

Music's Gentle Power

That half hour of relaxation before dinner, after a hard day, is one of the times you appreciate a Brunswick most. Then you realize why so many leading business men have a Brunswick in their homes.

Halsey High went to Junction City Friday night and got beaten at basket ball on skates, 28 to 12.

Karl Bramwell has something unusual in our "Paid-for-Paragraphs" column. It is a card after an election thanking both his supporters and his opponents for their course in the campaign. Halsey is not noted for scrapping. Brethren dwell together in unity here.

William Blakely, well known in Brownsville, after a winter in California passed thru this county in his auto the other day on his way to Pendleton.

E. A. Hultz of Brownsville talks of moving to Toledo.

Mrs. W. F. White has been in Eugene a week visiting Mrs. G. T. Ray, Mrs. John Anderson and other friends.

Mrs. Pyburn and two sons spent yesterday afternoon at the county seat.

Mrs. Riigo returned from Cottage Grove last evening.

The Rebekahs had an initiation and banquet last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds have installed an electric washing machine at the hotel—a great labor saver.

D. S. McWilliams and H. C. Davis made a business trip to the county seat yesterday.

Grant McNeil and sons of Halsey were Albany visitors this afternoon.—Yesterday's Herald.

Saturday evening there will be a short program at the Methodist church, followed by a sermon by the pastor. The program will consist of Psalm 23 sung by the Girls' Glee club, a pantomime in Grecian costume, and a Japanese song by the Standard Bearers. A short story will be given by Miss Hayes and a solo by Miss Kooztz. The annual thank offering of the Women's Foreign Mission society will be taken at this time. The public is cordially invited to this service.

The Tangent high school seniors made such a success of the play "Nothing but the Truth" at that town that they will give it at Shedd tomorrow (Friday) evening.

L. G. Lewelling advertises in "Paid-for-Paragraphs" forth name of the party who took H. E. Marlar to Verdure station, on the Oregon Electric, a month or two ago. Mr. Marlar had come to Halsey expecting to be met by W. R. Scott of Brownsville. Scott failed to show up and the old gentleman got an auto to take him to the Oregon Electric road. There he was knocked down when trying to flag the train and fatally injured.

Mrs. Paul Anderson changed her residence Monday from Crawfordsville to Portland.

Henry English has five white Lghorn hens that laid 27 egg last week.

C. C. Jackson and wife and daughter were in Albany Friday.

A. C. Armstrong got home Monday from Douglas county, where he has been looking after a flock of 100 sheep on his ranch, north of Oakland. He found them fat and fine after their winter on pasture, and strong healthy lambs are fast making their appearance. Large numbers of lambs are being lost on overstocked pastures, the severe

The Mountain States Power company announce that work will begin at once on the line to Coquille. The completed work will cost the company about $30,000.

Mrs. Alice Moore of Brownsville has gone or will go in a day or two to Oregon City for a visit with her sister, Mrs. C. F. Murray. Her children will go with her.

On Monday Miss Bessie Bond went to Albany, where her aunt, Mrs. E. P. Cummings, is ill.

Mrs. E. Montgomery started for her home in South Dakota Monday, after a visit of a couple of months with her niece, Mrs. William Mills, at Brownsville.

The Enterprise failed to receive a copy of the Brownsville Times last week. Don't know what we had done to merit the punishment, but punishment it was. A handsome and valuable directory of Brownsville, printed at the Times office, came on Monday.

Tragedy! Run over by a train at the local depot! A body was dragged and mangled and left lifeless by an early morning train at the depot Friday morning. Constable J. C. Bramwell tenderly gathered up the remains and bore them away. The train goes through without stopping, but a clerk drops sacks of mail as it whizzes through. In this instance he made a poor throw and one sack rolled under the wheels, which scattered its fabric and its contents, consisting of newspapers.

A visit from J. L. Bowman last week has revived interest in the woolen mill, work on which will be started shortly, says Mr. Bowman. The necessary machinery has been purchased and will be installed as soon as the buildings are ready.

