HALSEY HAPPENINGS AND COUNTY EVENTS

Short Stories from Sundry Sources

Now the days grow shorter, LaVelle Palmer will teach the Lake Creek school.

Kenneth Cross spends the vacation with his mother, Mrs. E. A. P. La Follette, at Payette, Idaho.

Misses Leone Palmer and Louise Robnett are attending the summer session at the Monmouth normal school.

William Corcoran and his wife Dorothy were passengers Thursday to Portland, where they visited their sister, Mrs. Marcella Kirk. They returned Friday.

Oscar Chambers, arrested at Lebanon on a charge of running a moonshine still at Blodgett, escaped on the way to Corvallis but was later discovered in the top of a tall tree and jailed. People are not always above the law when they think they are.

There was more apparent interest in the recent annual school meeting at Shedd than here. Sixty people took part and elected J. C.

Clay director and Miss L. Shedd clerk.

Monuments to Mrs. Sarah J. Perry and Mrs. Kate Smith were unveiled at the Pine Grove cemetery by the Shedd and Halsey delegations of Neighbors announced in the Enterprise.

Mrs. B. M. Bond, Bert S. Clark and A. A. Tussing and Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Marks and Miss Mona Bond attended the Shedd Eastern Star Meeting Wednesday evening of last week.

The Express solves the mystery of that stone fence on Peterson's butte, near Lebanon. It quotes George W. Wheeler as saying the wall was built 46 or 47 years ago as a line fence between the property of his father, Albert Wheeler, and that of Richard Liggett. It was built of stone because posts could not be set in the rocky butte.

Shedd will have a community exhibit at the county fair. Mrs. E. W. Shedd, W. H. McConnell and William Schreiber are a committee in general charge of it, with Fair Manager Gilkey, and Mrs. Kate Croft will have charge of the home economics department, C. A. Pugh of grains, C. H. Brown of dairy products, W. A. McConnell of grasses and Mr. Schreiber of a school parade.

Where the Democrats are in National Convention

W. G. M'ADOO

Dry; pro-league; starts with the most votes but not the two thirds requisite for a nomination.

Little Rhody's senate got into an interminable filibuster by a democratic minority who were able to block all legislation until an amendment should be voted for submission to the people to repeal the constitutional clause which limits the franchise to owners of property of a prescribed valuation. This jello of aristocracy the republicans would not relinquish. Finally somebody let loose a dose of poison gas under the speaker's chair. Some of those present had been lawmakers so long that they were immune to gas. Some were car idiot unconscious. The session was adjourned. Then a lot of the republican members fled outside the state sergeant-at-arms could not arrest them and for a quorum.

At Lebanon last week Mrs. J. J. Weaver, 73, had a fall in her home, but did not hurt, she was hurt much. A few hours later she was taken ill and at 3 the next morning she died.

CORDELL HULL

Boss of the democratic sap works.

A. E. SMITH

Apostle of the wets; next to M'Adoo in number of votes lined up for first ballot.

At Bend they are hunting a snake 25 feet long, with a head as big as a tougaloo whiskey jug. It's not a sea serpent. It is said to have been turned loose by a disbanded show troupe.

O. W. UNDERWOOD

Wet; potential dark horse.

Attended by the scout of bacon in a pack on the back of Maria Olsen, a cougar jumped on him as he and Earl and Jesse Laskey were about to pitch camp where they proposed to reel chittem near Marshfield Monday night. The Laskeys beat the beast off with an ax, but it had torn the back and got a taste of the meat and wanted more and it hung around until daylight.

The pioneer picnic at Brownsville had the largest attendance in its history Thursday.
