwards we returned and gave the clothes to the head man to distribute to his most needy cases, but they broke the window to his room and grabbed the bundles. Still, after all, I have the consolation that the man is said to have had when someone stole his Bible—it would doubtless do good."

Near East Thousands Need Clothes.

Numberless men, women and little children in the Near East are all but destitute of clothing and, thousands have no covering whatever save the thinnest rags.

Last year America sent 750 tons of clothing. The supply is exhausted and the clothing worn out.

The Southern Pacific Co's Sunset Limited, running between San Francisco and New Orleans, was held up last week by a woodpecker—a red-headed one. The Limited was clicking off the miles toward El Paso when a block signal ahead dropped red forcing the engineer to stop and giving the flagman an opportunity to stretch his legs until the next clear block showed against the horizon. No train was in sight. Investigation disclosed the fact that a red-headed woodpecker, one of the busy kind that builds its nest in the tops of the telegraph poles in the mosquito country, had become interested in semaphore No. 3967 and had pecked away the led wire to the track relay post just east of the signal. As the block signals automatically order 'stops' when anything happens to the mechanism, the feathered red-head successfully prevented the progress of a transcontinental train—and escaped punishment.

"NOW-A-DAYS"

says the Good Judge

A man can get a heap more satisfaction from a small chew of this class of tobacco, than he ever could get from a big chew of the old kind.

He finds it costs less, too. The good tobacco taste lasts so much longer he doesn't need to have a fresh chew nearly as often.

Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.

YOU ARE WELCOME to the already large family of profit-sharing investors in the Mountain States Power Company, each of whom cashes a substantial cash coupon every six months.

THE OLD IDEA of the ownership of the securities of a successful corporation was that of exclusiveness, and from the security holders' point of view, the fewer the better, as there would then be larger proportionate earnings to divide.

THE CUSTOMER-OWNERSHIP IDEA is the exact opposite of exclusiveness. It aims at the widest possible distribution of securities ownership among the largest possible number of citizens. In this way the earnings (reasonable earnings being essential to any industry or individual) are shared with our customers.
