H. L. Straley and family drove to the county seat Friday.

C. D. Huff and family visited relatives in Salem Sunday.

Andrew Brown and wife made a tour over the Columbia highway during the week end.

Preston Newton made a business trip to Creswell Saturday. He returned home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Stalnaker of Corvallis took dinner at the S. J. Smith home Sunday.

Mrs. O. M. Miller and son Dale of Cottage Grove visited at the G. W. Mornhinweg home Sunday.

Mrs. A. D. Smith and little son left for Portland Friday. Mrs. Smith returned after a few days' absence, while her son continued to Seattle for an indefinite stay.

To catch the trade that will come by auto over the pavement on Second street, Hill & Co. have erected a sign on that street telling travelers where to find their store.

Milton Howe and Miss Powers, a Brownsville schoolma'am, whose license to wed is mentioned on page 3, had a swell home wedding and are away on their honeymoon.

C. C. Dickson of Shedd went to Albany Friday and at last accounts had not been heard from since. It is feared that illness, following influenza, may have affected his brain, and he may have wandered away.

Miss Ella Kenady and nephew, Robert Kenady jr., of Cottage Grove arrived last Saturday to spend a week with the lady's sister, Mrs. W. A. Ringo. They were at Mrs. Martin Cummings' Wednesday.

Samuel Cooper of Tangent was stricken with paralysis Thursday night. He came in from the barn speechless and with one arm hanging helpless. He was able to walk after a fashion and is now able to speak a little.

Sunday H. C. Davis sat in a room on his farm and heard, over Kenneth Stone's radiophone, a good sermon preached in Portland. Later Mrs. J. C. Curry, in the same room, listened to one of the best sermons she ever heard, which was preached in Seattle.

Theodore Mitzner and Lyman Marsters are home from Williamette university for the vacation.

THAT DIVORCE DECREE

Tardy Court Passes on Obsolete Law

The Southern Pacific company protests that severance of the Oregon lines of the Southern Pacific from other units of the great transportation system as contemplated by the recent decree of the supreme court of the United States, irrespective of whether the Union Pacific system, for example, acquired the segregated line from San Francisco bay to Portland, would result unfavorably to the transportation interests of the people of this state.

The supreme decree, which is based on the Sherman anti-trust act of 1890, runs counter to the later law, the transportation act of congress, passed in March, 1920, which orders Interstate Commerce commission to require the railroads of the country to be consolidated into 20 major groups. Hearings will be conducted by that commission and by the public service commissions of the various states directly affected by the proposed groupings of the railroads for operating purposes in the public interest.

Completion of the Natron cut-off would be a serious problem and it may well be doubted whether either the Central Pacific or Southern Pacific would carry this line through from Eugene to Klamath Falls and thence east of the mountains to a connection with the Central Pacific at Fernley, Nev. The Natron cut-off, built on easy grades and light curvature, would be a direct competitor of the Union Pacific for traffic moving between Portland and Salt Lake City.

Under the plan which the Interstate Commerce commission is committed to follow, subject to public hearing of objections, the Southern Pacific system, including the Central Pacific lines, will be merged with the Rock Island lines.

During the fifty-two years of common ownership and control of Southern-Central Pacific properties, main line, branch, terminal and other facilities have become so interwoven that in the event of separation a great deal of time would be consumed in arriving at a workable arrangement for the segregation of the properties without seriously interfering with public service.

The Oregon Voter says: "Fortunate, indeed, is it for Oregon, that the transportation act of 1920 provides the means whereby the state may be saved the costly complications that would ensue were the recent decision of the United States supreme court to be enforced literally by the separation of the Central Pacific properties in Oregon from the Southern Pacific. The Southern Pacific portion would be separated from its main line connection with California and portions of it would be separated from each other in Oregon. To disjoint them would maroon different sections of the state from through service by one company, except so far as joint and competing operation by two companies over the same lines could be established, with all of its expense and vexatious traffic complications."

"Consolidation is not only authorized by the 1920 act but is directed by its mandate. In its tentative report, now awaiting hearing, the interstate commerce commission groups the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific properties together, to be operated under one management."

"The supreme court decision was based on an old case, brought under an old law. The interstate commerce commission, under the 1920 act, has authority over the whole situation."

Albert Miller and wife of Eugene are visiting at Karl Bramwell's and taking in the pioneer picnic.

At the Good Citizenship league meeting at Brownsville Monday night President William Mills presided and the district attorney and sheriff voiced congratulations and advice.

Junior and Senior Reading List

Juniors and seniors must read two books from the following list, the remaining two to be taken from the list published in last week's Enterprise or from the ones on file at the high school. They may, if they wish, read the entire four required from the following twelve:

- "The Piper," Peabody.
"The Bluebird," Maeterlinck.
"The Servant in the House," Kennedy.
"Sherwood," Noyes.
"Chanticleer," Rostand.
"Milestones," Kuoblauch.
"The King's Threshold," W. B. Yeats.
"The Old Lady Shows Her Medals," Barris.
"The Rivals," Sheridan.
"Stoops to Conquer," Goldsmith.
"The Vicar of Wakefield," Goldsmith.
"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," Stevenson.

