

F. Stafford were Albany visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Frum and daughter Vivian were Albany shoppers Friday.

Blanche Forster and W. A. Sweet of Eugene were guests at the P. J. Forster home on Sunday.

C. E. Smith returned Saturday evening from his visit with his cousin, N. C. Smith, at Aurora.

A. M. Henderson went home to Portland Saturday after a visit with the Talent family at Brownsville.

F. W. Robinson returned Saturday from Salem, where he had been to see his wife and father-in-law, M. J. Carey.

Hugh Cummings of the Nebergall Packing company was receiving hogs and sheep from O. W. Frum the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Chance were in Brownsville Friday visiting the former's brother-in-law, Mr. Elswick, who is seriously ill.

Over 400 farmers have applied to County Agent Heyman to be poisoned squirrel bait. Application is should all be in by Jan. 31.

H. C. Davis came home for the week end but went back to Portland on federal grand jury duty. He is home now, court having adjourned.

F. M. Maxwell and son John stopped in Halsey Sunday on their return from Eugene to their home in Tangent. They were guests at the J. M. Porter home.

Keith Crews of Sunnyside, Wash., left for his home Thursday after a short visit with his mother, Mrs. Crews, and grand mother, Mrs. Clingman, west of town, and cousin, Mrs. Edith Rountt.

A. M. Dalrymple, who for a long time was in the internal revenue service in this state, and who now is devoting his attention to assisting people to make out their income-tax reports, stopped off in Halsey Tuesday.

Under the farm bureau W. N. Damon leads the fight against tuberculosis of cattle at Brownsville. A. J. Henderson, whose farm has been selected for poultry demonstrations, will lead in that line and Harry Park leads the fight of the Canada thistle.

Mrs. Pansy Morris, nee Tindle, who has been considered at death's door at her father's home, near Brownsville, is resting better, now suffering much less pain and hope for her recovery have revived Tuesday. Mr. Tindle brot Marie Brown of Salem and Mrs. Henderson of Sutherlin to take trains for those places, after visiting the Tindle home.

Capt. J. C. Moomaw and wife of Hubbard, after visiting relative and friends at Brownsville on Tangent Thursday afternoon, made the Deans and Mrs. Stafford a shock. These are former Coos county people, the captain for many years being connected with a steamboat line on the Coquille river. They now own a good farm near Hubbard on which there is a little sawmill, with which Mr. Moomaw puts in most of his time and gives his mechanical proclivities chance.

The Mountain States Power company, which supplies Halsey with electricity, has made a contract with the Oregon-California Power company for the interchange of power. It will take about a year to construct a power line from Klamath Falls to Eugene, connecting the two companies. Then the burning of coal to furnish power may be dispensed with and, in emergency, Halsey may be lighted with juice generated by water power in San Diego county.

The Brownsville high school dramatic club cleared $61 for the football team at its entertainment.

The Rebekahs will practice Friday evening at 7:30 at the hall for initiation. All members requested to come.

The A. E. F. minstrels did not do as well at Sweet Home as in other towns, but Sweet Home is not a very large place.

Farmers of Shelburn and vicinity are hollering for the good road to Munkers that they have assessed themselves for in the past years.

Miss Edith Forrest, county Red Cross nurse, found so much to do in securing soldiers at Brownsville that she arranged to make a second visit.

J. M. Hawkins, head of the Albany chamber of commerce last year and prominent worker in public enterprises, died of heart trouble at his home in Albany Monday morning.

O. W. Frum will be the leader in Halsey in rodent control work, J. A. Stevenson in the war on Canada thistle and George Maxwell in the war on bovine tuberculosis.

Rodent control meetings called out 228 people at Brownsville, 128 at Halsey, 39 at Charity, 78 at Lake Creek and many at other places in the county. There will probably be many good, dead rodents as a result.

The Rebekahs met in regular session Wednesday evening. At the close of the meeting a contest was enjoyed. Elfa Moore won first prize; George Taylor second. The committee passed the treat.

We have had lone oaks and lone pines and twin oaks emphasized in names of places, but an advertisement this week is at "Thousand Oak Farm," with several chicks, we suppose, for every oak.

J. L. Weaver, son of Mrs. Ella Windon of Brownsville by her first husband, has been for a long time a desk clerk at the Hotel Portland. The Oregonian reports that he has been taken to a Portland hospital for a complication of diseases.

C. H. Elswick of Brownsville's whose affliction with a stroke of paralysis is chronic on page 5, died yesterday. The deceased was a brother-in-law of H. W. Chance of Halsey. Mrs. Fuchs, also a sister of Mr. C., has arrived from Portland to attend the funeral, which takes place tomorrow.

