There will be initiation at the Oddfellows' meeting Saturday evening.

J. J. Corcoran hid himself to Portland Thursday for a "look in" at the livestock show.

Mrs. G. R. Walker of this city left Thursday for Rufus, Oregon, to remain with her daughter until December.

D. S. McWilliams and family, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Stafford, drove to Eugene Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. D. B. Moore and two children motored over from Brownsville last Thursday and entrained for Riparia, Wash., her home. She had been visiting for several weeks at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. J. Boyden, about two miles out of Brownsville.

After a few months' residence on their farm southeast of town, C. S. Fuller and wife left Monday for Portland to make their home. A. G. Hawkins, who has acquired the farm, will take immediate possession and make his home here.

The U. of O. has 1000 correspondent students who take courses of study at their own homes. Of these 16 are in Albany and six in Lebanon. Volney M. Byrd and Laban H. Kimball are registered as residents of Halsey. A. K. Weber and James W. Hale of Brownsville and E. L. Terrill and Mrs. E. Gould of Crawfordville, and many others reside in this county.

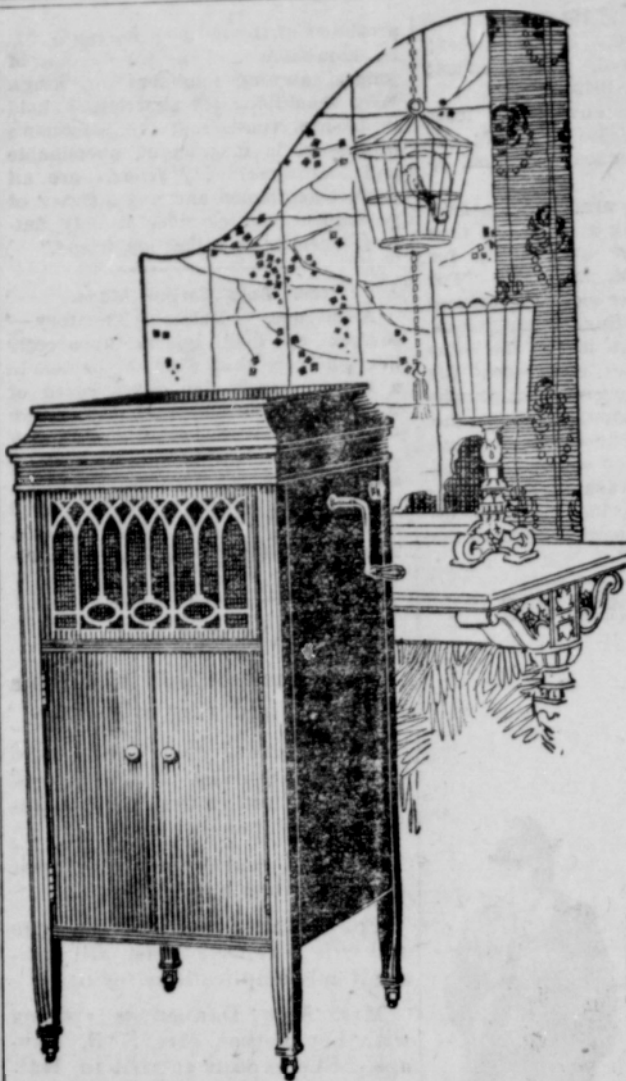

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Dean left Tuesday evening for Oregon City, where at 10 a. m. Wednesday they attended the wedding of their grand-daughter, Miss Mildred Dryden, and Otto Smith of that city. The ceremony was performed at St. John's parish house in the presence of friends and relatives after a short trip the young couple will make their home in their new residence at Oregon City.

The meeting of the Study club scheduled for next Saturday at the home of Mrs. Sidney J. Smith has been postponed until the following Saturday at the same place, on account of the football game at Eugene Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beene and son Allen, accompanied by Mrs. Beene's mother, Mrs. E. C. Allen, and brother W. A. Allen, drove to the Mohawk valley Sunday and visited Mrs. Allen's girlhood home, the Gulliford place. The old house still stands, and many remembrances came back to her as she was helped from one room to another, especially the old fireplace where she studied her lessons in that unsettled valley nearly 65 years ago. She also visited the cemetery where her father and mother lay at rest.

