ATTEMPTED BANK ROBBERY AT HALSEY

about 40 feet away the firing began Mr. Walton aiming directly at their backs with the result that Henry Schultz was instantly killed. Taylor and Clark fired several shots with pistols, partly to mark or disable the car, while Mr. Walton fired the second barrel at the back of the machine, tearing away a portion of the back of the rear seat. This deflected and scattered the shot wounding the others, Wm. Schultz, brother of the former, and Wm. Wright, all residents of Corvallis. After the shooting B. M. Bond took an auto with Lee Walton, D. Taylor, Bert S. and Delos Clark and followed in the direction taken by the fugitives as far as Shedd, and finding that they had turned west at that place, Mr. Walton called Sheriff Kendall who notified Sheriff Warfield of Benton county. Sheriff Warfield met them on the bridge at that place and attempted an arrest but the car sped by him and he fired two shots striking the rear of the machine.

Early Tuesday morning the Corvallis police found the shot-marked car and learned it had been taken from a Corvallis street the night of the tragedy. Wright and Schultz were located at the Wright home where the body of Henry Schultz had been rolled under the porch. A physician had been summoned to dress their wounds which led to their arrest, and they are now in the Linn county jail.

Cooley, the fourth member of the gang, was captured later between Divide and Blodget and is also in jail.

In an interview at the jail the prisoners placed the blame for their conduct upon moonshine.

Important Business Change

Yesterday an important business transfer was made in our city when W. A. Ringo, who recently disposed of the Ringo Drug Store in Brownsville to Stanley and Harold Stevenson, took over the Walton Drug Store. Mr. Walton has for eighteen years been continuously in this business and has for some time been contemplating a change. He will remain in Halsey for the present, having no other plans as yet in view. Mr. Ringo will move to Halsey and immediately take charge.

Care of Chicks in Hot Weather

The care of growing chicks, especially during warm weather, is most important, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Every boy or girl member of a poultry club should give the best attention if success is to be had. The baby chicks may be smart little fellows from strong vigorous parent stock, and they may have been brooded carefully for the first two or three weeks, but unless they receive proper care and management during their later growing period they will not develop properly, and many of them will be lost through disease or sickness. The chief essentials to proper growth are good coops or houses, cleanliness, proper feed and water, shade and free range.

Every coop and poultry house used for growing chicks should be kept clean at all times. Sickness or disease starts usually in unclean quarters, and in such places lice and mites are always more plentiful. Coops and houses should be cleaned and sprayed once a week, and clean shavings, chaff, or sand put on the floor. Examine the chicks and houses often for lice and mites, and if found they should be got rid of at once by following the directions in department circular 16, Lice, Mites, and Cleanliness, which may be had, free, upon application to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture.

A variety of feeds with fresh, clear water is necessary if chicks are to grow properly. Perhaps the three most necessary for rapid growth are grain feed, green feed and dry mash, which should be provided regularly, a grain mixture should be fed night and morning, giving as large a quantity as the chicks will eat clean, and no more. A good grain mixture for growing chicks consists of 3 parts cracked corn, 2 parts wheat and 2 parts hulled oats. When available, kafir or rolled or hulled barley may be substituted for hulled oats. In localities where hulled oats, kafir or rolled barley can not be obtained, or is too expensive, a mixture of cracked corn and wheat only may be fed until the chicks are old enough to eat whole oats, when two parts oats may be added to the corn and wheat mixture.
