CABINET SUPPORTS PLAN

Active Negotiations on War Debt May Begin Soon.
 Paris.—The cabinet approved the suggestion made by both Finance Minister Caillaux and Foreign Minister Briand that the way be prepared for a settlement of French war debts and directed these two ministers to study the question with a view to instituting early negotiations.

Active negotiations, it was said at the Quai D'Orsay, probably will begin within 15 days, but it was thought at the ministry of finance that this opinion was too optimistic because France can make a definite proposal for a settlement only after the budget is voted for 1925. By the budget vote it will be seen whether the French parliament approves Caillaux' plan to take the receipts under the Dawes plan out of the regular state revenue account and use them in part for debt settlement and in part for the completion of reconstruction work in the devastated areas of the north of France.

Running a farm garden is no longer a boy's job. It plays such an important part in keeping the cost of living down on the farm that every farmer has an effort to take a few days off in the early part of the season to plow and plant the garden.
 The good farmer keeps himself and his farm well posted.
 A handsome, durable, convenient farm gate is a three-fold blessing. Count 'em.
 If it is good enough to take prizes at the fair, it will sell well and is good enough for foundation for future production.

From Scrubs to Profitable Cows

Scrawny Animals From Arkansas Made Good Producers at Iowa Station.

The efficacy of the "corn-crib cross" has again been demonstrated. The same experiment has demonstrated also the worth of the pure-bred cross. Here is the story: Over in the state of Iowa the experiment station officials decided to go across to the neighboring state of Arkansas, into a section where feed was scarce and what cows they had were poor indeed, and buy a few of them, bring them home, feed them well and breed them to pure-bred bulls. Such an experiment, they reasoned, would demonstrate the value of good feeding to men who had herds of similarly poor cattle and it would show how such herds could be improved from generation to generation. Seven cows, four yearling heifers and two heifer calves were purchased. They were small and undernourished.

Got Same Food.
 When they reached their new home, however, they got the same feed and care as the cows in the station herd. Instead of hay in winter and pasture in summer, they were given alfalfa, sludge and a well-balanced meal ration. Instead of indifferent housing and hit-and-miss care, they had a good stable and chores were done by the clock. The first year, under this kind of attention, two four-year-olds in the lot produced 3,084.6 lbs. milk and 149.24 lbs. fat. This production they steadily increased until, at seven years of age, they produced an average of 4,907.7 lbs. milk and 229.91 lbs. fat, an increase of 59 per cent in milk and 54 per cent in fat. Allowing for the natural increase due to greater maturity, the increase due to the cumulative effect of good feed and care was 49 per cent in milk and 46 per cent in fat. It was also shown that the younger an animal comes under good feed and management the greater will be its response. Comparing the records of the two four-year-olds with those of the older cows in the lot, they increased 14 per cent in milk and 8 per cent in fat as compared with the mature cows. Those coming as heifers produced 27 per cent more milk and 24 per cent more fat than did those started at maturity. There is a lesson here for the most of us. It is just possible that too much has been said about the importance of good breeding as compared with the emphasis that has been placed on good feeding. We have been in sections where pure-bred bulls have been used for generations, but where the average production of the herds was very low. It was a case of poor feeding. When we consider that these Arkansas cows were as poor as could be found, we must conclude that there would be very few 3,000-pound cows, if all cows were given a real chance.

Control Tomato Blight by Spraying or Dusting
 Tomatoes are very largely injured by leaf spot or blight, which by injuring the leaves prevents the maturity and development of the fruit. They also are likely to be sun scalded because of no protection by the leaves.
 This trouble can be controlled to a considerable extent by spraying or dusting with bordeaux, which is profitable on rich soils, but may not be profitable on poor soils. The effects of the trouble can largely be avoided by setting out only stocky, well-hardened plants early in the spring.
 The disease lives over in weeds, grass and rubbish of the garden, and therefore, much can be done in the way of prevention by keeping the garden clean. Bulletin No. 1258 of the United States Department of Agriculture gives full details about this disease.

Best Kernels to Select as Seed for Corn Crop
 Whether to select smooth or rough corn for seed is a subject of general interest. Many farmers believe that smooth, flinty kernels indicate deterioration in quality and lower yields, while others maintain that they secure their highest yields from such seed. General observation and experiments conducted in many states for a number of years show rather conclusively that smoothness of the kernels is not a sign of deterioration in quality, but usually indicates that conditions under which it is grown do not favor a rough deep-kerneled variety.
 It is now known that rough kernels are usually deep kernels which require a rich soil and long-growing season to mature.
 Smooth kernels, on the other hand, tend to be shallow. They mature early. On thin upland soil or in the drier parts it will be better to select rather shallow,kerneled, smooth ears for seed, and somewhat deeper kernels and rougher ears for rich bottom lands.
 Use clean seed.
 Grind screenings before feeding them to stock.
 Treat potato seed with formaldehyde or corrosive sublimate.

Resolutions of Respect in memory of Marcella E. Kirk, who died April 15, 1925:
 Again that unwelcome yet relentless visitor, Death, hath entered the portals of our lodge room and removed a dear sister to the beautiful home beyond. Her zealous work in the interests of our beloved order and her life laden with gentleness and kind deeds, have won for her the plaudits of the good Master and will cause her name to be cherished in the affectionate memory of our lodge.
 And Whereas, the all-wise Father hath called our beloved into the new Jerusalem, where "happily she hath heard the signal of her release on the bells of the holy city, the chimes of eternal peace," and she having been an ardent worker in the teaching of Friendship, Love and Truth, therefore be it Resolved, That Purity Rebekah lodge No. 130, in memory of her loss, and to express its Rebekah love, drape its charter in mourning for thirty days and that we tender to the family of our deceased sister our sincere condolence and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

Three of the four runs in the third were the result of a fly to right field in a difficult position. The ball hit the fence and then rolled into the grass, where it hid itself until the batter came trotting home.