The Enterprise management is highly gratified at the way subscribers have been coming in with their cash during this month when their income is always the smallest, following the holiday trade rush, and when illness has increased the expenses of the family of the publishers. Thank you. May more follow your suit!

Plainview and Shedd farm communities report their projects for last year fairly well completed and have reorganized for this year with C. Cornutt chairman at Plainview and Clarence Brown at Shedd. John and Harry Pugh are leaders at Shedd in raising, C. C. Dickson in bovine tuberculosis, J. W. Sprenger in poultry culling, Ernest Pugh in co-operative dairying, John Pugh in rodent control and three, Cloud Davidson, J. B. Cornett and Ernest Pugh in the Canada thistle war.

The DeMoss entertainment filled the body of the Methodist church with a well-pleased audience, thorough advertising would probably have doubled even that attendance had there been available a hall that would accommodate so many, for this is a popular troupe.

With the Enterprise news-gathering force crippled by Mrs. Wheeler's disability the co-operation of Halseyites in procuring news for publication becomes doubly essential in getting out a good paper. Such a paper in a small town in any situation can be produced only by co-operation of editor and public and our thanks are due to the many who give help along this line.

MAY TAKE NEW CENSUS IN 1925

Considerable Dissatisfaction Expressed Over Count Made Year Ago.

REPRESENTATION IS AFFECTED

Census Taking in January Is Disapproved on Ground That Weather in That Month Is Serious Handicap.

Washington.—Because of "considerable dissatisfaction" with the result of the count in the census taken last January, the house census committee is considering legislation providing for another enumeration of the population of the United States in 1925, or some other year prior to the next decennial census. Secretary Hoover says in that portion of his annual report dealing with the activities of the census bureau.

"This proposed legislation has my approval," Mr. Hoover says, adding that "it has frequently been contended that the distribution of the population as shown by the reports of the fourteenth census is abnormal," and that prior to that enumeration there was a great movement from rural to urban districts which, since the enumeration, has been neutralized in large measure by a reverse movement.

Affects Congress Representation. "Further, it is said, that this shifting of the population affected the totals for certain states, thus influencing the apportionment of representatives in congress."

Census taking in January is disapproved on the ground that the weather in that month is a serious handicap to the enumerators, delaying the work and making it necessary "to take unusual precautions to insure a complete canvass."

The report says that the time for taking the next census should be in April, as was the case before the last census. The change for the last census was made, it says, at the request of various interests making use of agricultural statistics, the idea being that more accurate statistics could be obtained concerning the activities of the farms if the canvass was made shortly after the end of the year to which it related.

Mr. Hoover also says that the new director of the census, William M. Stewart, is of the opinion that, in order to advance the work of subsequent censuses, it will be necessary that changes be made in methods of procedure, if not in the scope, of some of the inquiries.

"It would hasten the publication of the figures for the total population," the report says, "if the supervisors in the various districts made the preliminary count and announced the population, subject to correction, for the political subdivisions of their districts."

To avoid duplication of effort and eliminate annoyance to manufacturers and others, the commerce secretary has asked the director of the census to negotiate with other statistical bureaus of the federal government looking to a consolidation of effort in this direction.

Receive Many Complaints.

"Many complaints have been received from manufacturers and others concerning the numerous requests made by the federal bureaus for statistical and other information," Mr. Hoover says. "I feel confident that in many instances the periodic investigations of the bureau of census are all that is necessary to make, and that the investigation of the other bureaus could, with advantage, be discontinued."

Calling attention to the fact that some census records were destroyed in a recent fire in the department of commerce building, Mr. Hoover declares that a hall of records in which these documents can be stored and conveniently examined is urgently needed.

Keeps Cats From Bakeries.

Boston.—The cat in the bakery must go. This is one of the orders just promulgated by the city health department, under authority of an act passed by the last legislature.

"Some bakers thought that cats were necessary in order to keep rats and mice away," said Dr. P. H. Mulowney, deputy health commissioner, in charge of the food inspection division. "The same object can be obtained, however, by proper physical construction of the baking plant, so we have abolished cats and all other animals."

IF YOU CARE FOR CALVES

- Don't slaughter or sell a heifer calf from a profitable cow. Raise it.
- Don't keep your cows in a dark, damp, dirty pen.
- Don't overfeed them.
- Don't feed milk at 100 degrees temperature one time and 80 degrees the next time.
- Don't feed sweet milk one time and sour milk the next time.
- Don't feed from dirty buckets and never from a trough.
- Doing any of the last five things is apt to cause "scours" and "stunted calves."
- Don't feed the grain in the milk; feed it dry. Chewing it aids digestion. Mixing it in milk means more scours.
- Don't feed the foam that forms on milk as it comes from the separator, nor that on whole fresh milk. Foam is bubbles—bubbles are full of gas and gas causes colic and sometimes scours.
- Don't expose young stock to cold, bleak weather, nor allow them to drink very cold water in winter.

