Will a Halsey Pupil Get $15,000 Prize?

Invited to Study Eyesight and Lighting

(The Open Window)

A gigantic essay contest, fostered by the light and power industry with the fullest co-operation of the educational forces of the country, will be launched Oct. 1. The subject of the essays will be "Better Lighting in the Home."

About 100,000 boys and girls in the state of Oregon will be eligible to compete for prizes that have been offered. In Portland, alone, about 35,000 children will have a chance to take part.

The first prize will be a $15,000 model electrical home, which will be erected in the city or town where the writer of the first prize-winning essay lives, or any place where he or she desires. Ten valuable university scholarships worth thousands of dollars are the other prizes.

The director in charge of the contest in Oregon is A. C. McMicken, Portland Electric Power company, Portland, Oregon, from whom additional information may be secured.

All boys and girls 10 years old or over, attending public, private or parochial schools, are eligible to take part.

Miss Lillian Reynolds and brother Roy went to Jefferson Thursday to spend a few days at the home of their aunt, Mrs. H. W. White.

Mrs. S. M. Hansard of Lebanon was in Halsey Thursday.

Lawrence Wells went to Eugene Wednesday to register at the Bible university, which he will attend this year. Miss Genevieve is staying at home to rest this year. She expects to enter college next fall.

While passing the Mitzner place last Saturday some tourists from Ohio turned their car over in the ditch. A lady was driving, and thought her boy was in danger from a bee. In trying to scare the insect away she lost control and the upset resulted. The little fellow was extricated from under the car unhurt except for scratches and bruises. The father and mother escaped injury. They were bound for California.

Everett Standish died Monday morning in a tuberculosis hospital at Salem, aged 27. He entered a sanitarium four years ago last month and since then authorities and his family have left nothing undone that would tend to his comfort or prolong his days. The disease toward its conclusion developed into tubercular meningitis and drugs were resorted to to relieve the pain. Funeral at the Halsey Methodist church today.

STATE INCOME TAX STANDS

Court of Last Resort Decides Against the Wold-be Shirkers. They Must Pay

The state supreme court has thrown out the application for an injunction against the collection of the state income tax. That body holds that the legislature had full constitutional authority to enact the law. Now the suspended collections may be resumed. The suspended payments will probably be made payable Oct. 1.

Industrious Thief Visits Halsey

Carries on His Person a Wagonload of Loot

G. J. Rike, a farmer southeast of town, makes an interesting report of some of last Sunday's activities in that section of a tall, slim individual, dressed in black and wearing a pair of brown eyes, who failed to leave his name or address.

The sabbath day pilgrim took a good suit of clothes and other garments at Mr. Pence's. At P. Simmons' he annexed a violin, a suitcase and a few garments. B. M. Miller lost to him a suit of clothes and an Odd Fellows' 80-year pin. A flashlight and a fountain pen disappeared from Spurlin's home. He touched S. C. Veatch more heavily, taking a suit of clothes, an extra coat and vest, a flashlight, a suitcase and a 22 rifle. His ambition grew as he progressed and at Mr. Rike's he took a third suitcase, a fourth suit of clothes, two watches, some money and a box containing some papers of more value to Mr. Rike than to him.

Arriving at H. L. Straley's, he seems to have concluded to call it a day and, with a suitcase slung over his back and one in each hand and the violin under his arm, he took a scooter to Halsey and departed on a south-bound train. He seemed well pleased with himself and the world and chummy toward the brakeman, exhibiting Mrs. Rike's watch and taking the violin from its case and caressing it.

Eugene officers were notified by wire that he was on the way, but he left the train, carrying his load, without being apprehended. Likewise Monday morning, when he was seen again, there were no prying officials around.

School opens Monday. In the high school the teachers are Henry F. English, principal; Mrs. Inez Freeland, assistant; Mrs. Irma Shotwell. In the grades, Louise Robnett, seventh and eighth; Mrs. Irma G. Blackburn, fourth, fifth and sixth; Mrs. Eldon Cross, first, second and third.

There are 21 tunnels in one stretch of 21 miles on the new Klamath cut-off. Men are rushing outdoor work during the good weather and when the rains come they will work in the tunnels. The summit on the pass is 7800 feet above the sea.

News Notes From All Over Oregon

Epitome of Events in the Beaver State

Native bred wild ducks are comparatively plentiful in waters of Umatilla county.

J. E. Thompson, for the past 10 years chief auditor in the state industrial accident commission, died at the home of his mother in Salem.

Railroad service between Tillamook and Portland was halted by forest fires at Wakefield and Snark, about 38 miles from Tillamook.

More than 50 forest fires were started in the Umpqua national forest by a severe thunder storm. A heavy rain which followed extinguished the fires.

Chinook salmon eggs totaling 4,000,000 have been taken out for planting from the McKenzie river hatchery. Last year the record was 15,000,000 eggs.

A car of Oregon Wealthy apples was sold at auction at New York at $3.25 @ 3.50, averaging $3.37 for extra fancy and $2.90 @ 3.50, averaging $2.95 for fancy.

One of the army De Havilland airplanes used on forest patrol was badly wrecked at Eugene when it struck a fence at the edge of the municipal aviation field.

Half of the town of Sisters was destroyed by fire which started in the C. L. Gist hotel, apparently from a defective flue. The loss was estimated at $25,000.

Thirty boys of Polk county, who have been raising Jersey calves for exhibition at the state fair, will gather at Rickroall September 19 and hold an amateur Jersey show.

The state highway commission at a meeting to be held in Portland September 25 will open bids for the construction of approximately 15 miles of new road and one bridge.

Hop crop estimates of Oregon are being revised upward as a result of the last surveys of the Willamette valley yards. Figures now place the 1924 crop at close to 50,000 bales.

Two large barns on Morris Koons' farm, 12 miles north of Eugene on the Pacific highway, together with a large quantity of hay and grain and some machinery, were destroyed by fire.

R. P. Bonham of Portland, district immigration inspector, was in Salem arranging for the deportation of eight inmates of the Oregon state penitentiary and eight patients at the state hospital.
