Meat Animals at Pacific International

This beautiful Shorthorn bull won grand championship honors at the Pacific International Livestock Exposition last fall. Frank Brown, of Carlton, Ore., the first president of the Exposition and one of its board of directors, stands behind the animal, and his little grandchild occupies the place of honor.

Beginning with Saturday, November 1, hundreds of animals, bred for symmetry of outline and for the greatest proportion of meat consistent with constitution, will be on exhibit for the admiring public. There will be the Shorthorns, in their red, white, and roan dress; the Herefords, massive white faced animals with wide spreading horns; the Aberdeen-Angus, black as night and without horns of any kind. The Milking Shorthorns and Red Polled cattle, the later solid red, will also be shown.

The hog show is one of great merit and excellence, and Poland Chinas, Duroc Jerseys, Chester Whites, Berkshires and Hampshire swine will come to contest for honors from many states. In the sheep department are a bewildering display of breeds. The long, medium and fine wool breeds will all be represented. Angora and milk goats will also be shown.

The poultry department has been increased in size and the exhibits will be more numerous and of finer quality with a number of new breeds shown. The commercial egg division will be of especial interest to poultry raisers. The Exposition is remarkable for its variety of domesticated animals shown. It is worth visiting for the sake of seeing the progress made in the production of these animals which minister to man's wants and needs.

Iowa Makes Big Strides in Clearing Animal T. B.

Twenty-five counties in Iowa, department records show, are engaged in tuberculosis eradication under the area plan, and more cattle are tested in that state monthly than in any other state. Moreover, Winnebago county, Iowa, which is the first county to complete area work, is now on the list of modified accredited counties. This designation means that bovine tuberculosis in the county has been reduced, by testing and the removal of the reactors, to less than one-half of 1 per cent.

A number of packers are paying a premium of 10 cents per hundred-weight for hogs originating in modified accredited areas. The first carload of hogs in Iowa to receive the 10-cent premium originated in Winnebago county and topped the market in Chicago Monday, July 28, as well as receiving the premium, which amounted to $17.67 for the shipment. In paying the premium for the hogs the president of the packing company which purchased them stated, "I want to pay the premium on some more of them. They are worth more."

Good pure-bred rams get the growly lambs that sell on early market at handsome profits.

It is excellent practice to put away, under shelter, all farm machinery immediately after using it.
