think twice before you try it. Its burglar alarm was overhauled by an electrician last week and the first part of this week and you can never tell just where or how you might set the blamed thing going.

Noting the beginning of a concrete building adjoining the Peterson shoe shop at the county seat some months ago a reporter asked Peterson if they were going to shut his light off. "No," said Peterson, "they won't shut my light off." It has since developed that the modest shoe dealer is himself the owner of the new building and will occupy the middle one of three stores in it, with a glass front and a skylight.

One hundred and thirty-five babies of Lebanon was the attraction at the Kuhn theater Monday and Tuesday nights. Two shows Monday night with the house packed both times were not sufficient to take care of the crowds and the pictures had to be shown again Tuesday night. The youngsters were snapped in every pose imaginable—some with clothes on and some without; some riding kiddie cars; some in bath tubs, with others in more conventional poses. —Lebanon Express.

Last Friday evening some excitement was caused by Vern Reeves making his first public appearance on Main street in his bathing suit. While he was swimming in the Santiam about three miles from town his clothes, which he had thrown on a log, myster-

R. B. Marsters of Huntington Beach, Cal., accompanied by his wife and little son, gave his parents a very pleasant surprise on the 15th. After spending a week at Brownsville, Halsey and other points the party motored on to Portland to visit other members of the family.

Word has been received that a girl was recently born to Vernon Proudfit and wife, who are former residents of this city. Mr. Proudfit is a telegraph operator on the Southern Pacific.

Linn county market roads are to have $80,000 spent on them for improvements. Part of the Ash Swale road is to be macadamized. The road from Lyons to Mill City will also come in for some betterment.

Hay there! Hay here! Hay everywhere! Baled and loose hay is pouring into town. Sixty carloads, or about 800 tons went out last week over the S. P. and the flow had only begun. Warehouses bulge with hay. The old livery barn on Second street was remodeled some time ago to receive hay for storage and Dudley Henry advertizes the fact. The longest dry spell in nearly seventy years has cut the crop short, but yet this valley produces some hay.

Frequent cultivation preserves moisture. Many whose berries have dried up this year could profit in future seasons by following the example of John Swink of Lebanon, who cultivated his berry crop every few days during picking and got a fine crop. Maintaining a dust mulch by frequent cultivation prevents the rise and evaporation of water from where it is needed about the roots.

The Porter family had a reunion Sunday attended by T. H. Bradford and wife of Shedd, G. L. Porter and family of Albany, H. I. Kizer and family of Albany, W. D. Porter and wife of Corvallis, Miss Kathleen McCarty of Corvallis and Miss Typhera Southard of Albany.

Mrs. R. B. Forbes and Miss Eleanor Dunlap of the Dunlap Drug company, Brownsville, attended the missionary society picnic at Shedd yesterday and called at the Wheeler home on their way back.

The dry weather has ripened off such grain as it did not stifle. The ripening came all of a sudden and all the harvesting machinery available is at work hustling the kernels into the stacks.

E. H. Koehler of Lebanon, accused in court of beating a dog to death, was acquitted on showing that he did not punish the dog very severely and that it is still following him around. The size of the howl caused the scandal.

W. A. Davenport, formerly in the real estate business at Brownsville but now at the normal school at Monmouth, is president of the student body at the latter place.

SURELY SEEMED A GOOD BET
Unfortunately Horse Races Are Not Conducted as This Young Lady Imagined.

Representative Cannon was arguing a tariff question at a dinner in Danville.

"My opponent," he said, "reminds me of the young lady at the races. This young lady's escort said to her:

"Podasokus is the favorite. Suppose I put a ten-spot on him for you both ways?"

"Oh, yes, that will be jolly!" said the young lady.

"Well, the race was run, and Podasokus, the favorite, was nowhere. He came lounging in about seventeenth.

"How much do I get?" cried the young lady, as poor old Podasokus arrived, and she clapped her little hands together for joy.

"Why—er—nothing," said her escort.

"But how silly you are!" said the young lady sharply. "Didn't I bet on Podasokus both ways? Then I gain, of course, whether he won or lost."

Uncle Joe—So tomorrow you bring home your bride?
Sammy—Now, uncle; that's old-fashioned. She's taking me home to her folks for a while.

THE RECOUNT SUIT
Hall and the K. K. K. Lose One Contention

The contest of the nomination of Olcott for governor on the republican ticket is going on at Salem before Judges Bingham and Kelly.

The demurrers to the complaint were overruled except on the question of the legality of voters changing from one party to another on nomination day. The court ruled that such changes are legal. Whether this will be to the advantage of one side or the other in the contest is unknown, but from the point having been raised by the contestants it may be inferred that they think Olcott got more votes than they did from the eleventh-hour converts to the G. O. P.

Members of the clan in the Salem district have been called on for $15 each, instead of $2, to finance the fight. Olcott's friends have raised funds and are investigating the ballots and demanding recounts in precincts where Hall did not choose to do so. In his answer Olcott charges that votes were wrongfully counted for Hall, that Olcott votes were erroneously rejected, that more ballots were counted than the voters cast in some precincts and that votes cast for Hall for the democratic nomination were counted for him in the republican column.

In a couple of weeks the hearing at Salem before Judges Kelly and Bingham will probably be under way.

Recounts will probably be had in every county in the state, beginning Monday.

Senator Stanfield has jumped into the breach and he'll prevent any reduction in the proposed duty on wool or he'll know the reason why.
