The Boy Scout Camp It Tends to Develop More Worthy Manhood

From the report of the Fish Lake Boy Scouts' Camp by Scout Executive Harold F. Cook we quote a few items:

We are especially indebted to Leslie L. Haskin of Brownsville, whose classes in wood-craft and nature study and whose inspirational talks about the evening campfire were features of the camp that added much to the character building and citizenship training program around which camp life was moulded.

Every scout in camp proved himself a gentleman. On two distinct occasions the camp received the compliments of visiting scout officials, for the fine spirit shown and co-operative feeling manifested. One occasion was when H. A. Scullen, scout commissioner of Corvallis, after having been at the camp a week, made the statement that he had never had the pleasure of being with a more congenial group of boys while on camp.

Mr. Haskin, after being in the camp for two weeks, congratulated the scouts on the co-operative attitude toward the camp and toward one another. He further stated that he has never had the experience before of being with a group of boys where profanity and personal enmities were so little in evidence.

It was a custom of the camp for the scout officials to alternate in supervising the boating on the lake. Members of the staff that performed this duty included Scout Executive Cook, Deo McClain, C. H. Stewart of Albany, Mr. Haskin of Brownsville, L. O. Jennison of Salem, and Mr. Scullen, A. S. Good and J. D. Wells of Corvallis. Archie McKinnon, forest ranger, who was in the employment of the forest service and in charge of construction work, also assisted in this way.

The evening campfire programs, under the direction of Mr. Jennison, were a source of much inspiration and merriment to the scouts. Could we have had you present when the scouts sang, as only scouts can sing when on camp, and then could have had you see them listening intently to some worthwhile story of experiences as related by a member of the staff, and could you have seen the expression of reverence during each evening's devotional period you would undoubtedly have determined that the campfire alone was worth the entire cost of the trip.

At the public hearing September 5, to investigate prices and markets of grain and grain products, the millers admitted that the market quotations on grain were "merely bid prices and do not mean anything"; that "you can't go by the prices in the newspapers," and "buyers are not revealing what their private deals are." Therefore it would appear that the newspaper market prices as quoted by the Merchants Exchange are not reliable and do not represent actual sales or prices.

Since we published the item complaining of the fellow who called on a girl in our neighborhood waking us up at 1 P. M. by the backfire of his Ford while trying to start it, three young ladies have accused us of "bawling" them out. We never realized before how many girls there are with fellows who own back-fire Fords.—Hermiston Herald.

Mr. Geo. Alford of Irving, with two children, was in town Friday, the guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gormley.

Harold Stevenson of the Stevenson Drug store of Brownsville was in Halsey a few days the first of the week, a guest at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stevenson.

J. B. Cornett of Shedd, secretary-treasurer of the Pacific Co-operative Woolgrowers' association, says that body will handle over 2,000,000 pounds of wool this year.

Apparently Mrs. Vandemeyer Slept.

ly Mrs. Vandemeyer slept. But her words had awakened a new uneasiness in Tuppence. What had she meant by that low murmur, "Mr. Brown?" Tuppence caught herself nervously looking over her shoulder. The big wardrobe loomed up in a sinister fashion before her eyes. Plenty of room for a man to hide in that.

Half-ashamed of herself, Tuppence pulled it open and looked inside. No one—of course! She stooped down and looked under the bed. There was no other possible hiding place.

It was absurd, this giving way to nerves! Slowly she went out of the room. Julius and Sir James were talking in a low voice. Sir James turned to her.

If we could get rid of our false modesty, if in the home, the church and the school boys could be taught that their bodies are the living temples of the Holy Ghost that should not be profaned, then the juvenile delinquency problem would cease to be a problem. A bad boy means danger to a good girl. The sooner we learn that we are our brother's keeper, the sooner we appreciate that the welfare of every boy concerns us. Then we shall have a better, cleaner and brighter world.—Eugene Register.

Guy Layton has moved to Salem.

