A BOWL FROM HALL

Proclaims His Impartiality and Patriotism

Charles Hall has availed of the opportunity given him when Governor Olcott talked to reporters about the recount suit and has issued a statement which reveals him as a pitiful, pettifogging, prevaricating pleader, among the small "p's" in a pot—and a few "k's."

He begins by saying he omits reference to Mr. Olcott's tone in the very same phrase in which he refers to it, and is equally consistent all the way through.

Because Olcott called for prosecution of violators of the law who changed to be supporters of Hall the latter says the governor has "introduced religious issues," which is not true.

Financed by an assessment upon the members of an organization which makes war, on certain religious sects, Hall promises, if made governor, to be impartial to all sects. This pre-dilection promise may be taken for what it is worth: 0.

Hall agrees with the Enterprise in advocating compulsory education in the public schools. We give him credit for the profession, whatever might be his practice.

Mr. Hall shows sensitiveness to the assumption that he is the bound and obligated agent of the K. K. K. by shouting: "You're another," and claims, without producing evidence, that the Knights of Columbus favor Olcott.

He also charges, without citing evidence, that Olcott has used his position to secure personal support of officeholders. If he produced proof of this the Enterprise would publish it. It sounds much like his other bombastic assertions.

Because Olcott asks for a recount of the whole state vote, instead of in certain precincts, hand-picked by Hall, the latter makes the false claim that the governor objects to any recount.

There are two widely separated factions existing in the republican ranks on this question, and if the wing that is defeated in the legal contest is angry enough to vote for a d—d—democrat we may have a democratic governor.

RELIGIOUS BUGABOOS

Since the days when impostors ruled mankind in the name of deities, and people abjectly submitted to "prophets" and priests who proclaimed "Thus saith Baal," or "Thus saith the Lord," and the later days when church and state were combined and the laws of the land were believed to be the laws of the Omnipotent, there has been a great change, of which we in America, with our constitution prohibiting the union of any church with the federal state, have the benefit.

Religious wars have ever been the most devilish of theft time, and the "pogroms" against the Jews in eastern Europe and the atrocities of the Turks against Christians in Asia Minor are fair samples of them.

Though religion is barred from federal legislation, it is sometimes very active in political squabbles, as we have seen it here in Oregon.

The bugbear most often paraded to scare the voters has been the alleged designs of the Catholic Church upon the government, though that organization is not the only one that has had such distinction.

The "Know Nothing" movement in the earlier years of the republic spent itself and died. The cry of "rum, Romanism and rebellion," raised by a supporter of Blaine, resulted in the defeat of the plumed knight and the republican party. It was a most efficient boomerang.

Forty years ago the "Patriotic Order of Sons of America" sprang up like a mushroom among secret orders, but when the principal part of its "Americanism" proved to consist of a propaganda against the Catholic Church, which it was claimed was threatening to get control of the government, the members dropped out and it is a long time since the "P. O. S. A." has been heard from.

Just now it is the K. K. K. Its campaigner for membership, when addressing a sympathizer with such views, lays great stress on the need of an organization that will oppose the Roman church and prevent its getting control of the government, but on other occasions they as vehemently deny that it is anti-Catholic, anti-Jew or anti-negro. It seems to be "all things to all men."

Intelligent Americans need not worry over these bugaboos. The Catholics, the Jews, or the Sunday-law propagandists, are no nearer the obtaining of control than they were in the days of the Know Nothings or those of the P. O. S. A. And there is no danger that they ever will be. America may not be as free as she ought to be, but she is too free to ever submit to religious control by law. Americans are free to worship according to their own consciences, and they will not, as the Puritans tried to do, compel others to worship as they do.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION

If compulsory non-sectarian education of the young at public schools six hours a day and five days a week during eight or ten months a year will deprive them of the necessary amount of religious instruction, the inculcation of religious precepts must cost a lot of time.

If there were any way of deciding what is religious truth, perhaps in the seven-eighths of the hours of the year when the children are out of school there might be time to start them straight, but when we remember that there are hundreds, if not thousands of denominations each with a distinct belief different from all the others and each certain that all the others are wrong, perhaps 100 per cent or even 1000 per cent, of all the time would not be sufficient.

But supporters of the free public school system, on which Americanism largely rests today, are of the opinion that one-eighth of the hours during school age are not too much to be devoted to the practical education on which the child will have to depend in fighting the battle of life. Parents who would deprive their offspring of this are so unjust that it is the duty of the state to constrain them.

