Halsey Happenings etc.

(Continued from page 5) Bert Minckley made a business trip to Holley Saturday. Miss Peggy Lovely was a business visitor at Eugene, Friday. Mrs. J. W. Blain and Mrs. Fred Burk went to Albany Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Asher from Toronto arrived Saturday to visit Mrs. John Lewis. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Koontz and son Herman left for Newport Sunday to spend a week. Mrs. J. A. Newman of Corvallis returned to her home Saturday after a visit at the A. J. Newman home. Ira Williams of Hillsboro stopped at the C. P. Stafford home for a few hours Monday on his return from Coos Bay. Rev. C. M. Cline of Grants Pass formerly pastor of the Baptist church of Brownsville, took the train for Vancouver, Wash., Friday. Mrs. L. O. Moore and son Jack of Vancouver, Wash., returned to their home Friday after a visit with John Moore and family. Among 68 to whom Superintendent Geer mailed teachers' certificates on Monday, as a result of the June examinations, were Earl Loucks, Ralph McDonald, Margaret Michels and Amanda Carlson. Frank Leeper was in Eugene Monday evening and was accompanied home by Mrs. Florence Leeper and son Francis. Mrs. Leeper returned to her work the following day, but Francis remained for a visit with his grandparents. Mail goes to Brownsville daily (except Sundays) at noon. Halsey and Brownsville are now pretty well united, with four stages and two mails each way daily, in addition to the railway mail and passenger service through Albany. A fire which broke out Wednesday forenoon of last week on the Breitenbush river, two miles above Detroit, burned over more than 4000 acres part of which was logged-off land and part standing timber. The Hammond lumber company alone lost more than $100,000. Jack Dean, who has been visiting his uncle, C. O. Dryden, and family in Oregon City for the past two weeks, is again a guest of his aunt, Mrs. C. P. Stafford, and husband. After a few days here Jack will return to his home at Port Orford. A dance at the Skirvin warehouse Friday night was attended by about 200 people, who had a jolly time until about 1 the next morning. Besides Eugene, Junction City, Harrisburg, Brownsville, Pine Grove, etc., California contributed to the attendance, there being some tourists present who passed the night in Halsey. Music was from a piano and several brass instruments. The application for the appointment of a receiver for the estate of E. O. Steward came up at Albany Thursday before Judge Bingham. Attorney Tussing represented J. L. Hayes, who has charge of the property. Letters from Steward asking Hayes to look after tax payments were introduced. One of these came from Moro and one from Idaho. The case was continued at the request of the heirs. Then came a letter from Steward saying he would return promptly. The heirs will have to wait a while.

The platform pays homage to the memory of Woodrow Wilson, denounces the republican administration as reactionary and corrupt, declares the Fordney-McCumber tariff act unjust, unscientific and dishonest and pledges the party to drive out and punish corruptionists. The following is a summary of the important planks: Denounces republican tariff laws and favors a tax on commodities that will promote competition, protect against monopoly and produce a fair revenue to support the government. Points to the revenue measure passed by the last congress as an illustration of the policy of the party and denounces the Mellon plan as a device to relieve multi-millionaires at the expense of other tax payers. Favors enactment of legislation to restore the farmer to economic equality with other industries. Would revise the transportation act with a view to adjustment of freight rates, eliminating the rate-making section, abolishing the railroad labor board and restoring to states control over interstate rates. Demands prompt action by congress for the operation of Muscle Shoals plants to maximum production of fertilizers. Denounces the contraction of legitimate and necessary credit and currency which bankrupted hundreds of thousands of farmers and stock growers and demands that the federal reserve system be so administered as to give stability to industry, commerce and finance. Pledges the continuation of reclamation projects and an equitable adjustment of the mistakes the government has made. Favors strict public control and observation of all nation's natural resources, recovery of navy's oil reserves and all other parts of the public domain which have been illegally transferred to private interests. Government regulation of the anarchic coal industry and all other operations controlling the necessities of life favored. Declares for an American owned merchant marine, American built and manned by Americans. Favors a constitutional amendment which will prevent members of congress from serving after their defeat or re-election to be accomplished by convening congress immediately after national elections. Favors generous care and assistance to veterans of all wars. Revision of the corrupt practices act to prevent excessive campaign contributions and expenditures favored. Asserts the republican administration has failed to enforce the prohibition law and pledges the party to respect and enforce the constitution and all laws. Condemns the efforts of the republican party to nationalize the functions of the states and opposes the creation of unnecessary bureaus and federal agencies. Favors exclusion of Asiatic immigration. Immediate independence for the Philippines favored. Would grant territorial form of government to Alaska. Favors drafting all resources of the nation in time of war. Demands sweeping reduction of armaments and favors securing joint agreement with all nations for world disarmament. Declares there is no substitute for the league of nations and advocates the following referendum of the people: "Shall the United States become a member of the league of nations upon such reservations or amendments to the covenant of the league as the president and senate of the United States may agree upon?" Pledges vigorous enforcement of existing laws against monopoly and illegal combinations and enactment of additional legislation if necessary. Reaffirms its adherence and devotion to those cardinal principles contained in the constitution and the precepts upon which our government is founded, that congress shall make no laws respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances; that the church and the state shall be and remain separate, and that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States. These principles, we pledge ourselves ever to defend and maintain. We insist at all times upon obedience of the orderly processes of the law and deplore and condemn any effort to arouse religious or racial discussions. Platform in full up at week