"CAPITALISTS"—AND DON'T KNOW IT

A good many people who rail against capital are beating their own backs. Some are saving bank deposits; some have shares in building and loan associations; some have bought a liberty bond; some have ordered a stock of goods for their store. All of them, without knowing it, have performed a great miracle, for they have turned the work of their hands or their brains into a new product which, while it helps them, is helping thousands of others. Every one of them is a capitalist as most of us are—unless we are tramps or paupers or ne'er-do-wells—and we may well be proud of the name. For capitalism, instead of being the devilish invention of a few selfish interests, is the great material force that has lifted millions from poverty, degradation and slavery.

Like other human institutions, capital can be abused. So, too, can eye-sight and health and education and love. Part of America's great job is to remedy and prevent such abuses. Some people, however, do not cut off their feet to get rid of their corns.

Capital is today's surplus. It is what gives us a better start tomorrow than we had today. If we don't save it, we don't have it, and when we have it, it is useless until it is put to work. If thrift is right, then it is right that people should acquire funds as the result of their industry and self-denial. But money that is merely hoarded is like water that becomes stagnant; it is harmful, not helpful. When money is put to work, it is like water power; it turns the wheels of industry, increases employment and raises the general level of comfort.

When every producer can create a surplus and that surplus can be gathered into a common fund and put to work for the common good we shall have reached an ideal condition.—From "The Greatest Family in the World."

Mill City had frost Friday night.

Mrs. English, the professor's mother, has returned to her home in Eugene.

C. V. Curtis has moved into the Grant Reynolds house from the Pforster farm.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Henry (Dad and Mam) spent the week end at Newport.

Mrs. Chester Purdy was in town Saturday from the South-ern farm and called on Mrs. M. B. Southern.

F. M. Porter left his fair-touring herd at Canby and made a visit to Halsey the last of the week.

E. Firchan of the Albany bakery announces that he has again cut the price of one-pound loaves of bread to 5 cents.

A. R. McCall, T. J. Jackson and W. A. Ewing, budget committee for the county, began wrestling with their problems Tuesday.

Fred Jackson's big Belgian stallion went to the state fair on a Ford truck. So the horse brings his rival, the truck, into his service.

A Halsey correspondent of the Herald says that a mule on J. L. Palmer's place picked up a calf by the neck and carried it around, dropping it occasionally to fight off attacks by its mother and other cattle and a horse. The calf was fatally injured.

The Shedd correspondent of the Democrat says: Mrs. Lyman Pennell and Mrs. Ida Robson of Shedd and Mrs. Charles Troutman of Albany attended the funeral of John Mays, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Grace Mays of Springfield, Friday. Mrs. Mays was formerly the Shedd telephone operator.

In a letter to Lawyer Tussing Mrs. Norton, late proprietor of the hotel Brownsville, relates that she had a narrow escape from loss in the big Berkeley, California fire. The second and third houses from her residence were ablaze and at one time it was thought she would be burned out.

Some time ago the Enterprise announced the engagement of and Miss and Mrs. Leas week they were married without saying a word to the editor. They will have their home in Miss Nettie Spencer's house on first street, which has had a new cement sidewalk laid, a new roof put on and other improvements made this year.

The Herald reports that Mrs. J. B. Giff, who went east a month or two ago with Sheriff Dunlap's widow, has written from Washington, D. C., to an Albany friend. The two ladies had been at the capital a few days. They visited Edna and Gertrude Aehagon at Columbia university in their travels. Mrs. Dunlap expects to make her home with a brother at West Point.

Through financial help from the Red Cross of Albany, Olga and Augusta Wruck, sisters of William Wruck and Mrs. Arthur Huntley of Scio, sailed from Bremen for this country last week Wednesday. The father of the girls was killed in Germany in the war and they and their mother were later exiled to Siberia. On the way there the mother died from hardships. The girls got back to Germany but were unable to raise money for their fare to America without help.

The first visitors at the Enterprise office Saturday morning were two sign painters, touring by auto and camping with their families and doing jobs of painting when found. One of them had once been a "printer's devil" in Canada. Next came a colored native of the West Indies who had also camped out on the way here from Eugene, Junction City and Harrisburg. He is soliciting funds to carry him through college, preparatory to missionary work. His sincerity in this was indicated by a request that contributions be forwarded to the college. Soon the rains will put a damper on such camping trips.
