HALSEY, LINN COUNTY, OREGON, THURSDAY, SEPT. 27, 1923

NO. 9

JOTS AND TITLES

Brief Chronicles of Happenings in Halsey and All Over Linn County.

Some time ago the Enterprise announced the engagement of Albert Fouts, the garage man, and Miss Grace Robinson. Last week they were married without saying a word to the editor. They will have their home in Miss Nettie Spencer's house on first street, which has had a new cement sidewalk laid, a new roof put on and other improvements made this year.

Night overtook day last week end and now is leading—growing steadily longer while day decreases. And a bit of fire seems pleasant in the morning and sometimes in the evening.

Many immature fruit trees whose owners neglected that cultivation which would conserve moisture have died this year in Linn county, and many apples have shriveled with the heat before they were ripe.

Despite the fact that Linn county has had no club leader during the last year, the total of club exhibits at the State fair equals that of any previous year. While the number of children engaging in club work this year is not as great as last year, a far greater number comparatively completed their projects. The stock exhibits were 16 pork production, showing 51 hogs; 7 sheep club members, 12 sheep; 9 dairy calf exhibits, four exhibitors of calves, 5 calves; 4 of goats, 6 goats; 7 cooking club exhibitors, 15 sewing club, 4 vegetable club and five canning club exhibitors. There were 109 club members with exhibits.

Miss Helen Armstrong was in Eugene Friday.

Clifford Carey, recently returned from California, spent the week end at home.

Thursday night's showers were not heavy, but they gave the air a sweeter flavor.

L. L. Swan of Albany was here Tuesday looking after the Kirkpatrick estate and transacting other business.

Miss Cleona Smith came home from Eugene Friday. Because of practice teaching, Miss Smith had to begin her school two weeks early.

Roland Marks returned Tuesday from his summer's employment at Tacoma and is making preparations to again enter O. A. C. at Corvallis.

A. C. Armstrong drove to his ranch in Douglas County Sunday taking two sheep to place on the ranch. He will return the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moore went to Portland Friday and attended the funeral of Mrs. Moore's father, J. W. Keeney, that afternoon. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wright in Portland until Sunday.

Miss Laura McBride, accompanied by Mrs. Dave Froman, both of Albany, drove to Halsey Saturday, where Miss McBride was the guest of her aunt, Rose Powell, while Mrs. Froman visited her mother, Mrs. M. M. Ward.

"Hollywood" was advertised in last week's Enterprise as the screen attraction at two movie houses. The editor saw it Monday at the Globe in Albany. It shows how Angela Whitaker longed for and strenuously sought a screen career and how her elders in the family, who had no such ambition, were drawn unsuspectingly and against their wills into that role and won success before Angela even got a start.

Bonds for Bridges

Budget Committee Cuts Out County Agent

The county court decided to let us vote Nov. 3 on issuing $115,000 bonds for a new bridge at Albany and $67,856.80 as one-third of the cost of one at Harrisburg, the state to pay half for the Albany bridge and that city one-fourth and Lane county and the state each one-third of the cost at Harrisburg. Then the state road commission, last Tuesday, voted to pay one-third the cost of the Albany bridge, and there you are.

If the bonds are voted they will not be issuable unless the state pays half for the Albany bridge and it and Albany and Lane county pay the other shares specified.

The county budget committee Tuesday cut out the $2800 asked for the county agent and extension work fund, reduced the county fair appropriation from $1,750 to $825, increased the roads and bridges funds and those of the sheriff and county clerk and cut down the pay of recorder, assessor, surveyor and superintendent of schools. The budget calls for $15,742 more than last year.

Mesdames A. C. and Horace Armstrong were shopping in Albany Tuesday.

W. P. Elmore Dead

Father of Prohibition in Oregon Passes

(By Ralph Lawrence)

Brownsville, Sept. 27.—The whole town was shocked at the news of the sudden death last Elmore. He was apparently Monday forenoon of Rev. W. P. well the evening before and had preached both morning and evening at the Baptist church. He gave a testimony Sunday night in his sermon about "being ready" for the coming of the Lord.

Monday morning he was in Mr. Uber's second-hand store, Mr. Robertson was present when he asked Mr. Uber if they couldn't have "a word of prayer." Mr. Uber gave his consent and they departed to an upper room to pray. In his prayer he said that if God wanted to take him home, he was ready. It seems his heart was bothering him that morning.

They had only got down stairs when he fell. Mr. Uber and Mr. Robertson laid him on a mattress, where he expired before anyone could be called.

Truly a man of God was called away and it is the family's and community's loss we mourn. We can't begin to tell his good deeds. The whole state, almost, knew him. Surely he was always "about his Father's business," a friend to the widow and orphan, a zealous worker in the church and out of the church.

