"It's what I think to myself sometimes, as there need nobody run short of victuals if the land was made the most on, and there was never a morsel but what could find its way to a mouth."—Silas Marner.
 When political reformers and political economists speak of this subject, they use the terms "production" and "distribution." One faction says no one would need go hungry if all the land were made the most of. They say the reason some people never get enough to eat is because there isn't enough food in the world to go around—that is, they say the fault is with production. These people believe that there should be so heavy a tax on land that no one could afford to own any waste land. They believe that if taxes were assessed according to the number of acres a man owns instead of according to the assessed value of the land he owns that no man could afford to own more land than he could farm intensively. They believe that the present owners of large farms and ranches would have to sell their land to men who would farm it as intensively as the European peasant farms his little plot. These people believe that when all the land in the country is properly cultivated everybody will have enough to eat. They forget the natural law recorded by Solomon centuries ago, "When goods increase, they are increased that eat them."
 The other faction says the fault is with distribution. They say there is plenty of food in the world if we could just get it to those that need it. We can appreciate this phase of the problem when we go into any average kitchen. The common statement is that the American family throws into the garbage can enough to feed the European family. Certainly the scraps of bread thrown away, the gravy and sauce left sticking to the sides of the kettles and pans, the peelings so thick as to waste the vegetables or fruit, the butter container with butter sticking to it, the bones filled with marrow, and the scraps of fat meat thrown away are all wastes of food.
 On every farm there are windfalls, fruit that the farmer cannot sell. In the fields are potatoes too small to gather; heads of cabbage too small to market or to store for winter use; tomatoes that would spoil before they could be sold; and the like.
 If we could stop all waste in kitchen and store and field, the food saved would certainly go far towards feeding all those who now go hungry.

Coal Betrays Thieves
 The unusual role enacted by a few lumps of coal in starting an international investigation and recovery of loot by German police at Hamburg was revealed by officials of the Southern Pacific company.
 Expertly packed in straw, lumps of coal were found in a shipping box delivered to a San Francisco firm. The box had been exported from the interior German town of Neuhaldensleben and was supposed to contain about $600 worth of ladies' kid gloves.
 A claim for the gloves was made by the consignees and in its process of investigation the freight claim department of the Southern Pacific had the coal analyzed. It was found dissimilar to any mined in the United States and to strongly resemble that mined in the famous Ruhr district of Germany. Further evidence disclosed that pilferage of the package occurred prior to the entrance of the package into New York. German authorities were notified.
 The San Francisco glove company, to which the shipment was consigned, has just received word from Hamburg that seventy-five dozen of the gloves have been recovered by German police.

 Week-end guests at the J. S. McMahan home were Mr. and Mrs. Graham Steele of Portland and on Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Walker of Albany and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson of Brownsville.
 R. L. Winniford, who was on the P. B. Beatty farm, east of town, last year and moved to Lorane, committed suicide last week by shooting himself at his home. His funeral was at Eugene Sunday and was attended by many Halsey Odd Fellows. Financial troubles had made him despondent.
 Miss Doris Lake spent the week end with her parents, Mr.

and children visited at the George Workinger home Sunday.
 W. P. Wahl and wife and daughter Wilma were in Albany trading Saturday.
 Charles Kutsch of Halsey and Miss Minnie Schulze of Mount Angel were married at the latter place. There were 150 people present. Mr. and Mrs. Kutsch will reside in Halsey after their honeymoon.

Proper Time to Harvest
Sweet Clover Seed Crop
 The best time for harvesting a sweet clover seed crop is when three-fourths of the seed pods have turned dark. It should be cut in the morning when it is rather tough, in order to minimize shattering of the seed. It is advisable also to haul it on tight-bottomed racks on account of the shattering.
 No machine has yet been developed that will give absolute satisfaction in harvesting sweet clover, but the grain binder will probably do better work than other machines. If much of the clover is to be handled, it will pay to equip the binder with pans to catch the shattered seed.
 Unless the sweet clover can be threshed within two weeks after cutting, stacking is advisable. The best plan is to thresh as soon as possible with the minimum amount of handling, owing to the tendency of the seed to shatter. A clover huller of a separator, with some adjustments, will thresh the crop.

For Representatives
 Hon. A. K. McMahan and Hon. S. H. Goin ask re-election upon their past legislative records. At the last session they favored all progressive and forward-looking legislation. With their past experience they are in a position to begin work at the next session the day it meets, as they are fully acquainted with the workings of that body, which takes a new member some time to acquire.
 They are especially to be commended upon their splendid team work at the last session. Mr. Goin, being a farmer, dairyman and stock man, was especially active in this line, while Mr. McMahan, being a lawyer, was able to take care of the legal points; and on other matters they counseled each other, and the house journal records them voting together on all important matters.

Cutting Soy Bean Hay
 Soy beans may be cut for hay at any time between the full bloom stage, and the stage when the leaves begin to turn yellow, about five weeks later.
 Yield, ease of curing, and quality of hay will mainly determine the time to cut. The largest yield obtainable at one cutting is secured by cutting when about one-fourth of the leaves are yellow.

High School Notes
 (School Reporter.)
 Miss Nora Pehrson, now a Junior at Willamette University and a graduate of the Halsey high school in the class of '21, spent Thursday afternoon visiting the high school. Another attractive visitor was Miss Lena Bass, also a former student.
 Two of the high school rooms have been altered by an exchange of equipment. The laboratory cabinets are now in room 3, thus making more blackboard space in Mrs. Freeland's room, where it has been needed.

Political feelings are found to be running high in the Civics class. There are 28 members who are planning a private election of their own on November 4 to decide matters for themselves. Judging from the general outlook there is hardly any danger of a tie for the office of president in this coming straw vote.
 The program carried out in the high school Friday afternoon in observance of Frances E. Willard day included essays given by Truman Robnett and Agnes Chandler and a recitation by Georgina Clark. Mr. English gave a general talk, stressing the effects of the tobacco and alcohol habits, after which each freshman contributed some interesting facts on the same subject. The program closed with the singing of "America."

A very perplexing problem was settled when the juniors decided on the style of ring they are to have. As it is an attractive model, very popular with other high school students this year, they are justified in being satisfied.
 The outlook for the annual hallowe'en entertainment has surprisingly developed from bare interest into enthusiastic prophecies of a thorough celebration. Undoubtedly there will be an enjoyable affair coming from the pent-up store of quietness.

The public is invited to hear the lecture, "Lincoln on World Peace," by Mr. Rudeen, Friday afternoon, Oct. 31. Mr. Rudeen is widely known as the peer of whistlers and song bird mimics. This varied program, which is both interesting and instructive, will be in the city hall, from 3 to 4 o'clock.