It is the psychology of youth turning into manhood

Ramsey Milholland
By Booth Tarkington

One's first impression is of a very strange, intensely reserved, almost stupid boy. Reading on we see the author's purpose. We witness the actual unfolding of a character and the development of that slow but clear thinking which makes for irrefutable logic and unalterable decisions.

There is a girl, brilliant in the extreme, who by the malicious jests of fate, is made constantly to hamper and outshine the boy. Finally we see her character yielding to, reshaped and eventually remade, by the sterner qualities of the boy.

Told with all of Tarkington's insight into the mind and heart of youth and with all his genius for depiction, narrative and humor. One of his best stories.

RECALLS DAYS OF MEXICAN EMPIRE

American Widow of a Diplomat Talks of Days of Maximilian and Charlotte.

IS MORE THAN 80 YEARS OLD

Former Lady in Waiting Describes Emperor as "Beautiful Character, Sympathetic and Capable, but Too Amiable."

Mexico City.—A shriveled, gray-haired little woman, almost blind and living wholly alone, sits all day in her chair before the window of her tiny apartment in Mexico City and dreams of the days of the Mexican empire when the Austrian Archduke Maximilian ruled the destinies of the nation from 1864 to 1867. She is Senora Marie Othelia Jordan de Degollado, scion of an old Virginia family and wife of the late Gen. Mariana Degollado, member of a family famous in Mexican history.

During the three tragic years of Maximilian's reign she was a lady in waiting to Empress Charlotte, the "sad princess of Europe," and to the correspondent she recently recalled some interesting memories of court days during the Mexican empire.

Praise for Maximilian. Maximilian, the ill-fated Austrian prince, who was set up as head of the empire by Napoleon III, in 1864, and three years later was shot as an usurper by order of the Mexican president, Juarez, was described by Senora Degollado as "a beautiful character, sympathetic and capable, but too amiable to govern a nation of malcontents."

Empress Charlotte, daughter of Leopold I, King of the Belgians, who is still living in Brussels, according to Senora Degollado, was "an ambitious genius, who was always striving to advance her husband, and whose mind became unbalanced when she found the path blocked." Senora Degollado has never seen the empress since she departed from Mexico City in July, 1869, to plead the cause of the empire before the French monarch and later to go to Rome to attempt to secure the good offices of the pope.

So far as she knows no direct word has been received in Mexico from Charlotte in more than fifteen years, and that only an incoherent note to the wife of a former high Mexican official.

"The empress left hurriedly on her European trip," said Senora Degollado, who, despite her 80-odd years, retains a remarkably clear memory, "and was accompanied only by her personal maids. For many days prior to her departure, there were evidences of her falling reason, and we were not surprised to hear of her acute affliction several months later. I am positive that there is absolutely no truth in the reports that she was poisoned before she left Mexico. And the emperor! He was possessed of very kind element of nature. He was too good. He listened to treacherous advice and was shot. That day was an evil one for Mexico."

Fled to Guatemala.

Senora Degollado was in Mexico City when Maximilian was shot in Queretaro, and, although she had an opportunity to view the body before it was shipped to Vienna, she declined, preferring to remember him as she knew him. Within a few days after the emperor's death, she and her husband fled to Guatemala, where they lived for several years until Porfirio Diaz became president of Mexico.

Born in Norfolk, Va., Miss Marie Jordan went to Washington with her father during the early days of the Civil war, and there met Mariana Degollado, who was attached to the Mexican embassy. They were married in Washington and later came to Mexico, where her husband's father, Gen. Santos Degollado, was one of the most prominent men of the day. A street and plaza in Mexico City still bear his name.

GOOD BULLS RAISE AVERAGE

Improvement From Use of Meritorious Sires Forcibly Suggested by Tabulations.

According to tabulations made by the dairy division, the use of 11 purebred bulls on purebred cows resulted in an average improvement in the annual production of the daughters as compared with their dams of 50 pounds of butterfat each. This forcibly suggests the improvement that is likely to come in an ordinary herd from the use of meritorious bulls.

Whence comes the British Guinea.

The mystery of that dreadful uncolored unit of barter in England known as the "guinea," which is abstracted from the pocket in place of the pound, very much to the damage of the metric and all other systems, seems to have been solved at last. Now the pound is 20 shillings and the guinea is 21 shillings, so that it is cherished by hotels and lodging houses because it is divisible by seven.