The funeral was from his beloved Baptist church. Rev. Mr. Cline preached the sermon. He lies at rest in the Masonic cemetery, and the whole town mourns.

Mr. Elmore was a drinking man in his earlier years. In 1892 he was living on his farm near Brownsville when he was elected to the legislature.

In 1896, while mayor of Brownsville, he joined the Baptist church, and took a stand for prohibition. And Brownsville went dry. With the exception of two years when North Brownsville was wet, it has been dry ever since. And Elmore led the fight that first made "Oregon bone dry."

Mr. Elmore was sent to the legislature. In a recent article on Mr. Elmore in the Albany Democrat E. E. Stanard quotes R. P. Hutton of the Oregon Anti-Saloon League as saying of the election of W. P. Elmore to the legislature:

"He was not a candidate of any party, but was elected by the votes of all. Voting against Mr. Selling for speaker, he was yet honored with appointment on the ways and means committee, the most powerful of all committees. He did not speak a dozen times—a half dozen would be more correct—yet he carried the day for a bill or against it every time he spoke."

Stanard adds: "Mr. Hutton said that he wondered if Brownsville and Linn county appreciated their grand old man as do the big men of affairs and moral forces of the state at large. He said that Brownsville should erect a fountain with the figure of a pioneer, and that the fountain should commemorate the work of W. P. Elmore, who while mayor gave prohibition its initial tryout and proved that it was practicable."

O. P. Coshov was the magistrate and A. A. Tussing, now of Halsey, the city attorney, who made the law a terror to its violators in those days.

Stanard says: "When he began the fight he was laughed at and ridiculed as a fanatic and dreamer, but he lived to see the day when the legislature was proud to give him the honor of presenting a resolution that Oregon's vote be in favor of a prohibition amendment to the national constitution."

OREGON NEWS BRIEFS

Western Newspaper Union's Cleanings Outside of This County

More than $5,000,000 spring chinook salmon will be taken from the Oregon hatcheries this season.

The city of North Bend is ready to start the municipal dock for which $30,000 were voted some time ago.

A sawmill near Foster, owned by Mr. Maelley, burned to the ground Monday. The loss was estimated at $20,000.

Despite a steady program of building carried on during the last twelve months, Bend is experiencing the most acute housing shortage in her history.

H. M. Chadwick of Medford has been appointed assistant secretary of the desert land board to succeed Joseph McAllister, who recently resigned.

A bull calf valued at $500 has been offered by Dr. W. T. Phy of Hot Lake as first prize in the grade dairy cattle class at the Union county fair, September 26-29.

One of the greatest cleanups in illicit liquor trade of the state is drawing to a close in Lincoln county under the direction of State Prohibition Officer Cleaver.

Injuries incurred on the Old Oregon trail, about 15 miles east of Pendleton, in an automobile accident, resulted in the death of Ernest H. Adams of Baker.

A few hours after taking two drinks of moonshine whisky, which it was said he purchased from a bootlegger at Flavel, Peter Lindquist died at his home in Hammond.

Preparatory to starting work clearing right of way on the Eugene-Klamath Falls line, camps are being erected hastily. The work is being started from Kirk north.

An allotment of $26,000 for work on the Coquille river has been made by the war department from funds provided for river and harbor maintenance in the army appropriation bill.

A. C. Hopkins, since August, 1921, secretary of the world war veterans' state aid commission, with headquarters in Salem, has submitted his resignation to the commission and will re-tire October 1.

The Oregon Co-operative Grain Growers have started legal proceedings against several of its members who have failed to make deliveries according to the terms of the marketing agreement.

Senator C. L. McNary has returned to Salem after a three week's investigation of the forests and the problem of reforestation. Senator McNary is a member of the so-called senate reforestation committee.

Construction work on the west end of the Eugene-Klamath Falls line of the Southern Pacific (Natron cutoff) will be started this fall, according to announcement at Eugene by Oscar Ellis, Southern Pacific engineer.

Brown rot has attacked approximately 25 per cent of the prunes in a number of Marion county orchards and the loss will be serious, according to Earl Percy of the Oregon Growers' Co-operative association.

Bandon high school students have saved a fund of $500 for construction of a gymnasium and a campaign has been discussed among the public-spirited citizens of that city to furnish the remainder of an estimated cost of $2500.

Interest in the amount of $1,296,325, due on highway and world war veterans' state aid bonds, will be paid Monday by the state treasurer. Interest on highway bonds aggregates $566,325, while the interest due on the world war veterans' state aid bonds totals $440,500.

