Saturday E. A. Starnes, while driving cows to pasture, ran into a limb and received severe injuries. The state tax reduction meeting slated for today at Albany has been postponed until after the primary election.

The high school junior girls' baseball team was beaten 22 to 8 by a girls' team from the school in general last Friday.

Foot Brothers want to rest on Sundays, so request customers to do business with them on other days when possible.

T. P. Patton and wife returned Sunday from Corvallis, accompanied by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Stalnaker. The Stalnakers returned to their home Sunday evening.

The candymaker from Portland who has been employed at Ed Stortz' Elite cafeteria in Albany has proved such a success that the Hub confectionery is getting its goods at wholesale from Stortz.

Lytle Standish, who is employed by the Multnomah Box and Lumber company, in Portland, came up Saturday and stayed till Monday, visiting with friends and relatives. He intends to go to Montana in June for a brief visit with his parents, who live near Great Falls.

The old printer man of the Enterprise, by a provoking oversight, left the advertisement for a housekeeper in page 2 this week. Housekeepers galore had replied to it and a very efficient one had the job. The widespread notion that good household help is hard to find seems unfounded as regards this community.

A Clausen's farm home, three miles west of Albany, was burned Sunday morning. Mr. Clausen, who is afflicted with paralysis, was saved by the help of neighbors. The other members of the family, except his wife, were at church. Most of the furniture was saved, but not that in the upper story. The house, valued at $2500, was insured for $1000.

A pretty home wedding was observed April 15 at 8 p. m. at the residence of Carlos Marsters, 921 Weidler street, Portland, when Tully O'erdel Lorentz was united to William D. Marsters, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Marsters of Halsey. Lyman, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man and Miss Gertrude Porter as maid of honor. Mrs. Grace Marsters Brund sang "Alone in Love's Garden." Then to the strains of Lohengrin, played by Mrs. H. Carlos Marsters, the bridal party marched down stairs and into the parlor, where Rev. Paul Green gave the beautiful ring ceremony. Many useful and valuable presents were received from friends and relatives. This is the culmination of a friendship beginning during war days when Will was stationed at Boston. The couple will be at home to

Neighbors of Woodcraft
 Last Thursday morning the Enterprise wanted a report of the doings of the Neighbors of Woodcraft the preceding evening but was unable to get it. It is stale news now, but here it is:
 Neighbors of Woodcraft and their families, as well as a few visitors, met after the regular meeting of the order to celebrate the silver anniversary of Neighbors of Woodcraft.
 The following program was given:
 Reading, "The Tale of a Toad," Willamina Corcoran.
 Song, "Babes in the Wood," Dorothy Corcoran.
 Talk, T. H. Barber.
 Piano solo, DeEtta Robnett.
 Reading, "My Josiah," Mrs. Brown.
 Vocal duet, "Beautiful Moonlight," Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Templeton.
 Reading, "Our Hired Girl," Mrs. Mornhinweg.
 Immediately after the closing number all marched to the dining hall, where ice cream, cake and coffee were served.
 Games were played by some while others visited and became better acquainted.
 At a late hour the meeting closed, all declaring it a very enjoyable evening.

Oddfellows' Anniversary
 Here is a report which reached the office with a promptness that delighted the editor:
 Every lodge of Oddfellows in the country celebrated the 103d anniversary of the order last night. In Halsey the program followed was:
 Prayer, Rev. C. T. Cook.
 Piano duet, DeEtta and Louise Robnett.
 Recitation, Hermah Koontz.
 Saxophone solo, Mrs. B. M. Bond.
 Reading, Alta Hayes Solo, Alberta Koontz.
 Reading, Janet Boggs.
 Solo, Cecile Mayberry.
 Recitation, Mildred McKinney.
 Address, Rev. C. T. Cook.
 Piano solo, Georgina Clark.
 Address, Mrs. James McMahan.
 William McMahan was presented with a jewel for twenty-five years' membership.
 The younger people played games and a fine feed was enjoyed. The latter included ice cream and eatables such as the Halsey Rebekahs are wont to produce. There is no guesswork in our assertion that these ladies have no superiors in culinary art, for the editor and his wife were treated to generous samples which Misses Ruth Frum and Geraldine Cook took the trouble to carry to them.