"GROCERIES AND FEED" MAY SATISFY MORE THAN ONE HUNGER Girls who want to succeed in business frequently ask whether bookkeeping isn't a blind alley occupation; whether once proved dependable in handling details, they won't be expected to content themselves with the petty things as long as they work. And other girls, hunting an excuse, often, for going in search of the romantic success that they think to find in some big city, insist that "working for father never gets you anywhere. Why, your father and mother can't even seem to learn that you're grown up, if you're a girl!" Yet father may be in his own comfortable fashion, a "capitalist," able to choose for daughter business connections and short cuts to an established place, that not one wage earner in 10,000 finds. And the task of winning father's confidence by hard work plus some clever salesmanship, is, if we may believe the daughters who have tried it, just the same sort of work plus salesmanship that's required to get ahead on any job. It's the story of the bookkeeper plus the story of the daughter entering father's business that is indicated in a dignified letter head reading: I. R. LEONARD Dealer In GROCERIES AND FEED Sullivan, Indiana "After graduation," writes Miss Leonard, "I accepted a position as bookkeeper and clerk in my father's grocery store. Soon he began consulting me on minor details and management. Then he turned the whole over to me to manage. Later, deciding to retire from active business, he sold it to me. Now I own and operate one of the largest grocery stores in southern Indiana. "I recommend bookkeeping, store management, and saving till she can go into business for herself to any young woman who has a talent for detail or for management. She can succeed and enjoy her work," continues Miss Leonard. "A clean grocery store, with packages all in an orderly row, with goods displayed to the best advantage and the fragrant odor of good coffee rising above it all, ought to appeal to the housewifely instincts of any girl."

"Yet in her sorrow pleased that one who had suffered was near her." —Evangeline. The word sympathy comes from words that mean to suffer, and there can be genuine sympathy only where there has been similar suffering—except on the part of those rare souls who have a genius for sympathy. Specialists say that when a tuberculosis victim is hemorrhaging, there is nothing better for him than the company of another victim who has hemorrhaged and recovered. If the latter assures the sufferer that he himself once suffered just as severely or worse and got over it, the assurance does more good than any medicine that can be given. The sympathy of one who has survived the same suffering allays the victim's terrors, calms his nerves and allows nature a chance to exert her healing influence. It is much the same with all our ills, whether mental, physical or psychological. The presence of some one else who has suffered the same sort of ill and survived it brings us courage. Such presence assures us that we are not singled out by fate for especial torment. According to the oriental tale, a young mother once came to Buddha, carrying her dead baby in her arms. She told him how the child had been bitten by a serpent, and how it had grown pale and quiet soon afterward. Her neighbors had told her the child was dead, but she refused to believe them. She called upon the great teacher to heal her child and to restore the color to his cheeks. Buddha, to keep her from distraction, told her that if she would bring him a measure of black mustard seed from a house where no "father, mother, child or slave hath died," things would be well. The next day the woman returned without the seed. She told him she had searched everywhere in vain. Everywhere she went they had black mustard seed, and all were willing to give her a measure of it; but in every house some one had died. Then Buddha gently told her she had found searching for what none finds—that bitter balm I had to give thee. He thou lovest dead on thy bosom yesterday; today Thou knowst the whole wide world weeps with thy woe; The grief which all hearts share grows less for one.

Initiative and Referendum

Seven initiative bills will stare the voters in the face at the next general election. There is the monopoly insurance bill, making state insurance under the Oregon compensation law exclude all competitive forms of accident insurance for all hazardous occupations, and the proposed repeal of the state income tax enacted by the last legislature goes on with a big petition. Three measures will be on the November ballot enacted and referred by the legislature: The voter's literacy amendment; condemnation of rights of way for public improvements; amendment including Spanish war veterans under state bonus act. Opponents have taken the initiative to repeal the oleomargarine tax imposed by the legislature and a bill is up to create a state board of naturopathy. A single-tax amendment, a cut rate interest measure, U'Ren's one-house legislature with occupation as basis of representation, bills to repeal capital punishment and abolish the public service commission, and the state grange income tax bill failed for lack of signatures.