Receipts of the state corporation commission for the year ending June 30, 1923, aggregated $348,892.52, or an increase of $24,171.57 over the previous year, according to the annual report of the department. Expenses for conducting the corporation department during the year totaled $23,218.76, leaving $325,673.76 available for transfer to the general fund of the state.

Mrs. John J. Fallin, formerly a resident of Canyonville, but at the present time living in Salem, was selected as the representative of Oregon gold star mothers to attend the war mothers' convention which will be held in Kansas City during next week.

For the first time since its creation the state grain inspection department last month, showed a profit according to a report filed in the executive department at Salem. The report for August, 1923, places the entire earnings at $10,907.16, and expenses at $8528.53.

Guarded by his faithful Alredale dog, the body of Charles A. Stark, Sutherlin postmaster, was found about a half mile east of the city, where he evidently had gone to commit suicide because of his failure to make good a shortage of more than $1500 in the postoffice funds.

Roy B. Corson, who was $14,000 short in his accounts as cashier of the First National bank of Bandon, waived preliminary hearing when arraignment before United States Commissioner Dodge at Myrtle Point and was released on a bond of $10,000 furnished by friends in Bandon.

Charges filed by the Oregon State Bar association against Joseph Woerndle, Portland attorney, demanding that he be disbarred from practicing law in this state, were practically all substantiated in the findings of Judge Bagley of Hillsboro, which were filed with the supreme court.

Elbert Dyer's offer to the state game commission of a site for a trout hatchery on Ferry creek, near Bandon, has been accepted by the commission on recommendation of M. L. Ryckman, superintendent of trout hatcheries, and work will be started on construction about the first of October.

Fear shipments from Medford to the eastern markets number 1438 cars, and there are from 150 to 300 more cars of the commercial crop yet to go. The apple crop shipments to eastern markets are in full swing. It is estimated that the commercial apple crop will be from 800 to 1000 cars.

Governor Pierce has announced he will later call a special meeting of the state emergency board, for the purpose of authorizing an appropriation for the reconstruction of the industrial plants at the Oregon state penitentiary. These plants were recently destroyed by fire with a loss of approximately $155,000.

The fruit crop grown in the southern and southeastern part of Baker county this year is especially heavy and producers are obtaining satisfactory prices. The ripening period for apples and peaches this season has been prolonged, giving growers an opportunity to handle and market the greater part of the fruit.

Ferdinand Danielson, 13, of Lowell and Marie Liles, 13, of Goshen were chosen at the Lane county fair as winners of highest honors in boys' club work in Lane county and won the annual trip to the state fair at Salem. Girls who won the trip are Loretta Zahm, 15, of Wendling and Leone Templeton, 14, of Junction City.

There were two fatalities due to industrial accidents in Oregon during the week ending September 20, according to a report prepared by the state industrial accident commission. The victims were William Quansell, logger, Knappa, and Roy Sturms, teamster, Enterprise. A total of 710 accidents were reported during the week.

The financial statements issued by the Astoria banks showing their condition at the close of business on September 14, shows that the amount of deposits in the five local institutions had been increased by $609,012.26, or 5 1/2 per cent since the former statements were issued for June 30 of this year. The total amount of deposits at present is $7,777,978.

In the final session of the annual convention of the Oregon State Pharmaceutical association at Pendleton, Eugene was chosen as the meeting place for next year. The following officers were elected by the association: L. L. Colman, Portland, president; A. E. Crosby, The Dalles, vice-president; L. B. Russell, Portland, second vice-president; W. F. Chapman, Roseburg, third vice-president; A. W. Allen, Eugene, secretary, and Jack Laus, Portland, treasurer.

Active preparation for the logging of its first unit of more than 500,000, 300 feet of timber acquired by the Western Lumber company in the Oakridge region in the Cascade national forest has been going forward, and the mill, with a dairy capacity of 1,000,000 feet, will be ready probably to begin cutting next June. Meanwhile a temporary sawmill with a capacity of 50,000 feet is nearing completion and will be used to saw timbers for the main mill and other development work.

Virgin Wool Doubles the Wear

in Oregon City Boys' Suits, Overcoats and Mackinaws

HOW will they WEAR? How long will they look well? These are questions you ask when buying clothes for your boy. Oregon City boys' suits, coats and mackinaws answer them with built-in service.

The fabrics themselves are woven on the Oregon city looms—woven from pure virgin wool. This is new fleece from the sheep's back with all its natural life, its strength and great warmth. Distinguish between VIRGIN wool and ALL wool, because all wool often means wool cloth that has been worn and then reworked.

If you're anxious to make the budget for your boy's clothes balance this fall, try fitting him out with Jacobs Oregon City. See how virgin wool fabrics ACTUALLY DOUBLE THE WEAR. You'll find the Oregon City label and the virgin wool guarantee in garments sold at this store.
