Miss Hazel Quimby was an Albany visitor Saturday.

Mrs. Nash of Corvallis was a guest of Mrs. Mary Hayes Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Maxwell left Thursday for Tacoma, to visit for a week or ten days with Mrs. Maxwell's daughter and family.

Alex Power of Lebanon, for many years a resident and prominent business man of this city, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. McWilliams the last of the week.

Paul Green and family of Salem and Mr. Green's sister, Miss Irma Green of Independence, returned to their homes Monday after a day's visit at the M. E. Gardner home in this city.

Harry K. Smith, husband of Ida Ramsay Smith of Portland, died at Plymouth, Mass. August 9th. Funeral services will be held at Portland Friday of this week.

Joseph Enos, Cedric and Delbert Williamson and Ivan and Steven Smith are members of a Halsey garden club who plan to show garden and sugar beets, onions, cabbages, pumpkins, squash, sweet corn, watermelons, muskmelons, carrots and turnips at the county fair.

C. O. Dryden and wife and daughter Dicksy of Oregon City arrived early Monday morning and, accompanied by Mrs. C. P. Stafford, a little later departed for Bandon, where they will rusticate for ten days and visit with Mr. Dryden's and Mrs. Stafford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Dean, and brother, Ray Dean and family.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Stalnaker arrived Friday from Corvallis for a vacation of two weeks, for a two week's vacation, which they will spend with Mrs. Stalnaker's parents, T. P. Patton and wife, and at Cascadia.

J. L. Hamilton of Holley was in Halsey a few hours Tuesday on business and dropped into the Enterprise office for a few minutes. Mr. Hamilton remembers hauling lumber here, before we had a railroad, for one of the first half dozen houses erected here. He was a boy, and not a very large one, at the time. His father, Harvey Hamilton, was a pioneer sawmill man of the Brownsville country and the Brush Creek mill is still a reminder of those days when the winter road to it was even worse than now, which is saying a good deal.

J. F. Venner won his suit against Dr. Joseph by default.

J. W. Rector and family have gone to Newport for a good, long vacation.

Miss Edith Forrest, county Red Cross nurse, is home from her vacation.

C. L. Falk jr. has gone into partnership with C. H. in the meat market.

Monday night it looked as if rain would fall here, but it didn't. Portland got .02 of an inch.

Yesterday was the hottest day this year—98 in Albany, and see how cool it was this morning!

Mr. and Mrs. William Washburn of Brownsville were business visitors in Halsey Tuesday.

Miss Nettie Spencer got home Monday evening from a trip of about six weeks in southern California.

R. L. Winniford did not sell his farm. On account of ill health he has given a lease for two years to Gibson, a neighbor.

Will Penland and family of Pendleton arrived Tuesday, after a tour of southern Oregon, for a few days here before proceeding home.

The equipment of the dissolved union high school at Crawfordsville, which cost about $400, has been auctioned off at the county seat for $130.

John Sommerville, Lion county pioneer and uncle of County Treasurer Lenore Powell, died Monday, aged 82, at the home of his son Thomas at Harrisburg.

The Southern Pacific will sell tickets from all stations in Oregon to the Linn county fair and return for 14 times the fare one way, the minimum being 50 cents.

S. V. Hardin of Halsey is reported as having been cited to court at Albany for having parked his truck on the highway pavement without a mirror.

Twenty-one cousins, several brothers and sisters and grandchildren of Mrs. A. P. Blackburn of Lebanon, a pioneer, had a family reunion at Waterloo, Sunday.

Halsey payers of income tax reported are Bert S. Clark, J. C. Cross, H. C. Davis, Eva A. Evans, R. T. Fleming, O. W. Frum, A. J. Hill, George W. Laubner, E. B. and Lizzie Penland, D. Taylor and J. H. Van- nance. Some of these are farmers. Not all farms are money losers, evidently.

Among those summoned as jurors for September are C. H. Koontz, Effie Brock, J. D. Pittman, C. E. Stansard, Estella M. Carothers, S. E. Cole, Bertha J. Beck, E. Zimmerman, Bessie Bramwell, Otto L. Egle and John L. McFarland.

Mrs. G. B. Gage returned Monday from Corvallis, where she had been in a hospital with a broken rib. Her niece, Mrs. Alice West, the nurse, came with her for a visit of a few days.