As Christmas draws near the old question faces us, "What can I give for a present?" Did you know there are few presents more acceptable than a year's subscription to the home paper? The price is $1.50 and the entire family gets all the news for a year. All the letters you may write will not contain a fraction of the news of the town and vicinity. We get out a special Christmas number and place fancy cards in each new subscription number of that date, and usually we hear of the welcome visit of the old home paper. Think it over.

C. P. Kizer of Harrisburg and Raleigh Templeton of this place returned from the Portland livestock show. There were 10 acres of territory under one roof where the exhibits were housed. It was a larger show than ever before and drew a wonderful attendance. "Linn county carried off more blue ribbons than any other county in the state," Mr. Templeton says. Mr. Kizer, for his Oxford sheep, took 11 firsts out of 12, 8 seconds, 3 thirds, 2 fifths and 1 sixth prize. Templeton, who exhibited Cheviot sheep, received, 12 firsts and 8 seconds, and Charles Weber's two big Percheron colts won second and third prizes.

High School Essay

"Capturing Hippo." (written by Irene Quimby, freshman, from a skeleton of the story, the writer using her own wording.)

In a large zoo in Chicago there was a very big, ugly hippopotamus, who disliked his keeper very much. Jack, the keeper, liked to tease the animal and get him enraged. Hippo showed his hatred by acting very disagreeable whenever Jack came in sight.

One hot day in July the door of Hippo's cage was left unbolts and this clumsy animal in time knocked the door open and stepped out. He was now free. No one was in sight. My! how he did enjoy the half-hour that he was undiscovered!

Alas! his play seemed to be doomed when a policeman and his attendants appeared. However, the animal gave them so much trouble that at last they gave up in despair. They couldn't fool him, or drive him, or coax him into his cage.

How were they to get Hippo into his cage? At last a great inspiration seized one of the men. Hippo hated his keeper. Why not make good use of his hatred and capture him in the act? His plan was discussed and acted upon.

Jack was doing his regular duties when a summons came to him. He was to run in front of Hippo, attracting his attention, and then run into a certain cage. Jack, accustomed to obeying orders and taking risks, came quickly to the scene and approached the stubborn animal. For one second the animal glared at the keeper. Then, as if a vision of Jack standing at the door of his cage teasing him came into his mind, he made a dash for the man.

Away went Jack, for wasn't his life at stake? Around a corner and straight into the cage he ran, the vicious animal right at his heels. Was it going to work?

The door of the cage slammed, but where was Jack? When he went in he and passed on out through a door in the back, and closed it quickly behind him. The other door was closed by the manager. So that was the way they captured Hippo.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Morrill of Hillsboro, parents of Mrs. Eldon Cross, were guests here for a short time this week, on their way home from Eugene where they had been at the funeral of Mrs. Susan Lowell, an aunt of Mrs. Morrill. They left for home Wednesday morning.

Born, Tuesday, Nov. 15, to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Danuen Jr., an eight-pound boy.

Messdame G. W. Mornhinweg, D. S. McWilliams, S. J. Smith and W. P. Wahl went to Eugene today to attend the Women's Foreign Missionary society meeting.

Brownsville Briefs

Joe Weber is in Illinois, where he expects to spend several weeks among relatives and old-time friends.

Joseph and George Hume and their wives returned the latter part of the week from a three-days visit to Portland, combining business and pleasure.

The ball game Friday between Brownsville and Springfield on the local gridiron resulted in a walk-away for the Brownsville boys—score 70 to 0.

George Evans has traded for the Finnell place, formerly the Powell residence, giving a cash difference between that and his own residence. Mr. Finnell is quite lame from a fall that left him with an injured knee.

C. M. Tyson has built an addition to the second-hand store building he bought last week, together with the stock, and will use it as a blacksmith shop. He will operate the two lines together, with the assistance of his son.

P. B. Beatty is suffering from a serious injury received in a fall from a ladder Friday, in which some of the ligaments of the back and hips were torn loose.

Mrs. Mary Kirk is in a Portland hospital recovering from an operation for the removal of an internal goiter.

The armistice day services at the Methodist church Friday evening were largely attended. The local pastors participated. Professor Barber made the address, and a good one it was, while the schools helped out with instrumental and vocal music. Mrs. Charles Childs gave an appropriate reading that was so greatly enjoyed that she had to respond to an encore. The legion boys had their program earlier in the day, concluding with a dance in the evening.

A. B. Miller is back in the cream station, Mr. Armentrout having resigned.

Tickets for the remainder of the lyceum course are on sale at Clarks.
