Next Thursday evening at the theater there will be given a two-hour drama entitled "The Old District School" by local talent of twenty characters. Go and you will laugh. Go and see the spanking machine.

The Harrisburg Bulletin sticks to its claim that that city has the earliest lambs and says that Julius Falk has a lamb that was born Oct. 10. That's nothing. There were lambs born at Halsey nearly a year earlier than that.

Judge Bilyeu announces that those who fail to pay the state dog license of $1 each for male and $2 for female dogs will be fined if convicted before him. Other judges are likewise on the job, so dog owners are likely to contribute to the fund to be used in paying for sheep killed by canines.

The Methodists will begin revival meetings Feb. 19. The services of Rev. E. B. Parrott and wife of St. Paul, Minn., have been obtained. These good people have been in evangelistic work for some time and come highly recommended. Mrs. Parrott has charge of the song service. Let the whole community take an interest and all join in one big effort to win people to Christ.

Wednesday evening of next week the Boy Scouts of Halsey will have a father-and-son banquet. All fathers of scouts are requested to attend E. E. McWain, scout executive of Linn and Benton counties, will be present and address the gathering. Wednesday, being the 8th of February, will be the birthday anniversary of the organization and its celebration will last until the night of the 14th.

The Boys' Booster class of the M. E. Sunday school entertained their teacher, B. M. Bond, and his wife, Rev. C. T. Cook and wife and Mrs. Mornhinweg's class Tuesday evening at the home of D. S. McWilliams. A very happy time was manifest. Contesting games were the entertainment. Mrs. McWilliams and Mrs. C. H. Koontz served refreshments. Additional guests were C. H. Koontz, D. S. McWilliams and Claude Cook.

Seio boys' and girls' teams will play basketball at the Frum warehouse Saturday night with the Halsey high school teams and games worth seeing are expected. Besides, they may be the last games of the season. The Enterprise has a good reporter engaged to take them in.

W. H. Robertson has a large family, and his father with a broken hip lives with him, and his house near the Baptist church is small. Mrs. M. A. Kump's house on railroad street is large and her family includes only herself and her daughter. The two families have decided to even things up by swapping homes and both will move some time this month, they expect.

The catalog of Murphy's seed store of Albany, advertised in last week's Enterprise, was printed by an Albany printing house and is a handsome job. A Portland seed house, which advises Oregonians to buy seeds from an Oregon house, sends out a catalog bearing the imprint of a Chicago printer. If you send money to Murphy's store for seeds, plants, bulbs or trees, it is likely to flow out into the home country again. Buy at home from those who buy at home.

The trapdoor in the bottom of a coal car, through which the contents are usually unloaded into a chute, became unfastened as it stood on a Halsey side track and railroad men had a good-sized job on hand Tuesday trying to close the door with coal pressing it open and pouring out on the track.

WAISTLINE IS LOW

Long Bodices Slightly Blousing; Pagoda Sleeves.

Silhouette Remains Practically Unchanged in Mid-Winter Showings by French Dressmakers.

The silhouette remains practically unchanged in the mid-winter showings of clothes by the French dressmakers, writes a Paris fashion correspondent. The waistline is very low—long bodices are slightly blousing. Skirts flare toward the bottom and sleeves are long, the short sleeve being the exception. Sleeves are of the pagoda type, or they may be caught in at the wrist. There are a few tight-fitting sleeves, some full ones with the fullness gathered into the wrist and many that are wide and straight. Many show fanciful slashings, through which a bright colored undersleeve is revealed. Red is still a favorite color for facing wide sleeves as well as for undersleeves.

The long, floating scarf of a contrasting color is a feature of Jenny's afternoon and evening dresses. Even serge dresses in her collection exploit this idea. Frequently the scarf is of silk, such as foulard. Skirts are longer, the hem being about six inches from the ground. The perfectly slim, straight skirt is being rapidly replaced by the one of circular cut. In most instances the ripples appear at the sides only, the back and front hanging in straight lines. Hem lines are irregular. The effect of an uneven hem is not obtained through panels as frequently as it was last season. The wide floating panel is passing. It has served its purpose—that of producing an uneven appearance at the bottom of the skirt.

models designed for travel southward. Georgette is still shown and has many effective treatments. The waving status of this silk may be gauged to some extent, by the declaration of some blouse authorities that it is "dead." This is an exaggeration, however, as it is well thought of and well used by many manufacturers.

NEW LACE SHAWLS

Models From Paris to Replace Silk for Summer.

Foundation is Brussels-Net and Sometimes a Net With Fine Thread but Coarse Mesh.

That lace shawls in exquisite coloring are likely to replace the now popular silk ones for summer wear seems evident from models brought over from Paris. The foundation for these shawls is Brussels net, and sometimes a net with a fine thread but coarse mesh that reminds one of veilings. This is black with color introduced through embroidery.

One model is a large square, embroidered with a wide border of Paisley design and coloring. The net is black, while the warm blues, yellows, and especially rose of the silks, are repeated in the silk fringe about six inches long.

Several of the shawls are shaped similar to a half moon because, it is said, this type drapes more gracefully than the square or oblong. A model of this kind comes in black net with black silk fringe. The body of the shawl is braided in a running design as a border, and with scrolls and plumes. White wooden beads are used to emphasize the scrolls.

Gauze fans with painted birds, butterflies and flowers compose an interesting part of one collection. The colorings are very soft, quite different from those of the vivid feather fans recently used. In dull blues, greens and yellows, they are designed with an eye to harmonizing with light summer frocks.

One model shows three birds painted on satin and applique. The entire fan is in various shades of gray, while two others are the same design in blue and dull orange respectively. A pheasant in soft browns, a peacock, a dragonfly in deep blue make motifs for other designs.

A few of the fans are embroidered lightly in silk of the same color as the gauze. These use spangles sparingly. One Dresden model is charming with its delicately carved and painted ivory sticks, its painted garlands of tiny flowers and applique of two-toned narrow ribbon.

Ancient Sulphur

Sulphur is one of the oldest known elements. The ancient Assyrian alchemists regarded it as the principle of combustion on account of its inflammability, and termed it "brimstone," meaning, literally, burning stone.

"Caddie" and "Cad."

To call the boy who carried your clubs on the golf course a cad would be an insult, he is a caddie. Yet cad is only the abbreviated form of caddie, the Lowland-Scot word for an errand boy.—Edinburgh Scotsman

The Christian Endeavorers of Oregon are making great plans for their 32d annual convention, which is to be held in Salem on February 16, 17, 18, 19. In the past years two conventions have been held but it was decided to hold one all-state gathering this year and the result has been that an unusual program has been prepared.

An earthquake that rattled windows and nerves over a belt of this continent from Washington state to San Francisco in width and in length from the Atlantic to the Pacific was felt about 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. Scientists whose instruments tell them all about such things said that day that the seat of the shock was two or three thousand miles south of here. Next day they said it was west of here in the ocean. Where it is by now deponent saith not.