When a double-yolk egg hatches it usually results in a monstrosity—parts of two chicks grown together, or something of the sort—but Mrs. Anna Blacklaw of Lebanon has two healthy normal chicks which came from such an egg.

The visit of Mrs. Frank Bennett of Eugene at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Robinson was the inspiration of a family reunion held Sunday afternoon on the banks of the Willamette. Dinner was served. Twenty-seven were present, including relatives from a distance.—Cor. Democrat.

A SALAD BED

Felix is a lovable little chap of almost four, whose parents moved last summer to Liberty from Indianapolis. One of the pleasures which small-town life has brought to Felix and his brother is a Shetland pony. A few days ago Felix was watching the pony while it enjoyed the tender green grass in the back yard. But soon Dexter's attention was attracted to a fine lettuce bed in the neighbor's garden near by, and he started for it. Felix tugged at the rein and coaxed, but to no avail. Dropping the rein, he rushed into the house, calling: "Mother, come quick! Hurry! hurry! The pony is in her salad bed."—Indianapolis News.

HARSH TREATMENT OF INSANE

Those Afflicted in Anatolia Confined in Dungeon, Their Only Diet Being Bread and Water.

The religion of the Anatolian peasant is streaked with primitive paganism—Christian though he be. A firm belief in nature spirits is one of these anachronisms. Melville Chater in the National Geographic Magazine describes how these spirits "cure" an insane person by exorcising the devil within him.

In a pitch dark dungeon underneath a church at Kaisariye, where Christians daily worship, insane persons lay upon the stone floor, manacled hand and foot, living on bread and water till the evil spirit had relinquished possession and had fled to attend to other satanic business. Since medieval times this particular dungeon has enjoyed local popularity for the exorcising of evil spirits. No matter how violent, the patient is usually calmed after a few days of bread, water and manacles and darkness.

BEAUTY IN CANDLE LIGHT

And the Modern Article Is a Great Improvement Over Those Used by Our Grandparents.

It is the property of candle-light to lend to the objects which it illuminates a beauty and grace that the glare of the electric light would immediately dissipate. For this reason the candle still holds a place in the housekeeper's regard. A modern candle of superior manufacture, when lighted, burns away, leaving no trace behind it, and is a considerable improvement upon the guttering, dripping article which our grandmothers frequently had to put up with. When the wick of a candle is lighted, the heat melts the wax into a tiny pool at the top of the candle. The melted wax is drawn up the wick, growing hotter as it approaches the flame, until it is converted by the heat into gas. It is this gas which burns and gives us light. As the wax of the candle is consumed, the flame travels lower, leaving the wick behind. In the olden days this bit of half-burnt wick had to be cut off every now and then with the snuffers, otherwise it got in the way of the flame and spoiled the light. But the modern wick is so plaited that as it burns it is thrown out beyond the flame into the air where it finds a supply of oxygen sufficient to make it burn away completely.

SUN'S RADIATION FALLS OFF

Periodic Variation in Power, Which Scientists Have Never Been Able to Explain.

It was recently reported in the daily press that Professor Abbott, a notable authority on all matters connected with the sun, had found that the sun's radiation would be a few per cent less this year than usual. This is really not a matter which should give us great concern, for it has long been known to the astronomer that the intensity of the sun's radiating power was variable.

There seems to be certain periodic variations, as yet unexplained. One thing that has been noticed is that at the time of a maximum of sunspot activity, when the number and area of the "black" spots on the sun are at their greatest, the radiation of the sun is more powerful than when the sun is free from the sun spots. This appears on the face of it contradictory, for one would expect the area of the dark spots to cut down the radiation. But it seems that the same cause which produces the spots has the effect of increasing the total output of solar energy. It is also to be noted that the sunspot period is about eleven years and that we now are passing through a sunspot minimum.

MILK FOR SMALL VOYAGERS

Cow Used to Be Regular Passenger on Ocean Liners Only a Few Years Ago.

Referring to the fact that a milk cow used to be taken on board ship, "mainly for the benefit of the children," as the advertisement had it, Joseph Conrad, one of the most distinguished living novelists, says: "It was the last living thing that came on board, already boxed and Hay is not very high in price, but the owner of a lot of it cannot afford to lose it, as he will if it burns up before he insures it. Some owners were hard hit when the warehouse burned here two years ago. C. P. Stafford's advertisement tells you how to avoid a total loss if your hay burns.
