

ENTERPRISE SUPPLEMENT

HALSEY, OREGON, SEPT. 20, 1923

Jots and Tittles

(Continued)

Paul Bierly is moving to the Black farm

Jim Drinkard is back in the Kootz store.

The Charles Straley family visited Corvallis Thursday.

Mrs. H. E. Davis went to Albany today on business.

McMahan & Frum shipped a car of sheep and lambs Tuesday.

W. L. Wells and family returned Tuesday from a Newport trip.

The Homer Mornhinweg family was here from Shedd Sunday.

Mrs. Esther Rike will cook in a Corvallis sorority house this winter.

W. J. Ribelin got home from Brooten Springs Friday, feeling more like a boy than ever.

Miss Bertha Leitner, the new high school teacher, will have her home with Prof. English's family.

Mrs. Geo. Alford of Irving, with two children, was in town Friday, the guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gormley.

County Superintendent Geer has mailed diplomas to the following, who passed the eighth-grade examination this month: Frances Streda, Lyan Scott and Doris Mondy, Harrisburg district; Mae Walter, Scio; Lily Glender, Riverside; Ethel Stevens, Powell; Neal Olsen, Plainview; Florence Froerksen and Marie Klatke, Knox Butte; Flora Eagle, Price; Herman Gassner and Enda Crabtree, Kingston, and Eugene Fox, Rex Harrison and Margaret Davis, Brownsville.

Harold Stevenson of the Stevenson Drug store of Brownsville was in Halsey a few days the first of the week, a guest at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stevenson.

Jess Pugh is moving to the Henry Zimmerman farm and William Zellmer goes to the place the former is vacating.

Enterprise office hours are 9 to 12 and 2 to 5, except Mondays, when the publisher is likely to be out of town.

Mrs. M. M. Ward of Brownsville arrived from Albany Monday for a few days' visit with the Karl Bramwell family before returning home.

The editor would like to know who left a jar of fruit at his door. He could at least return the can.

Mrs. M. B. Southern's daughter, Mrs. J. W. Clark, and husband have moved into the Grant house, in the southern part of town.

Mrs. A. W. Foote entertained the W. F. M. S. of the M. E. church Friday afternoon. Mrs. S. J. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Wesley and Mrs. J. C. Standish, made the lesson, "Malaysia and the Phillipines," very interesting.

Mrs. Frank Hadley was elected president for the coming year, Mrs. N. T. Sneed vice-president, Mrs. S. J. Smith recording secretary, Mrs. D. S. McWilliams corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arthur Wesley treasurer, Mrs. D. Taylor superintendent of Standard Bearers, Mrs. J. C. Standish superintendent of King's Herald and Mrs. B. M. Miller superintendent of L. L. B.

The Herald tells that Clyde Peacock, on whose farm near Albany prehistoric relics have been dug up, has a new collection of souvenirs. Nightly flight of melons from his patch occurred. He stayed out there one evening. A party of boys appeared. He sought their acquaintance, but they seemed bashful and fled to the brush. He now has some perfectly good bicycles as mementoes of the evening.

Mrs. J. W. Moore took little Max to Portland for a slight additional operation on his eye.

Mrs. S. E. Young of Albany came up Wednesday and visited until Friday at the McWilliams home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Penland drove to Portland Thursday and attended the conference of the M. E. church, after which they drove to their farm in Sherman county, returning Monday.

Dean and Cecil Bityeu and Carl Bass drove to Rogue River Sunday morning on a hunting trip, expecting to be gone several days.

E. S. Addison and family of Lorane spent the week end at the R. L. Winniford home. Mrs. Addison is Mrs. Winniford's sister.

Mrs. May Huston came home from Brooten Springs Saturday, returning Sunday for a longer stay. She reported her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Dauley, slightly better.

Congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith of Tacoma on their fourteenth wedding anniversary, Mrs. S. J. Smith gave a dinner Sunday. Additional guests were Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams and Elliott.

Halsey's new Methodist minister is Rev. Mr. Parker, formerly of Creswell. Mr. Cook goes to Stayton.

The cannery of the Eugene Fruit Growers' association is short of help, according to J. O. Holt, manager.

Lafayette George Cornwell, said to be the oldest man in Lane county, died in Eugene at the aged of 96.

Divorces are decreasing in Marion county, according to a statistical report prepared by Grant Boyer, county clerk.