America Saved These From Death

Jackie Coogan Will Go to Feed Them.

Jackie Coogan will forsake the movies for ten weeks this summer to lead a modern "children's crusade," appealing to the children of the United States for a million-dollar shipment of foodstuff for the destitute orphans of the near east and then sail to deliver the goods in Greece, Palestine and Syria.

Jackie's campaign will start with a series of condensed milk appeals on the Pacific coast. Similar campaigns for carload lots of milk, flour, clothing and quinine will then be held across the continent.

Churches, Sunday and day schools, moving pictures, theaters, clubs and fraternal societies will co-operate and the Boy Scouts, in addition, will greet him in all the cities through which he passes on his trip across the continent prior to sailing.

The objective is 100 carloads of food, to go from New York.

His father and mother will accompany him and pay all expenses.

Mr. Coogan writes: "For two reasons I am glad to allow Jackie to represent the American children in this worthy cause. First, I feel that the near east relief is doing one of the greatest pieces of child welfare work in the world, in which I am proud to have my con assist. But I have another reason—a more selfish one, perhaps. I am sure that the sight of these thousands of destitute fatherless and motherless children for whom the institution is caring cannot fail to bring home to him a realization of the common duty of all mankind to one another.

Mrs. P. C. Burt of Bend has in charge 850 boys on Corfu island, under the shelter of Mount Olympus, where Greek and Armenian orphans may soon use the legendary playground of the gods of ancient Greece. The Greek government has offered 30,000 acres on the mountain to the near east relief organization for use in the care and training of 11,000 orphans. Farm settlements there to provide

Where Toyland's Joys Are Little Known

These youngsters in a Near East Relief orphanage in Beirut, Syria, are playing with the first toys they have ever seen—the cast aways of some American nursery. Recent years of war and famine in the near east have given the children little chance to play. Most of them didn't even know what it was to have enough to eat until relief workers found them.

for graduates of orphan schools are contemplated. Farms may also be provided for refugee families from Turkey who agree to adopt youngsters from the orphanage, the policy being to place children in private homes wherever possible, that they may enjoy the family life which it is impossible to give in the orphanages.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—An investigation by the department of agriculture between October, 1922, and March, 1923, showed bakers' margins over the cost of flour ranging all the way from 4 cents on an 8-cent loaf in New Orleans to 6 cents on a 10-cent loaf in Chicago.

The department report said: "Lower prices depend upon more efficient baking and distribution methods, higher yields per barrel of flour and larger volume of business by individual bakers."
