Shedd Shots

(By Anna Pennell)

Mrs. Ed Willoughby had her tonsils removed last week Wednesday.

Homer Morhinweg and wife are moving into their new home.

Mrs. Alex Sutherland, who formerly lived in Shedd, is visiting friends in and about here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingram of Canada came to Portland to see the rose show, and then motored on up to Shedd to visit friends.

The Ladies of the Presbyterian church had a missionary meeting at the cottage Friday afternoon.

Mrs. L. E. Pennell, Mrs. J. McCumber and Frances Freerksen were Albany visitors Monday afternoon.

G. C. Barnes and family of Jefferson came to spend a few days in Shedd visiting friends and attended the celebration at Crawfordsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Pennell and Mr. and Mrs. McCumber left for Cascadia Monday evening to spend a couple of days.

R. A. Josling, Harry Sprenger, Bert Weir and Mr. Pennell were Albany visitors Monday afternoon.

Stanley Henry and wife and Mrs. Dora Davis left for Newport Saturday. Mrs. Davis will remain indefinitely.

Mrs. Satchwell returned from Seattle Tuesday. She has been visiting friends and relatives there for about three weeks.

Mrs. Florence Small of Eugene and Margaret Coates of Albany visited at the home of L. O. Coates and wife last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Coonsman and daughter of Moro are visiting at the home of W. Y. Shearer. Mrs. Coonsman is Mrs. Shearer's sister.

The Oregon Growers' Co-operative association has advanced the price of prunes above the opening one-half cent on 30-40s and one-quarter cent on all other grades. Oregon prunes have been sold on more markets this year than ever before. Great Britain, Central Europe, Canada and domestic markets have responded with an eagerness that has been surprising.

Not So Pusillanimous

"I understand that your paper is going to publish (an event in a public place is here referred to). If it does please stop my subscription."

We did not know that anybody thought the publishers of the Enterprise pusillanimous enough to be influenced by a threat like the above. We might suppress an item for the public good, but not for a few dollars. We do not make news. We print it. People should not make news in public if they do not want it published.

We have use for money, and we prize kind friendships, but we cannot afford to sacrifice self-respect in order to obtain the one or to retain the other. Patrons of the Enterprise may depend upon it to give unbiased reports of current events to the extent of its ability.

On the 3rd a daughter arrived at the home of Stanley Henry at Shedd, says Dr. Marks.

Roland Marks, Ed Warmoth and Arthur Robnett went up above Cascadia fishing for the national holiday and got the limit with ease. They say there were plenty more trout waiting to be caught.

People who went to Cascadia to cool off this week say they found the weather better there than at Halsey.

F. H. Porter and family spent the 4th at Cascadia.

A boy arrested for stealing a bottle of perfume from Woodworth's drug store the other day protests that he was only putting some perfume on his coat. That would have been all right if it hadn't been somebody else's perfume.

E. L. Stiff, who advertises furniture in the Enterprise, shipped over $300 worth to two families at St. Helens yesterday, sending the goods through Portland to their destination.

Albany's oldest house, belonging to the Hill estate and valued at $3000, with no insurance, burned on the 4th, probably starting from a firecracker. It was built in 1851, octagonal in form, for protection against the Indians, and for 15 years had stood at Washington and Second streets.

H. W. Davis of this city has purchased the City drug store at Halsey from Dr. T. I. Marks. Eugene Register, July 5, 1922.

The Albany chamber of commerce has passed resolutions favoring the continuance of control of the Central Pacific railroad by the Southern Pacific.

S. G. Robertson, who was recovering nicely from a broken hip at the home of his son, W. H. Robertson, has been prostrated by the unusually hot weather, but is reported as slightly improving this morning.

Short Stories of Happenings in Linn County Generally and in Halsey Particularly

The Malones of Holley have been divorced.

George Drinkard was over from Brownsville Monday.

A consolidated high-school district at Plainview is proposed.

Russell Hecker of Albany was found guilty of first degree murder for killing Bowker. This carries the death penalty. The case goes up on appeal.

Karl Bramwell's commission as postmaster of Halsey is likely to arrive any day now. His $6000 bond was sent to Washington some time ago.

You never saw a finer line of kitchen ranges than are in Hill & Co.'s store. Gleaming in polished nickel and porcelain, they would be ornamental in a parlor.

Mrs. W. R. Kirk and her two youngest children returned Saturday from eastern Washington, where they had been visiting relatives and friends.

If as good shows as we have been getting continue to draw as small houses as recently we must not be surprised if the management cuts off our picture-show entertainment entirely.

Sunday morning fire caught in Pearl True's hay field from a train and burnt several shocks of hay. It was discovered soon after it started and help was summoned and after some difficulty the blaze was checked.

The country-wide strike of railroad shop workers is reported by the union authorities to be 100 percent effective, which destroys all confidence in what they say, for in many cases union men are known to be on their jobs. In Albany not a man walked out.

At last that monument to Lieutenant Raymond Templeton, which his will assigned to Brownsville when he fell a victim of the world war, is definitely announced as coming. It will be a drinking fountain and horse trough on main street.