Retainer Progressed.
 Description of an old retainer was given by Disraeli in the course of a conversation with Sir Phillip Rose: "For the first five years Baum was with me I found him a most excellent servant for the next five years he was a faithful and interesting friend; and for the last five years he has been a most indulgent master."

Antiquity of Honey.
 Honey is probably the most ancient and honorable of all sweet foods. Its pedigree is older than the pyramids. Pythagoras' famous recipe for longevity was: "Eat nothing on your bread but honey."

Grant's Birthday at School.
 This morning the literary society of the high school rendered, in honor of Gen. U. S. Grant's birthday, the following program, with Louise Robnett as leader:
 America, school.
 Salute of flag, school.
 Battle Hymn of the Republic.
 Life of U. S. Grant, Grace Robertson.
 Grant in the civil war, Janet Boggs.
 Tenting on the Old Camp Ground.
 Grant as a President, Delmer Wahl.
 McKinley's Appreciation of Grant, Alta Hayes.
 Permanence of Grant's Fame, by James G. Blaine, Mearls Straley.
 Star Spangled Banner, school.
 Due to the lack of co-operation of some of the students, the program was not as complete as planned, but it was rendered well and enjoyed by the high school.

Grange Notes
 Calapooia grange No. 414 at Brownsville held its regular meeting Saturday, April 22, at 1 o'clock, dinner being served at 12 by the brothers.
 We voted for state grange officers.
 A letter from The Country Gentleman was read, which was a protest against tricksters or games of chance at the county fairs.
 A letter from I. L. Patterson, a member of Monmouth grange, who is on the Republican ticket for governor, was read by the master.
 The following resolutions were adopted:
 Resolved, That Calapooia grange No. 414 go on record as being opposed to the present method of electing state grange officers. And be it also
 Resolved, That the constitution be changed so that ballots be tallied by the subordinate grange and presented at the state grange by our delegate.
 Lecturer's hour was as follows:
 Penny drill.
 Installation of birthday box, 4 members having birthdays.
 Instrumental music, "Arab Dance," Hazel Ackerman.
 Reading, "The Model Husband," Ora Pearl.
 Talks by six of our members on their visit to Fairmount grange, Saturday evening, April 1. All reported an extra good time.
 A motion was passed that "Members be allowed to bring their children with them into our meetings."
 Our next meeting was set for Saturday evening, April 27, at 8 o'clock.
 Plans are being made for some visitors and there will be a candidate to take the first and second degrees.
 All committees are appointed and special entertainment will be provided for our visitors.
 Lunch will be served at 12.
 All members and their families are urged to come.

PASTEL SHADES ARE REVIVED
 Faded and China Blues and Coral and Jet Beads for Trimming Are Featured.
 After an absence of several years, during which primary pigment colors of blue, red and yellow and derivations therefrom have held the center of the color stage, pastel colors are to be restored to favor, according to cables from the Dry Goods Economist's Paris office.
 We are told that no less a French authority than Worth is pushing faded and China blues for both day and evening wear, and featuring coral and jet beads for trimmings, instead of vivid colors, which is against all law and evidence. Brilliant colors are staple for evening wear.
 It is said that Lanvin is advocating pastel blues for both day and evening wear, and it is now common knowledge that Madeleine & Madeleine have adopted a dull greenish blue for all their spring models.
 Jenny has adopted forget-me-not blue and raspberry reds for taffetas and for crepe de chine. And from other French sources comes reliable information that pastel colors are gaining ground.
 Ample evidence that Paris is not alone in adopting pastel colors is presented in the action of leading dressmakers in New York, who have taken up military blues, that is, gray blues, for cape suits, and, in addition, favor pastel colors for capes and dresses made of broadcloth.
 That the adoption of pastel colors is not confined to dressmakers is seen in the taking up of such soft shades as raspberry red for strapped slippers by manufacturers of shoes wowing the advance trade. Beige, too, is also seen in strapped slippers, especially for women who spend the winter at fashionable resorts in the South.
