When a man is hurrled or excited he speaks the language of his youth. In this way speech betrays one's early life and training.

It is much easier to disguise one's appearance than to disguise one's speech. One rarely, if ever, gets completely away from the speech of one's youth. I once heard a man declare that he could tell the state of the Union from which anyone came by bearing him talk for a few minutes He insisted that there were peculiaritles of speech peculiar to each state. and that these peculiarities were never altogether outgrown. Few of us ever cultivate our powers of observation to the point where we can distinguish slight variations of speech : but most of us feel able to distinguish by his speech a man from the eastern or western or southern part of our

It is perhaps easier to learn a new language than to correct one that has been learned incorrectly. I remember an interesting example of the way in which the mind clings to the form first learned. Bispham, it will be remembered, was an ardent advocate of music in English. I remember one occasion when he sang, "When I Was a Page," and sang it as only he could sing it. Then, to illustrate the superito the audience, he began to sing it in English. Everything went well un til he reached a certain phrase, then his speech betrayed him into the Italian. Chagrined, he tried several times but every time his speech betrayed him into the langauge in which be had so long sung.

The speech of the majority of us is influenced by the speech of our associates. This is especially true of children, and rothers are often able to tell with we m their children have been playing by the child's uncon

Speech also tends to betray one's occupation and interests and social status, as well as one's childhood environment and one's associates. As Elict puts it:

Sixty Thousand Children Trained

How America rescued 250,000 peole from certain death, saved 16,000 erphans from blindness, restored 14,-159 orphans to home life and self suport, gave medical aid to 22,000 peo de although twelve physicians died while fighting typhus, clothed 505,-100 refugees, accomplishing these re sults in spite of obstacles that would have daunted anyone except an Anglo The annual picnic of the tele- Baxon, is told in the annual report of Near East Relief which has recently been filed with Congress.

Moving 20,000 children a distance of hundreds of miles until practically Ruth and Vivian and Mrs. C. H. all the Armenian children are out of Davidson drove to Albany Satur. Turkey; feeding, clothing, housing, and training 60,000 children, graduating boys and girls at the age of 16 to make their own way as mechanics ing, school teachers, skilled artisans and farmers, giving faith, hope, and courage and the will to fight back to self support to thousands of peopleall these are but a few of America's achievements in the Near East last year.

A fund of nearly $9,000,000 was raised and expended at an overhead cost of $678,000

These and other facts are found in the annual report, copies of which may be secured on application to the Near East Relief, J. J. Handsaker, State Director, 613 Stock Exchange, Portland

"The achievements, great as they are, give us no sense of pride," states Handsaker, "only a sense of gratitude that we have been able to do as much as we have and of regret that we could not do more. Last year at one time our Near East Relief workers were surrounded by dying men, women and children at five relief stations at once. A heart broken relief worker took down the orphanage sign from his overcrowded orphanage because there was no further room and children continued to come pleading

At the present date there are at least 500,000 people homeless in Greece, people who two years ago were self supporting and self respecting residents of Turkey. A third of a million people are slowly starving to death although the people aided agencies are attempting to fight their way back through unspeakable discouragements to self support.

The report closes with urgent recommendations from 15 prominent Amercans recently in the Near East that the work be continued until the chil-Iron now in the orphanages are prought to self support and that the needs of the hundreds of thousands of other helpless children in the Near East be urged upon America. Among those signing these recommendations John H. Finley, aditor of the New York Times, Ex-Governor Allen of Kansas, Dr. Cavert, Secretary Federal Council of Churches, Bishop Cannon. M. E. Near East Bundle Day May 21 Near East Relief Bundle Day is Wednesday, May 21st. On this day the people of Oregon are asked to contribute outgrown, out of date, and cast off clothing for the 60,000 children in American orphanages and for the 500. 000 people homeless in Greace.

It is almost impossible in the midst of our prosperity to realize that children on the other side of the world are clothed in rags and even starving to death. One third of a million people are slowly starving although the government, relief agencies and the people themselves are doing everything possible to bring them back to a condition of self support. To such people a suit of warm clothing is often the difference between hopeless discouragement and the will to fight on. The clothes are not given away if the peraon applying is able to render any kind of service in exchange. The need is imperative for used garments of all kinds, coats, dresses, sweaters, stockings, etc. Local churches are cooperating in this Bundle Day or bundles may be sent directly to the Near East Relief, $15 Stock Exchange,