W. P. Elmore wins his suit against the city of Brownsville in which he contended that the council erred in refusing to assess town lots separately for street improvements. The next step will be up to the city.

John Glass was over from Corvallis Sunday, shaking hands with his numerous Brownsville friends.

A rumor is current that Prof. Baker has been offered a considerable increase in salary to go elsewhere to carry on school work. Prof. Baker is an exceptionally good school man.

Crystal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Templeton, was over from Springfield to spend Sunday. Mrs. Templeton is teaching in the public school of Springfield.

Mrs. Johnnie Davis was called to Albany by the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. Ed Storiz.

Mrs. Robinet returned a few days ago from a visit with friends and relatives at Albany.

Elder L. B. Fishback, a former pastor, preached at the Christian Church Sunday to the delight of the parishioners.

Roy Beattie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Beattie, was over from O. A. C. to spend the week end and to receive the congratulations of his friends on reaching his majority. Roy is enjoying his work in the college.

The C. E. rally at the Presbyterian church Friday evening was an enjoyable affair, although the pleasures were somewhat lessened by the fact that some unprincipled boys from the outside gained admision to the kitchen and took a good share of the fine eats the young people provided.

William Mills, head of the wide-awake Brownsville Milling company, has been laid up for a couple of weeks with the flu.

Steel Barrels.

If the statements of the makers are well founded, it is probable that steel barrels will eventually take the place of wooden ones. The steel barrel is composed of staves of that material locked together by an ingenious device; the hoops and heads are also of steel. It is claimed that the steel barrel is more durable and more compact than the wooden one. As it is said to be lighter and cheaper, it has already had favor in various quarters. About 300,000,000 barrels are needed annually in normal times, to supply the demand in the United States. Flour mills use about 90,000,000, the sugar industry 40,000,000, and the cement industry 75,000,000.—Christian Science Monitor.

School Essay
(By Alberta Kooztz)
Loading the Ark:

It was the night before examination and we find Average Student seated at his study table, which is stacked high with books containing substance for the ambitious student. Average Student is vainly trying to absorb in the brief period of anguish what he should have learned during the long period of daily accomplishments.

Directly across the room, reclining comfortably upon his cot, is his college chum, Brilliant Youth. There is no necessity in his cramming for examinations, for he has learned his lessons daily, and they have been indelibly stamped upon his brain. He will ride safely across the sea of Examinations, although the waters are troubled and the angry waves dash high in their eagerness to wreck his boat before it reaches the banks of High Grades.

After several weary hours of toil Average Student's head begins to nod and he falls asleep. No sooner is he in the Land of Slumber than he begins to dream.

He observes two gallant lads preparing to launch their boats on the sea of Examinations. One of the boats, named "Perhaps," appeared to have been hastily constructed, and on close observation it was seen to be heavily loaded with provisions. The lad who was to embark in this boat was none other than Average Student. He seemed to be very nervous and fearful of the journey. The other boat, called "Assurance," appeared to have been frequently utilized and carried hardly any provisions. Brilliant Youth, who was captain of this boat, seemed eager to start on the journey.

When all was ready they set sail. For a time the sea was very smooth; then suddenly they struck the foamy wave of English. Assurance passed over this wave without difficulty and proceeded upon the journey. While Perhaps had great difficulty in passing over it, and only succeeded by losing a portion of her cargo, Brilliant Youth, the captain of Assurance, was much relieved when his boat sailed into the port of High Grades, and dropped anchor.

The boat named Perhaps was tossed about like a feather by the enormous waves of Science and History. Average Student, who was the captain, became pale and weak, finally losing control of his boat, which was capsized by the surging wave of Foreign Languages. Luckily for him, the accident occurred near the shore, for he was rescued by Brilliant Youth after much faithful labor.

Average Student was awakened from his troubled slumbers by his pal, Brilliant Youth, who had hold of his arm, and was vigorously shaking him.

"I thot it was time you were retiring, pard, so I awoke you, laughingly remarked Brilliant Youth.

"Glad you did, old pal," replied Average Student. "I had a terrible dream, which has convinced me that it is better to learn your daily lessons and eliminate this practice of cramming the night before examinations."