Mr. English would like an expression from the juniors and seniors stating whether they would prefer bookkeeping or French. It would be appreciated if those out of town would please send through the mail their choice of the two subjects.

Jots and Tittles

The Rebekahs had an initiation and a big feed last night, with various other good things having strawberries and cream, the delicacy of the season, for center of attraction.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Corvallis arrived Tuesday evening for several days' visit with her sister, Mrs. Southern, and went on to Brownsville to attend the picnic.

Mrs. J. C. Curry and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Curry jr., and the latter's little daughter went to Junction City on Wednesday morning's train for a couple of days' visit.

Moonshiners in the vicinity of Brownsville are being sought. The sheriff caught a boy with some of the booze Monday but had not then located the maker of the poison.

Holley advertises for bids for the building of a new schoolhouse.

The Brownsville baseball team went to Lebanon Saturday and scored 22 to Lebanon's 2. Lebanon proposes to seek revenge at Brownsville tomorrow.

The Brownsville Times got out a 16-page pioneer picnic number this week. Much local history appears in it. Earle Stanard contributing his share of it. Brownsville business houses availed of the opportunity to boost the town and the paper by advertising liberally in it.

Raises Big Hog

Westfield, N. Y.—Local pride in accomplishment looms large in the breast of the majority of the inhabitants of this village, and it is made manifest in varied instances. The latest is that Jay Anderson of East Main road has raised a hog weighing 411 pounds, and undressed 550 pounds. This means a growth of two pounds for every day of its life, the hog being nine months old. The hog was a Jersey red, and Anderson challenges anyone to beat this record.

Uncle Eben

"De troublemaker," said Uncle Eben. "Is one kind of manufacturer dat ought to be taxed extra."

Over-Production

If men could always do the things they would prefer to do, home-run hits wouldn't be worth 5 cents a dozen.

Henry Byerley

Henry Byerley, father of L. W. Byerley of this city, died June 12 at his home in Dallas, aged 63, and was buried yesterday.

He leaves his widow and the one son mentioned above and a minor daughter, Hallie; also four brothers, Leroy of Airline, Frank and Otto of Dallas and Eugene of Idaho, and two sisters, Maude Wight of Camas, Wash., and Belle Blake of Salt Lake City.

The deceased resided in Halsey for about half a dozen years and was well known and popular. He returned to his old home at Dallas when attacked by the illness which ended his life.

Spray Fruit Trees

The Oregon Growers' Cooperative association has made arrangements for at least fifty per cent advance on the 1922 opening prices of prunes to be given to growers upon delivery to the packing house or upon being graded. This insures the growers a good substantial payment at the beginning of the season.

Canning is being done by the association beginning this week at the Salem dried fruit packing plant. The capacity will be about twenty-five tons of fresh fruit per day, and the season's output will be between seventy and eighty thousand cases.

It is reported from a Philadelphia representative who had opened a pack of number ten water grade apples before a group of wholesale grocers that without exception it was declared to be the best pack they had ever seen.

It is advised that the 30 day spray should be put on apples during this week, as moths are flying about now and will be depositing eggs. This spray should be combined with the regular scab spray and lead arsenate should be added at the rate of two pounds per 100 gallons of water.

If the presence of the cherry fruit maggot is noticed, it is advisable to spray with poisoned bait composed of sodium arsenate one half pound, molasses, two quarts to eight gallons of water. One pint to a tree is sufficient.

Christian Church Mission

Tuesday the missionary society of the Christian church met at the beautiful country home of Mrs. Arlie Cummings with twelve members and one visitor present.

The following officers were elected for the coming year, beginning July 1st: President, Mrs. Sadie Wells; vice president, Mrs. Emma True; secretary, Mrs. Sadie Robertson, treasurer, Mrs. Edna Chance. The program was in memory of Dr. Shelton, a missionary, who was killed in the foreign field.

Ice cream and cake were served by the hostess, assisted by the host and Mrs. Chance.

All present are looking forward to the time Mrs. Cummings shall entertain again.

Those who made Mr. Harding's record as a proprietor in the brewing industry a reason for opposing him in his campaign for the presidency say "I told you so" when it becomes known that his shipping board runs bars on government-owned vessels when they are outside the three-mile limit. The prohibition law seems to be the one exception to the rule that American laws prevail on American ships wherever they are.

Charles Hall is expected to run as an "independent" candidate for governor, bound hand and foot by secret and other societies, whose members are asked to pay $2 apiece to finance his fight. It is expected that today he will endorse or reject the plan.

Uncle Sam, through the shipping board, is the biggest bootlegger of the world.

Children's day will be observed at the Christian church next Sunday evening. It is advertised elsewhere in this paper.
