Uniform Laws Needed

How Collection of Just Debts May Be Prevented by Differing State Statutes.

An effort to bring about better coordination and greater uniformity among state laws dealing with business and banking is being made by the American Bankers Association.

It is pointed out that, although the country is a unit commercially, and citizens of any one state may do business that reaches all over the country, most laws governing business transactions are made by the different states, with application limited to their own local jurisdictions and often in conflict with laws in other states. It is held that state laws should be uniform so that the same transaction will not be subject to different sets of rules according as state laws differ.

To illustrate the disadvantages of conflicting laws, the following illustration is given: Mr. Jones lives in New York where the statute of limitations outlaws a note in six years. He falls into the error of assuming that the same rule prevails everywhere. He visits Maryland and loans $1,000 to his friend, Mr. Smith, taking a promissory note. As the note carries interest Mr. Jones is in no hurry for his money and he believes Smith to be financially responsible. Finally at the end of four years Jones concludes he has loaned Smith the money long enough and seeks to collect the note from him. But Smith can deny liability and point to the statute of Maryland which Jones is surprised to learn outlaws a note after three years.

Changes Recommended
The particular subjects of legislation recommended by the association for enactment by State legislatures during 1923 include uniform acts on negotiable instruments, bills of lading, warehouse receipts, stock transfer, and fiduciaries.
Under the head of laws for better protection of banks in particular transactions are proposed measures dealing with limiting liability on certified checks; instruments based on gambling or usurious consideration; time limit on stop payment; payment of stale check; adverse claim to bank deposit; payment of forged or raised check; deposits in two names; deposits in trust; competency of bank and corporation notaries; non-payment of check through error; Saturday afternoon bank transactions, and

Under the Federal Reserve and foreign banking are recommended laws on membership of state institutions in Federal Reserve System, and foreign banking. Penal laws proposed deal with false statements for credit; slander and libel of bank; checks or drafts without funds, and burglary with explosives.
Gomper on Socialism
State socialism is repugnant to the American mind for a great many reasons. Americans generally prefer to carve out the future in freedom. They are unwilling to accept the idea of an all-powerful state. It is the American idea that the people shall order the state and shape its course; not that the state shall order the lives of the people, fitting them into niches to suit a bureaucratic card index.—Samuel Gomper.

COULDN'T FOOL HIM
"What's this?" asked a medical student in a hotel restaurant, looking critically at the dish the waiter had placed before him.
"Just what you ordered, sir," replied the waiter, "breast of veal, braised."
"You quite mistake," rejoined the guest, removing with his knife and fork a bone from the meat and inspecting it. "This bone is a portion of the left tibia, near its junction with the inner malleolus. In other words, you have brought me a piece of the shank. Take it back and bring what I ordered."

Are You Dead, or Are You Alive?
Three thousand years ago lived an Egyptian King named Tut-Ankh-Amen. It sounded like a Stutter and the Gang at the Luxor Golf Club called him "Tut".
When Tut reached the Cake Eater age and got his Hair plastered back Right—he died. Dying was one of the leading Egyptian In-Door Sports and Tut's death was a Major Event. They shipped him into a Swell Tomb in the Valley of the Kings.
Three thousand years later a party of Snoopers dug up Tut's Tomb and all the Junk buried with him. The advertising Men took charge of Tut and in a few weeks have given him a Rep which makes Charlie Chaplin's, "Doug's" and M. "Day-by-Day" Coues' look like a last year's Almanac in comparison.
Dead for 3000 years! Lost! Forgotten! Then Bang! Advertised—and the whole world hollering for more news of Tut.
If advertising can thus put life into a dead One—what can't it do for a live One?
They could have dug up a hundred Tut's in the desert and if they had kept the good news to themselves—only a few Bald-Headed Historians would have ever known it.
You can have the best merchandise in the world. But if the world does not get Hep to it—the business will sleep along peacefully!
Remember Tut!

THE SERVICE OF A FAILURE
BY J. H. PUELICHER
President American Bankers Association

When Governor Walton of Oklahoma signed recently the repeal of the bank deposit guaranty law in that state, he performed an economic service to the whole country. I might even say that Oklahoma in passing that law, enduring its evil consequences for fifteen years and then frankly casting it aside as a failure, has performed an economic service to the nation. There could be no more convincing argument against the passage of similar laws in other states than Oklahoma's disastrous experiment.
The Oklahoma guaranty law was the first of its kind. It was enacted in response to the panic of 1907. But experience has only proved again that there is no substitute for sound banking. Relying on the fancied security of the guaranty law, people entrusted their banking to many who were unfit for the trust. Bank failures have been so many that the fund, supposed to guarantee deposits, created by assessments on banks, was long ago depleted.
It is estimated that with total liabilities created under the law in the form of warrants and sums owing to depositors amounting to $12,000,000, there are in the hands of the Banking Board uncertain assets of nominally $15,000,000, ranging in value from zero to only thirty or forty cents on the dollar, resulting in a deficit of many million dollars. Sound, well-managed banks have been heavily taxed by assessments to the fund, and the maximum amount that could be assessed on solvent banks is insufficient to cover the deficit.
It has been well said that guaranty laws make for looseness in banking methods, and saddle on the competent and honest the sins of the incompetent and dishonest.
Let us have only laws that raise the standard of banking. Let us have no laws that debase it.

HARDSHIPS AT EVERY TURN
Scott's Expedition to the Antarctic Seems to Have Been Long Succession of Horrors.
"The Worst Journey in the World," by Apsley Cherry-Garard, relates the story of Scott's Antarctic expedition, which perished from starvation. What exactly it meant to travel for five weeks, often in pitch darkness, over surfaces of appalling danger—comparable only with the worst ice-falls of a Swiss glacier—and in temperature which repeatedly fell to 100 degrees of frost, Mr. Cherry-Garard's pages show. On the voyage out there were interesting experiences at South Trinidad, where a landing was effected. One reads:
"The land crabs are a little short of a nightmare. They peep at you from every nook and boulder. Their dead, staring eyes follow you every step as if to say, 'If only you will drop down we will do the rest.' To lie down and sleep on any part of the island would be suicidal. These beasts even tried to nibble your boots as you stood, staring hard at you the whole time. They are all yellow and pink, and, next to spiders, seem the most loathsome creatures on God's earth."
UNGALLANT
When I was thirteen years old my mother and I were visiting friends in the country. One of their sons attracted my attention. I always tried to make myself appear old and sophisticated in his eyes, but he never showed me the least attention. I resolved that I'd make him speak to me before we went home. When my mother started off to the depot I remained behind and in the commotion was not missed. When I explained my situation to him and asked if he would take me to the depot he replied: "Aw, ya little idiot, go on, chase after 'em."