Wednesday evening, June 28, about 200 former Brownsville residents met at Laurelhurst park, Portland, for their first picnic, as a formally organized body. The president, Mrs. Lulu Powell Ross, was called upon for a talk and told of her pleasure at seeing so many there, with assurance of future gatherings. John Pearl, W. H. Ross and Bert Wilson were also called for and responded with earnest words of reminiscence. Several familiar songs by the crowd ended an enjoyable evening. Albany Democrat.

Anybody see an idle automobile Tuesday?

Dr. Garnjobst and family visited his father in Salem Sunday.

I. C. Standish left Monday morning on the Oregon Electric for Portland, to visit his son Everett at the Pierce Sanatorium.

Everybody who could went More went to Crawfordsville than anywhere else on the 4th. And at that a good many went to Albany and some to Newport and other places.

Glenn Chance, Leo Jenne, Jim McWilliam, Lynn Norton and Red Pearl drove over to Newport in Chance's car, leaving here Monday afternoon and returning Tuesday night.

A. P. Howe and wife brought their son William over from Brownsville Sunday to take the train for Portland. His broken hip still makes frequent trips for treatment necessary.

Henry Zimmerman and wife, accompanied by Guy Layton, were at the county seat Friday and Mr. Layton had an X-ray picture taken of the tooth that has been giving him so much trouble recently. He is much improved in condition now and is once more at home and doing some work.

Spirits in the Flesh.

Monday John Standish sat in the confectionery eating ice cream when Worth Bass and William Corcoran came in. Bass took off his cap, struck Standish in the face with it and threw it in his lap. Standish pushed the cap to the floor, whereupon Bass hit him in the face, knocking him, half dazed, partly into an ice cream paker. As he got to his feet he asked Bass why he did not pick on somebody of his own age.

Corcoran made a lunge for him, saying, "Here's somebody of your age," and they clinched and fell. Standish got a good windpipe clutch and Corcoran soon weakened and hostilities came to an end.

The above is the story as given by spectators. Standish refuses to talk and Bass and Corcoran declare that it is incorrect but refuse to correct it.

Whether the spirit responsible for the incident was of the Conan Doyle variety, who go about musing things up with octoplasm and other stuff, or was of another kind which a highway worker is said to be wont to bring over from Lebanon and peddle on the road and at Shedd, deponent saith not.

Up to June 30 $88,320 of the state aid funds had been paid to veterans in Linn county.

The missionary society of the Christian church will meet Tuesday, July 11, at 2, at the home of Mrs. George Taylor, with Mrs. Mattie Kump leader. The new division plan starts at this time. Come and bring a friend.

Consumption of intoxicants is decreasing. In the year ending June 1 2,627,333 gallons of whiskey and 16,491,303 of alcohol and other distilled spirits were withdrawn from bond, compared with 9,696,122 of whiskey and 24,856,388 of the other spirits the previous year.

A Brownsville correspondent says that city hopes the Natron cut-off "will come this way and make Brownsville a main-line city." The Natron cut-off, which both contenders for the coast railroads promise to build at once, will be a continuance of the Albany and Oakridge road from the latter city to the Klamath Falls country over a route with much less climbing than is necessary in crossing the Siskiyou by the present route, and that would throw the main Portland-to-San Francisco travel over the cut-off, and it might be routed through Brownsville and Coberg, but would probably join the main line at Springfield and go north through the large cities of Eugene, Junction City and Harrisburg—and Halsey.

Brownsville Briefs

(By Carmelita Woodworth)

The cherries at D. W. Waigamott's place have all been picked and berry picking is in progress.

Miss Lyda White, a high school teacher, has returned from Portland, where she has been in a hospital.

Charles Sterling and wife attended the Elks' Sunday picnic at Corvallis.

Henry Robertson has purchased a new Ford truck and a 1922 Sedan.

Chautauqua this year, if we may judge by the attendance, is a great success.

Miss Ica Slavens left last Tuesday for Oregon City to visit her sister, after which she will spend the remainder of the summer with her brother in eastern Oregon.

Miss Betty Goshaw returned from Eugene the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Tycer spent Sunday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. William Jack at Cascadia.

A system of court procedure and practice has been built up that is highly artificial and largely unnecessary. The legal profession usually runs the legislature and congress, and obviously lawmakers have little or no incentive to make a judicial system that will decrease legal practices. We pay enough taxes to get efficient, facilitated, speedy and inexpensive litigation. But we do not get it.—Portland Journal.

Linn County Wireless

(Albany Democrat)

Wireless? Linn county is estimated to have at least twenty-five sets, according to J. H. Ralston, manager of the Ralston electric store here, who put in a receiving set at Seio for Dr. A. G. Prill yesterday.

The most popular form of wireless equipment is known as the two-stage set costing approximately $200 without the magnavox attachment. A sounding station equipment costs from $600 upward, but these cannot be secured without federal license and may not be located at a point where two or more will interfere. So even the air is not free in these later days.

More than half of the wireless receiving sets in the county are put in wholly or in part by amateur operators, a large part of the joy being secured by setting up the apparatus for yourself. Comparatively few yet have installed the magnavox.

Paving work between here and Harrisburg started yesterday.