GROW TALL IN COUNTRY

According to the investigations of Deniker, well known for his anthropologic studies, the influences of city life tend toward a decrease of human stature. It is away from the large cities that the beneficent effects of the general amelioration of social conditions and improvements in hygiene of modern times most clearly manifest themselves by distinct increase of stature. This increase has been marked among several of the European races during the last fifty years. Where the people are subjected to urban influences the gain is less notable.

HIS RECORD

"Horace Snapp is dead," related old Riley Rezzidew. "He was railway station agent here in Petunia. He left no friends and no money worth mentioning, but instead an enviable record of thirty-nine years of faithful attention to his duties of telling the traveling public and all other anxious inquirers, 'Don't know' in a surly tone of voice."—Kansas City Star.

Miss Louise Robnett is in the telephone office during the absence of the Staffords.

Amos Ramsay got kicked by a Ford which cracked the bone in his arm yesterday.

Guy Layton is seriously ill again with an abscess on his jaw, which was caused by an ulcerated tooth.

Miss Gertrude Porter arrived in Halsey Sunday from her trip to California, where she has been on a concert tour.

The Neighbors of Woodcraft met Wednesday night. After the usual business all members and a visitor, Mrs. Hill, enjoyed ice cream and cookies.

C. W. Bess of Halsey is under $1000 bonds to appear before the grand jury on a charge of attempting a felonious assault on Mrs. William Price at her home near this city last Friday.

N. C. Lowe and wife and Alec Powers and wife were over from Lebanon yesterday. The first-named gentleman is a funeral director at Lebanon and the latter-named couple are well-known former business residents of this city.

Lester Stevenson and family of San Francisco drove to Halsey last week to visit Mr. Stevenson's parents, J. A. Stevenson and wife. They visited his brother Glenn in Portland the latter part of last week, returning to Halsey Sunday, and went to Yoncalla Monday to visit Mr. Stevenson's sister, Mrs. Lloyd Robnett, who formerly lived here.

Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams, in a card published elsewhere, express their appreciation of the attitude of the public while they have had the postoffice. We are sure the people of Halsey have been as well pleased by the kind and courteous treatment they have received at the postoffice. Moreover, there is reason to expect equal suavity from the Bramwells, who now have the office.

Scout Executive Cook of Albany

was down to visit the Halsey scouts Saturday night to explain the particulars of the summer encampment at Camp Cascadan, near Cascadia, which will be August 1 to 16. Several of the Halsey scouts intend to go in spite of the shortage of harvest hands. Mr. Cook also explained the effort being made to increase the members in efficiency and told how the summer camp will be conducted. Each member attending will have to pay $10 for expenses.

To All Jersey Owners

This to call your attention to a special dairy meeting to be held in Albany at 8 p. m. July 26 at the Ramesseum theater, under the auspices of the Oregon and Linn County Jersey Cattle clubs. F. B. Astroth, field man for the American Jersey Cattle club, will speak and give a free moving picture show on Jerseys.

While this meeting will be of value to all dairymen it will be of special value to the owner of purebred Jerseys. Come and bring your neighbor. Sincerely, A. C. Heyman, County Agent.

Gloria Swanson Coming

Glorious Gloria Swanson, beautiful Paramount star, will be seen at the Rialto theater next Friday in a new picture, "Beyond the Rocks." It is based on Eleanor Glyn's famous novel of the same name which scored a big hit several years ago. Rudolph Valentino, who supported Dorothy Dalton in "Moran of the Lady Letty," is her leading man and he heads an unusually strong cast of players.

To Beat the Devil

"If the church work is really worth while, then it is worth spending money on," declared Frank L. Snow, head of the department of industrial journalism, in speaking before the Presbyterian synod at O. A. C. Friday. "Advertise to beat the devil," continued Prof. Snow. "With 100 counter attractions all clamoring for attention through printer's ink, the church stands little show of successful competition unless it uses the same methods of attracting attention. His lively advertising pays and pays well."

It was reported that Marconi in the Mediterranean had picked up 150,000 meter wave length messages that he thought came from Mars. Conan Doyle says those messages came from spirits, who "know all about radio," to which the Oregonian replies that, knowing all about radio, they must be fools to try to talk to us with wave lengths which they know we cannot receive. And then Marconi kicks the attenuate foundation from under the whole argument by saying he never received any such messages nor any that he thought came from Mars.
